The Story of 1927

by S. G. RAYMENT,

EDITOR, Kinematograph Weekly.

IN addition to the drafting and passing into law of the Cinematograph Films Bill, there are many other unusually significant developments to record in a most eventful year. The Bill itself, after the first inevitable dislocations have been adjusted, will probably be found to be generally helpful, and it is to the credit of the President of the Board of Trade that he has so freely entered into consultations with the leaders of the Industry and has accepted representations from all sections.

While the main impetus was derived from the political demand both here and overseas for a fuller representation of British ideals and ideas upon the screen, the Industry itself has recognised that some sort of overhaul was called for, and its endeavour to secure an official and legal status for its blind and block-booking reforms was blended by the President of the Board of Trade into a composite enactment that made concessions to the commercial and patriotic demands alike.

The Act which has been before Parliament the greater part of the year, and has experienced considerable amendment in detail in its course, has therefore the characteristics of two entirely dissociated functions. The first section restricts blind booking and block booking, and the third deals with provisions for a quota of British films. The other two parts are devoted to details, firstly as to registration of films, and secondly as to definitions, penalties and powers.

The great objection of the trade to the quota provisions was on the ground of interference with the right of a purchaser to buy what he likes and when he likes. The opposition of the exhibitors was however eventually allayed, although to the last protests came from the Lancashire territory, long after there was any possibility of their being effective. It was known quite early in the discussions that the mind of the Government had been made up and the Bill was going through. Nothing but a change of Government could affect this result, and the whole of the efforts of the Trade were devoted to persistent efforts to render the burden as light as possible.

In the House.

On the whole the policy was remarkably successful. The repeated consultations with the leaders of the Industry at the Board of Trade office had their effect. While a long period had been uselessly spent by the House of Commons Committee in proposals and counter-proposals based upon party politics, the third reading brought a breath of freshness into the atmosphere and there was a businesslike determination to make the most effective use of the weapon that had been put into the hands of the Government.

The House of Lords did little except, in its own Committee, to clear up one or two smaller points which had been brought to light in previous discussions. The last Commons debate had made a long desired concession on the subject of the director's nationality which the super-patriots had insisted upon in Standing Committee "C." A point which had been ceaselessly laboured by the Trade was admitted, and Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister expressed the opinion that the best interests of British film production would be served by allowing British film producers to call upon unlimited talent in the production of their films.

Another important ruling was made on the occasion of the same debate ; it is now laid down that " the expression ' British company ' means a company registered under the laws of any part of the British Empire, the majority of the directors of which are British subjects."

It would be too much to claim that this provision effectually bolts and bars the door to any development of an alien interest in our film industry; but we can at least feel that a definition having been given, there may be no more uncertainty on what threatened to be a very controversial subject.

A most important feature of the closing scenes in the Films Bill's progress was its final limitation. A date, September 30, 1938, is definitely given for the period of this legislation, and the view put forward earlier in the year that if the Industry could not establish itself in ten years it deserved no further support, was thereby endorsed.

The Act is reproduced in extenso in a later section of this work, and as an introduction to it we have secured the valuable assistance of Norman Hart, B.A., solicitor to the C.E.A., who has examined and reported upon its practical application in his article "A Short Analysis."

I do not propose, therefore, to go further into the actual provisions of the measure here, but it is necessary to make an effective record of the year's trade politics, to recall some of the direct and indirect effects of the legislative proposals.

Overseas Plans.

In the first place there has been a great deal more interest taken in the question of British pictures in this country and in the overseas Dominions. The States of Victoria and New Zealand have both introduced a corresponding measure and others are actively engaged in the preparation of their own enactments. Canada has re-awakened interest in the studio question and, beside the Government plant at Trenton, big developments are foreshadowed in British Columbia. India, always rather an uncertain quantity in film matters, is again promising new productions, the last item of news being concerned with a proposal of British Instructional for a historical drama, distribution of which is already assured not only in this country but through an arrangement with Ufa, on the Continent as well.

Our own productions have, of course, enjoyed a welcome revival. When we look back a year or so we find that things were almost at a standstill; now at the end of 1927 we have a healthy list of forty-four actually completed, awaiting release (some of them not yet trade shown), and at the same time there are nine more in production.

When it is realised that the exhibitors' quota is five per cent. for the year ending September, 1929, it will be seen that already there is a very full choice open with ample room for the option which encourages merit to receive its reward. This was, of course, the original and most formidable obstacle when the Bill was first proposed. The argument—and nothing but a practical answer was of any value—was that the officially encouraged British film would be put out because it was British, and not because it was good entertainment. Obviously if there were only just enough to fulfil quota requirements an exhibitor would be liable to have to pay monopoly value and it is the fear of this state of things that inspired the most active opposition.

First Fruits.

Now, while it would be too much to expect that every picture in the list to which we have referred is a winner, at the same time there is a reasonable opportunity of choice where the showman is making his bookings, and the fear that he had been faced with the necessity of showing whatever he was offered, to comply with the demands of the Act, has turned out to be unjustified, however natural it may have been in the early stages of the discussions. In other words the stimulus has had a strong reaction on the part of our producing units.

It has had an equally noteworthy effect in another vital respect. Money, which has in past years fought shy of pictures except perhaps in the theatre end of the business, has flowed much more freely, and as a consequence there is a much more promising support available for our production than ever before.

The first noteworthy development came early in the year, when the Gaumont British Picture Corporation was floated with a capital of two and a half millions. It co-ordinated the activities of Gaumont, Ideal, W. & F., Biocolor and the Israel Davis theatres. Several other important companies were formed, and towards the end of the year much was heard of new projects, not all of equal promise. But it is significant that two or three were heavily over-subscribed, including the important British International Pictures, Ltd., which absorbed the producing company and studios at Elstree and also the distributing firm of Wardour Films, Ltd.

In the earlier part of the year the rumours of mergers amongst the big American companies became more and more regular and detailed. Big theatre affiliations were reported, and no fewer than 589 halls were involved in the deal concluded by First National, Stanley Circuit, West Coast Theatres, Keith-Albee and Orpheum. There was also much talk at this period of an amalgamation between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and United Artists, but although persistent this was not brought to any practical result until halfway through December, when a remarkable state of affairs developed. To understand this, however, we must look back a little.

The Renter-Exhibitor.

Following the acquisition of two Birmingham kinemas, the Scala and the Futurist, by Paramount, a storm arose amongst the exhibitors throughout the country, whose cardinal objection to the principle of renter-owned theatres was at once aroused. Incidentally there are, of course, numerous established cases throughout the country, but opinion was most strongly expressed in the district concerned, as well as in other areas where special meetings were held to strengthen the C.E.A. opposition.

This eventually developed into a definite resolution to the effect that members would not book pictures with the renting firm concerned. The storm was soon allayed and the managing director of Paramount agreed to hand back one of the halls to be operated by the original owner, Sol Levy, and to use the other as a local shop-window rather than as a hall competing with other exhibitors. The matter as far as it concerned the Birmingham exhibitors, may be said to have dropped, but inside the Council of the C.E.A. the question was never forgotten, and in November a scheme was propounded which, arising partly out of this sentiment of self-defence, went a great deal farther and became in fact a direct challenge to all the principles of the renting side of the trade by the time it had come to a practicable stage.

After a certain amount of preliminary work had been done, and some secret meetings held which aroused much curiosity and led to many false rumours, a meeting of the General Council on November 4, had before it a scheme which aimed at the establishment of a Booking Circuit on co-operative lines.

This project, with which the name of Thomas Ormiston was associated, announced as its primary objects :

1. The preservation of the capital members had already invested in their kinemas.
2. To enable them to secure films at economic prices.
3. To enable them to participate in the normal developments of the industry.

It was explained in a lengthy report, which was based in the first place on the experiences of the American exhibitor and his fight for independence against the big producer-renter-exhibitor houses. These, it is recalled, had pursued a steady policy of building and purchasing theatres, and important mergers had taken place with circuits, particularly of recent months, which rendered the existence of the small man precarious.

The most obvious injury inflicted by these chains was the "outrageous" system of bars, both in time and distance, which they were able to enforce, and in addition there was a very strong feeling that the producing and renting interests, which represented only 10 per cent. of the total capital involved in the industry (as compared with 90 per cent. in theatres), should not be allowed to dominate the situation.

Financial Basis.

This was the analogy from the United States that opened the official arguments for the scheme. With special reference to this country the question of securing films at lower rates than were at present enforced was of course a strong temptation to the exhibitor. An estimate that film hire should be 25 per cent. of the takings was given, and it was argued that if, in a confidential report on past business, it was proved that members participating in the scheme had been paying more than this proportion their prices should be reduced accordingly.

It was suggested that the capital of the Society should be contributed by members according to the status of the hall, and the figures mentioned were £200 for each "A" theatre; £100 for each "B" theatre, and £50 for each "C" theatre. Interest would be at a maximum rate of 10 per cent. on these subscriptions, and all other profits were to be divided on a basis of dividends upon film hire, so that the co-operative principle, by which those who had paid most in film hire would receive most in dividends, would be followed.

The machinery to run this National Circuit was to be under the control of a board of directors, one to be elected from each of the principal exchange areas and three others from an agreed list of non-exchange areas.

To negotiate bookings for the circuit a small committee was to be appointed, and a series of local organisations was to be formed whose duty it would be to keep headquarters in touch with territorial needs.

There was considerable anxiety as to the best method of dealing with the exclusive rights of big pictures, of course, and a proposed solution would be to arrange special meetings in certain districts which should aim at eliminating unnecessary competition, possibly by an allocation of product or by effecting local mergers of capital.

Precautions.

An important provision in the arrangements stipulated that members should not be allowed to book any picture which the Circuit had failed to negotiate in its dealings with the renters. A heavy penalty was suggested for infractions of this rule.

This of course was an elementary safeguard, as was also the precaution that the franchise of the Society was personal to the member, and he was not empowered to dispose of it to any producer. Otherwise, of course, there would be an easy way open for the foundations of the whole scheme to be sapped.

In theory, it will be seen, there was much to be said for the scheme. Needless to say many of the C.E.A. branches expressed approval, but after a little further consideration it came in for a good deal of criticism. The Scottish and the Devon and Cornwall branches were the most notable in their questioning attitude, because by the time they came to consider it they had had before them an opportunity of seeing what sort of support could be expected from other sections of the trade.

In the first place, there was a prompt and vigorous reply from a fully attended meeting of the K.R.S., which issued a statement to the effect that it regarded the formation of the National Circuit with uncompromising hostility. Members pledged themselves not to do business with any such company and an arrangement was made to draw up a contract which would bind them under heavy penalties to this pledge.

This naturally carried much weight when the scheme was examined by the rank and file of the C.E.A., and a good deal of interest was expressed when statements were made suggesting that the directors of the scheme would be able to secure films direct from the United States if the British renting houses adhered to their resolution. It should be noted that the K.R.S. includes every renting house but one—European. Any impartial student of trade affairs for many years past will admit that in the matter of enforcing loyal acceptance of its ruling the renters' society has quite as good a record as the exhibitors.

Into the Limelight.

Where the situation is so extraordinarily interesting is in its relation to the renter-exhibitor development. The trading scheme and the consummation of big mergers came to a head simultaneously and were, of course, only the outward and visible signs of a war that had been developing for a long time. The exhibitors can justly claim that their action is purely self-defensive, and has been necessitated by the growth of the producer-owned chains.

There is no doubt they have much ground for anxiety, particularly when they look across the Atlantic and see what has happened there. It must be remembered that although that section of the co-operative booking scheme which deals with the enforcement of economies in film hire seems primarily directed against the renters as such, this is really a secondary consideration. The real enemy is the big circuit, and some idea of the foundation of Mr. Ormiston's plan was afforded in the middle of December.

Stories of the acquisition of P.C.T. by American interests had been current for a very long time, and the names of Lord Beaverbrook, a very large shareholder in that organisation, and Will Evans, its managing director, had been freely referred to. The latter gentleman took strong exception to the scheme when it was first officially presented to the General Council of the C.E.A., going so far as to say that if it were accepted he would be prepared to sell his circuit to the Americans. This was not exactly in accordance with the expressed policy of Lord Ashfield, his chairman, nor with that of First National, the company with which everybody associated the expected fusion.

In the end it was announced that the merging of these two units would ensure 51 per cent. of the capital being supplied by the British company, and Lord Ashfield's stipulation about avoiding American control was thereby honoured. Immediately afterwards other statements were issued, recording first the merging of F.N. and Pathé, for the production and distribution of British pictures, under the title of First National Pathé Company, Ltd., and, secondly, the agreement between the Standard Film Company, Loew's Inc., and United Artists Theatre Circuit Inc., for the production and exhibition of films in this country. It should be noted that on the board of the Standard Film Company are Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Ashfield, Sir William Jury, A. P. Holt, and W. Evans.

There is one other big British producing firm which is interested in exhibition—the Gaumont British Pictures Corporation, Ltd. The halls it controls are the old Biocolor and Davis circuits, and the general principle of the producer-exhibitor was extended by a reciprocal agreement with the biggest continental film organisation, Ufa., which has a very important chain of halls in Germany as well as the leading studios.

If, therefore, the C.E.A. scheme has achieved no other result—and at the time of writing it is a very few weeks old and contains all the elements of adaptability which make any forecast mere guesswork—it has at least precipitated and brought into practical politics some problems which have been lying near the surface, but have never before had the bright light of publicity they have since enjoyed.

Our Studios.

Apart from its political vicissitudes, the Industry has had a very busy year. We have already referred to the increased activity in our studios, and this bears every prospect of healthy growth, but we still need more accommodation, and while there are several projects there is little achievement.

But within a few months one may expect to see two additional producing units at work at Elstree, apart from the small Ideal lot and the big British International one ; two separate units in different parts of the Wembley exhibition grounds ; Walthamstow and Beaconsfield re-awakening ; beside other projects which are hardly ripe for discussion.

Even so, we shall hardly satisfy the needs which can be foreseen already, and with careful leadership other schemes, such as that spoken of by J. D. Williams, may easily find an opening, and, what is more important, a backing. At least we have established the producing industry in such a position that it can go to the City with confidence that a businesslike proposition will receive sympathetic hearing, and this condition of affairs is a notable advance upon what obtained in former years.

All this, of course, merely means that the way is open for the advance of British pictures. To prove themselves worthy to appear on the screen in competition with the best films the world can send us is a severe challenge. We have every hope, and there is a spirit moving in the Industry that may accomplish great things, but the battle is still to be fought, and our producers know there is no finality in it. American companies are making arrangements for their own production organisations here, and in the legislative enactments there is nothing to stop British companies from securing the services of the best brains of the world.

I trust they will be far-seeing enough to make the best use of this provision, for by the time a really first-class director has had the handling of a studio staff long enough to make one or two pictures we shall have had built up for us a school of technicians able to back up fittingly any new director who may be discovered here. The step from that to a reservoir from which we can recruit more British directors is then a short one.

Backed by a newly aroused sentiment amongst our exhibitors, by adequate finance, by a liberal minded policy which is not afraid to learn, we may look forward to a more promising day for British productions than has ever before dawned.

On the whole the political situation has dominated 1927, and the year closes on a complicated state of affairs. But with it all there are many good features and few ill to chronicle, and one may reasonably leave the task of surveying the story of 1927 with a very hopeful anticipation of the time to come.

Events of the Year

DECEMBER, 1926.

A British non-flam base which seemed to satisfy commercial requirements was demonstrated in London on December 6.

J. D. Williams' appointment as managing director of the British National was terminated and the former was suing for damages.

Pre-releases were to be investigated by a special committee of the L. & H. C. C.E.A., with the object of lessening the period between such displays and general release.

The leasing of the Futurist and Scala Theatres, Birmingham, was announced by Sol. Levy, who, however, continued his association with the latter hall.

A deputation of the Leeds C.E.A. was to meet the local Watch Committee to discuss singing to pictures.

Graham Cutts turned down an invitation to name his own price to direct a picture for an American firm.

Harry Day asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he would consider devoting some proportion of the money collected annually as entertainment duty from kinemas to financing British films. Mr. Churchill's answer, of course, was in the "negative."

Wardour Films, Ltd., acquired the Alliance Studios at St. Margaret's, Twickenham.

A new "talking picture" device, by which sub-titles are spoken, was introduced by Paramount in America.

The Third Veterans' Re-union, held on December 8th, attracted a company of 83—ten more than the previous year.

A. E. Dupont, director of "Vaudeville," was appointed director-general of British National's studios at Elstree.

Two new companies were formed to exploit non-flam film, and S. Rowson, of Ideal, stated that he was associated with a company which would shortly put a practicable film of this kind on the market.

Bert Miller, of the Academy, Brighton, was appointed joint managing director of the Electric Theatres (1908), Ltd.

Kinema Reopenings, etc.

Victory Kinema, Sandy, was acquired by Arthur Hill.

A. H. Blackman acquired Lyric, Wandsworth.

Grand, Falkirk, reopened by Henry Hare.

Amphill Kinema, Beds., was acquired by Mr. Barnard.

Londesborough Cinema, Hull, opened.

Imperial, Methil, Fifeshire, opened.

Picture House, South Elmsall, reopened.

Pavilion, Staffs, reopened.

Palace Kinema, Blackwood, was acquired by W. Phillips.

JANUARY, 1927.

At a mass meeting held in Birmingham on January 11 a resolution was passed unanimously expressing strong objection to the principle of producer and renter-owned theatres. This meeting was a direct result of the acquisition of the Futurist and Scala Theatres, Birmingham, by Famous Players-Lasky. The chief speakers were: Lord Askwith, H. G. Williams, M.P., E. Hewitson, G. F. McDonald and I. L. Lyons.

J. D. Williams resigned from the board of British National and John Maxwell, chairman of Wardour Films, joined British National's board. Wardour is to distribute British National's later productions in England.

Many distinguished people attended the opening of the Astoria, in Charing Cross Road, London, on January 12.

The Manchester Winter Garden was damaged by fire to the extent of £25,000 on January 1.

A new company, with S. Rothapfel at its head, was formed with a capital of one hundred and fifty million dollars. The concern will erect a chain of super kinemas in New York.

During the month British National secured the rights—outside America and Canada—of the new Schüfftan trick production process.

The C.E.A. general council passed a resolution deploring the acquisition and control of British kinemas by renting firms and declared that Association would use every means in its power to counteract such tactics.

It was decided to hold the C.E.A. Summer Conference at Morecambe during the week commencing June 20.

Earl St. John was appointed director of the Plaza Theatre.

Graham Cutts severed his connection with Piccadilly Pictures.

The Progress Medal, the highest honour bestowed by the Royal Photographic Society, was awarded George Eastman for his researches and inventions in connection with photography.

W. J. Hutchinson arrived on January 21 from America, bringing with him the Fox super, "What Price Glory?"

P.D.C. and First National held their sales conferences during the month. A novel feature at the F.N. Conference was Robert Lieber's phone talk from New York to the salesmen.

Eric Pommer severed his connection with Famous-Players.

Kinema Reopenings, etc.

Assembly Rooms, Glastonbury, and Rialto, Leytonstone, reopened.
Globe, Wolverhampton, and Victoria, Winton, opened.

THE YEAR IN AMERICA.

by LARS MOEN (Motion Picture News)

Moves in the American film trade in 1927 have been painted on a large canvas. Sweeping gestures have been in order. Mammoth mergers—enormous theatres—country-wide amalgamations—perhaps no previous year has shown so clearly that motion pictures are no longer a field for the small operator, but have become “big business,” along with automobiles, oil, railroads, and steel.

Naturally outstanding among events of the year is the Trade Practices Conference, at which the “best minds” of all branches of the industry were requested by the government to discuss and agree on trade practices which would be acceptable to all, in the hope that this would result in better harmony and a solution of the block booking problem without Government regulation.

This was an outgrowth of the previous Famous Players hearing, at which block booking was the chief point of controversy. After long consideration, the Federal Trade Commission issued a “cease and desist” order which sought to restrain Famous from further block booking. This is still before the courts.

Realising that other companies were likewise selling their pictures en bloc, the Commission felt that it would be discriminatory to regulate Famous in this manner and to permit other firms to continue the practice. When such a condition arises within an industry, it is the practice of the Trade Commission to call a Trade Practices Conference, at which various branches of that industry establish a uniform code of practice most nearly acceptable to all. This “benevolent regulation” carries back of it the implied stipulation that if the conference fails of its object the Commission will take other and more drastic means of ending the evils.

So, in October, representatives of the producing, distributing and exhibiting branches of the industry met in New York, presided over by a representative of the Commission. Five thousand dollar a week executives and humbler theatre owners were given an equal hearing, and the ills and evils of the industry were aired at length. There was some little altercation—not much—and the gradual evolution of what is certainly a more united front than the industry has previously shown. The concrete results were perhaps not as great as they might have been, but the conference went on record as vetoing block booking where it was used for coercive purposes. As far as block booking itself went, no one seemed able to offer a substitute. The commissioner's report is expected shortly.

At any rate, the delegates voluntarily decided to make the Trade Practices Conference an annual affair, which is certain to be of increasing value.

The Famous Players hearing we have already referred to. The Commission order Famous to refrain from block booking. Famous has appealed to the courts, and must now show cause why it should be permitted to continue. This is likely to drag along for a considerable period of time.

One of the most important deals of the year, financially, was the merger which took in Producers Distributing Corporation, Pathé, the Keith-Albee theatres, and various other film and theatre interests. This has brought Pathé back into the feature field again, after several years, during which it has devoted most of its efforts to short subjects.

Another mammoth deal was the acquisition of First National by the Stanley Company of America and West Coast Theatres, bringing this concern into new hands and completely under theatre control. There have since been numerous rumours of amalgamation with other companies, but these remain rumours as yet.

An important change of policy has been made this year by Paramount-Famous-Lasky and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, both of whom have added short subject departments to their already comprehensive feature organisations. This enables them to furnish complete programmes to their own theatres and to the other houses which they sell, and has not been without its effect on other short subject companies, since it has deprived the latter of considerable revenue formerly obtained from the Publix and Loew houses. Both companies have started news-reels with elaborate organisations, bringing the total number up to six. Inasmuch as conditions were none too profitable for four, it is not unlikely that the coming year will see some weeding out in this field.

This move has focussed increased attention on short subjects, but it is doubtful if it has increased revenue from them—rather the contrary—since companies selling a complete programme usually do so at a somewhat lower price per unit.

An important theatre event was the opening this year of the Roxy Theatre, in New York, promoted about the personality and popularity of S. L. Rothafel (Roxy), formerly managing director of the Capitol. This mammoth theatre, seating 6,200 persons, is presenting perhaps the most elaborate stage productions to be seen in any picture theatre, with a large permanent ballet, chorus and orchestra, and the business which it has done have set up new financial records for any theatre anywhere.

The competition which the Roxy and the Paramount, both giving elaborate stage entertainments, have given the other Broadway houses, has resulted in a complete change of policy in all of them. The Capitol, once nationally famous for its dignity and refinement, has gone "jazz" along with the others, and is now featuring vaudeville acts rather than pictures. This trend has been general during the year, and the large theatres of the country are now fighting much harder for stage "names" and vaudeville stars than for good pictures.

For that matter, 1927 has not been distinguished for remarkable picture quality. There have been a few good productions, but the general average has been disappointing and not such as to maintain public interest at a high pitch.

"Seventh Heaven," one of the most pretentious offerings of the Fox studios, has been highly successful, and has brought great prestige to the organisation. It is unquestionably one of the most beautiful love stories which the screen has had.

"Wings," while somewhat criticised for its weak story, is an amazing technical achievement, and its airplane photography should satisfy any patrons who seek thrills, beauty or novelty.

"Underworld" is one of the year's outstanding achievements. It tells a brutally beautiful story of gang life in Chicago, and while the ending does not entirely hold up, the picture comes near the head of the list. The scenes in which George Bancroft, as the gunman, is barricaded in his "hideout" while the police lay down a barrage of machine-gun fire, bombs, and every available means of offence, are not likely to be forgotten. Clive Brook gives one of his best performances in this.

"Chang" is equally notable. This amazing wild animal tale, with its herds of charging elephants, tigers, reptiles, and the like, interwoven with a moving narrative of the pioneer spirit, will live long.

"What Price Glory" is a classic of realism and the new spirit of honesty which is slowly creeping into film production. War is shown as the mess it is, and while the result may not be pretty, it is magnificently moving.

A number of European artists have come to America this year, and at least three of them have made important débuts.

Paul Leni made his bow to America as a director with "The Cat and the Canary," which has been generally acclaimed for its amazing atmosphere and brilliant effects. His following picture was not quite so fortunate, but in "The Man Who Laughs" he will have a chance to establish himself once and for all.

After great expectancy, F. W. Murnau's first American picture, "Sunrise," was first shown recently. It is a picture of rare beauty, and while its popular appeal is perhaps not great, it is a directorial achievement and will exercise an enormous influence on many pictures in the future—a factor the importance of which is not to be overlooked in rating a production.

Emil Jannings first came to the screen in an American production also this year, "The Way of All Flesh." This proved to be somewhat Teutonic in conception, and could perhaps have been made in Berlin without much difference, but it has been generally liked, and at least shows that Famous is doing its best not to "ruin" this great actor, as so many predicted.

Great strides have been made during the year in the field of the so-called "talking picture," or the synchronised sound film, to be more accurate. Vitaphone continued to expand, and to it has been added Movietone, which records sound on the film instead of on a separate phonograph record.

Box-office reports from various parts of the country would seem to indicate that the use of these devices for the presentation of vocal and instrumental numbers and vaudeville acts soon loses its novelty and commercial value. Fox Movietone, however, has inaugurated a development which promises to be much more important—the "talking" newsreel and travel film. Lindbergh's take-off was filmed in this fashion, and awakened great enthusiasm at the Roxy and Harris theatres, in New York. Since then Fox has had a unit touring Europe, recording speeches by various notables. The first of these to be shown in America is that of Mussolini, which has been put on as an accompanying attraction to "Sunrise" in New York. The importance of this development can scarcely be overstated, and it would not be surprising if it proved to be the fillip which movie producers need to awaken a greater public interest and bring new vitality into film production.

THE YEAR IN AUSTRALIA.

by KATHLEEN USSHER.

Australia is one of the greatest picture-going nations in the world—for its size. Although the population is only approximately one-eighth that of Great Britain, there are 1,250 kinemas in the Commonwealth, or one-third of the total number in the United Kingdom. On a per capita basis, it has been stated that Australia has more kinemas than the United States. Three hundred of these are situated in the capital cities and environs, ninety in Sydney and over eighty in Melbourne.

In the course of the year twenty-six million feet of film—scenic, topical, educational, medical, commercial and dramatic—were imported into Australia (including repeat orders, which usually account for two or three million feet). This footage represents a total of 1,960 films, made up as follows:—

1,618 films imported from the United States,

198 films imported from the United Kingdom,

144 films imported from other countries, showing an increase over the previous year of 52 and 82 respectively in favour of the United Kingdom and foreign films, as against an increase of only 63 in the case of films imported from the United States.

It is a matter of regret to all patriotic Australians that American film producers have obtained what practically amounts to a stranglehold upon the industry in the Commonwealth, and it is inevitable that our Federal Government will follow the lead of the Home Government in regard to the film quota and blind-booking system. Victoria has for some time past insisted that 1,000 feet of Empire-made film shall be exhibited at every kinema performance.

Evidence taken before a royal commission appointed last July to enquire into these two highly involved questions revealed the fact that the British film "Zeebrugge" had been in the possession of one Australian film agent for nearly three years without being exhibited at all; while "Ypres" had been rejected as "unsuitable" by the people who control film affairs at Melbourne. As a result of these lamentable disclosures, the Victorian Government has recently compelled exhibitors in that State to show 2,000 feet of British film in every programme (including 1,000 feet manufactured in Australia), which is practically equivalent to a 16 per cent. quota. Another result of this searching enquiry will probably be the establishment of a national studio on the federal capital site at Canberra.

One significant fact emerged during the investigation in connection with the marketing in Australia of a regular supply of British film, when available, which is that the British producing companies have no adequate sales organisations in Australia; in fact, they are almost without representation in that country, owing to the prevailing custom of selling the rights of their pictures to American or quasi-Australian concerns.

There are indications, however, that the time is not far distant when British films will be able to compete successfully with the American. An Empire buying pool is one suggestion that has been made. In the meantime, Australasian Films, Ltd., probably the most powerful "combine" in Australia, representing both exhibiting and producing interests, and controlling (through Union Theatres, Ltd., Amalgamated Pictures, West's Pictures, Spencer's Pictures, and J. D. Williams' Pictures), forty-two kinemas in the Commonwealth, besides having interests in Java—claims that its theatres show 21.7 per cent. of Empire films—a greater percentage than that shown in Great Britain itself. It is estimated that the 1928 bookings of Australasian Films, Selznick Pictures, and the British Dominion Films will total 483 films, averaging over nine features a week, and including fifty English and Australian films—a figure greatly in excess of any quota percentage mentioned to date. The Hoyt's Circuit, which has announced its intention of giving preference to British films, controls about two hundred kinemas in the capital cities and metropolitan areas of Victoria, New South Wales, and Western Australia, having recently amalgamated the Hoyt's and J. C. Williamson groups. The company are extending operations in other States. The theatres owned are said to represent a capital value of four million pounds, and to have a yearly wages bill of nearly half a million. It is claimed that no American money is represented in the capital.

In accordance with new regulations which came into force on September 16, 1926, all Australian-made films must pass the censor before being exported, and in the four months ending December 31, of the 138 films so exported, only one was of feature length. Much of the remaining footage is concerned with the Commonwealth Government's publicity campaign to attract settlers, and includes films depicting Australian scenes and industries, e.g., those which are on view daily, free of charge, at Australia House, London, and are also shown in Australia and in the islands of the Pacific by contract with one of the big American companies.

Although some good Australian films have been made, the local market has been insufficient to recoup the promoters. Hitherto, there has been only one established studio in the Commonwealth, that of Australasian Films, Ltd., at Bondi Beach, Sydney, which cost £40,000, including land and installation. A new studio and laboratory has just been completed by this company at St. Kilda, Melbourne, at a cost of £10,000.

Australia is anxious to establish a national film industry of her own. She has sunshine and enthusiasm, picturesque background for stories, original authors and considerable local talent.

The Australian producer, however, cannot live without overseas markets, and in this connection it is evident that there is a lack of reciprocity in England. No opportunity, for example, has yet been given the British public of viewing those wonderful Australian productions, "Jewelled Nights" and "Moth of Moonbi," sponsored by E. J. Carroll, a leading Australian impresario and theatre proprietor, who was associated with the first five-reel film ever made—and it was made in Australia—the Story of the Kelly Gang.

In a letter to the Daily Telegraph (London), Arthur Shipley, of Sydney, complained that when arranging a London season of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab" and "The Sealed Room" recently, he was unable to produce these Australian-made and all-British productions until he paid a duty of £244. Quite apart from the merit or otherwise of these productions, the action is in striking contrast to the Australian Government's Imperial gesture in admitting Empire-made films duty free.

THE YEAR IN CANADA.

by W. M. GLADISH.

Generally speaking, the Canadian motion picture business accomplished wonders during 1927.

The pictures themselves were widely recognised as greatly improved over those offered in previous years; theatres were more attractive structurally and they were better managed; special presentations were more effective; financial returns were very substantial; moving picture business methods were superior; the status of the screen was less frequently questioned, and the whole tone of the kinema was much in advance of that of previous years. Specifically, Canadian moving picture theatres had a great year.

After a somewhat lengthy period of retrenchment and amalgamation of interests, voluntary and otherwise, the moving picture business in the Dominion expanded greatly during the twelve months. In fact, another theatre building era was in evidence—it was almost a building boom in a number of important Canadian centres. Principally, large new suburban houses replaced small shows which had become antiquated and, in some instances, the proprietors of old theatres became managers of new houses for the large corporations which built them.

The best hot-weather business on record was secured during the summer of 1927, and exhibitors could not complain. Very few of the 850 theatres in Canada closed for the season, except where important structural changes were undertaken. In several instances, managers revised their admission scale upward during the summer months—or expressed the belief that they should do so. Only a few exhibitors deigned to reduce prices as usual for the summer. Heavy tourist trade and big National events for Canada's Diamond Jubilee of Confederation probably had quite a bit to do with the situation.

Varied programmes became popular in Canadian theatres during the year, principally with stage bands, special presentations and generous use of short film subjects along with strong film features. The exclusive vaudeville theatre passed out altogether in 1927, but vaudeville made a happy combination with substantial film bills. The Capitolian idea of special orchestral music, frequently of the popular song type, found wide favour with patrons of Famous Players houses and others. The legitimate theatres, so called, encountered further difficulties, and more of them closed altogether or were converted into film houses.

During the year the calibre of motion pictures was appreciably raised and film distributors and exhibitors had less trouble with censor boards, of which there is one for every Province of the Dominion.

The Famous Players Canadian Corp., Ltd., Toronto, continued to expand by acquiring eight suburban theatres in Vancouver, B.C., and other houses in various other cities. Famous Players also built and opened a number of new kinemas. At the close of the year, Famous Players owned, leased or controlled 120 theatres in the Dominion. United Amusements, Ltd., Montreal, opened its twelfth theatre in Montreal, while the Keith-Albee organisation secured one new theatre in Quebec City. The Orpheum interests opened a large new theatre in Winnipeg. The Bloom and Fine Circuit, Toronto, opened several new theatres in Toronto, while independent theatres sprung up in Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg, and other places.

The year opened with the greatest disaster in the history of the moving picture business in Canada. This was the fire and panic at the Laurier Palace Theatre, Montreal, on January 9, when 78 children lost their lives. This gave a temporary set-back to the business generally, and there was an immediate check-up on theatre conditions throughout the country. Nine theatres in Montreal were closed because of alleged questionable conditions and building changes were made with many others, both in Montreal and elsewhere, but this really benefited all theatres in the long run.

Several important figures were called by death in 1927, these including Ralph Ruffner, for many years manager of the Capitol Theatre, Vancouver; N. K. Miller, manager of the huge Pantages Theatre, Toronto, for nine years; and Raymond S. Peck, director of the Canadian Government Motion Picture Studio, Ottawa, for six years. Their passing was a real blow to Canada.

The Canadian moving picture business also lost several important men to the industry in other countries. Following William Bach, who left First National at Toronto to join the British First National, Phil Kauffman, of Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, became general manager for First National in Central Europe with headquarters in Berlin. Several Canadian film exchange officials also went to the United States to assume big posts. Jules Bernstein, of Toronto, manager for Loew's Theatre for fifteen years, went to Loew headquarters in New York City.

In spite of the Film Quota talk in Great Britain, very slight advance was made in motion picture production in Canada. A number of Canadian film projects were partly promoted and only one or two Canadian pictures were actually made and marketed. They did not set the world on fire. There were various projects at Vancouver, Victoria, Fort William, Toronto, and Trenton, for the announced purpose of making British Empire pictures to qualify under the British quota, but, frankly, they did not make much progress during 1927.

Large producing companies of the United States did make extensive use of Canadian scenery, principally in Alberta and the Canadian Rockies, for real features, and they were accorded every facility by the Canadian Government for carrying out their work, because it was felt that it was literally good business for Canada.

There was comparatively little change in the scope of long-established film exchanges in the Dominion. Each of the large film renters secured a substantial share of trade and were apparently in a flourishing condition. One company, Regal Films, Ltd., continued to provide British pictures for the Canadian market, and these received wide distribution. Several British features were enthusiastically received. A number of German and French pictures also made a fine impression, notably "Variety," "Metropolis," "Michael Strogoff," "Les Misérables," and others. Incidentally, the Ontario Provincial Government raised the ban against German films at last, being the last government to admit German pictures since the war.

The situation in Canadian moving picture theatre circles in 1927 possessed a rosy hue and there were indications that the prosperity would be permanent.

TO AND FROM OUR SHORES

by C. L. CATTERMOUL.

BRITAIN—AND EUROPE.

The extraordinary revival in the production side of the British film industry which has taken place during 1927, is, of course, due to the British Quota which is now to be passed by Parliament.

The real effect of this will not be felt in so far as exports are concerned until many months, but nevertheless, there are signs and portents that a greater interest than ever expressed before in the history of the film trade is being manifested by foreign countries into the future of British productions.

During 1927 we have been fortunate enough to provide the world with a goodly number of outstanding films, which has re-created, from a dormant interest of those foreign territories who have previously been supplied with everything else but British films, the keenest enquiries as to the progress of our productions.

There is a certain amount of prejudice existing in certain territories against British films on account of the very fact that they are British, and this, by reason that those territories who were anxious to show our films, could not find among our productions sufficient to make them a force which would supply the demand for films consistent with the quality of those of other nations. We have nobody to blame but ourselves in this respect. Foreign countries always, and of necessity, must create a standard of quality which range from the big spectacular French productions to the "star" system of America, and thus it is that up to recently a film abroad has been accepted either on its "star" value or on its spectacular importance. However, the opportunity has now arrived when we shall have a real chance of getting into foreign markets, and establishing the prestige of British films. The unfortunate part of it all is that the majority of our best films have dealt with a subject that is taboo abroad, i.e., war; but within recent months pictures of a different calibre have been made, and have been sold to all corners of the globe.

The activities in British studios during this winter, when in the past that period has been considered dead, shows the healthy state of British finance and production, and if only the right type of film is made, then the foreign markets, who, in themselves, are willing to give every consideration to British films, will readily absorb and create a demand for our films.

European productions are circulating throughout our Colonies in an ever-increasing number. Countries which up to quite recently used 90 per cent. American films, are now showing a very keen demand for the best type of European productions. European films from everywhere have shown a tremendous improvement in technique, story treatment and production to what they were a few years ago. The Anglo-Saxon type of production, for instance, is being extensively adopted, for instance in Germany, not that the type of stories have been changed in any way, but that the treatment of the stories is becoming increasingly more acceptable to the English-speaking countries. It should be remembered that, again, in Germany until quite recently when "taking" the camera was turned somewhat faster than the speed used in America and in England, with the result that the subsequent "action" was slower than we were used to, which caused a certain dreariness to envelop the whole production. This has been altered, and German films are showing the same snap that we get from British and American films. In France the slower camera turning still prevails to a great extent even to-day, and the finished length of a production is usually 50 per cent. more than we use in our theatres in England and the Colonies, but against this the spectacular or the artistry achieves a commercial result. I believe, however, that before very long even the French producers will come into line with the American, German and British producers so far as camera speed is concerned.

There has been an "opening up" of many of the more difficult territories which have become more free to the independent distributor. It is well known that in certain countries the vast majority of the film distributing has been controlled almost exclusively by a few big trusts, and although these trusts still hold the sway, this year has seen the introduction of new blood and expansion of the existing smaller firms with good results to themselves. This applies not only to Europe but in some of our Colonies as well.

PRODUCTION IN EUROPE.

Collaboration between producers and renters of two or more countries is on the increase. Results of such a system have proved, in most cases, to be very successful, and its adoption on a much bigger scale is to be expected during the coming year.

It was not easy to effect a commercial "collaboration" in the beginning. There were many obstacles for the parties to overcome, especially the treatment of the story, which must be made according to the taste of each country. In some cases this did not meet with the success anticipated, but in the majority of cases collaboration was most satisfactory financially.

There are many joint productions in hand between British-German, British-Swedish, and British-French firms, which embraces the playing in one film of artistes of each country. This naturally enhances the value of the film according to the popularity of the artistes in their own country. Thus it is possible to see an English star supported by an entirely German cast or a German star supported by a British cast, and so on.

During 1928 American producing companies will have an extensive European production programme, not merely because of any fiscal difficulties to be overcome, but because the time has now come when to meet the demand for "variety" they must to a certain extent include in their distribution, films which will have a financial draw peculiar to the demands of certain European countries. It is to be hoped that the films so made will be good enough to be exploited with success in America.

TECHNICALITIES.

Not so very long ago it was said, with truth, that Europe was incapable of competing with Hollywood in technically perfect production. No such charge can be sustained to-day. Europe possesses studios and equipment equal in every respect to the best in America. In England, Germany, France and Sweden there are studios which possess the most up-to-date facilities for film production in the world, and more are being rapidly built. In proof of this, one has only to turn to the world's outstanding productions of 1927.

AMERICAN EUROPEAN ACTIVITIES.

Those American companies who operate throughout the world through their own branch offices have now realised that in many countries films purely American need films made locally to help them along. Such films themselves show a very handsome profit, but also bring considerably better results for their ordinary American product when rented in conjunction.

It is naturally the business of American companies to distribute the films made in America, but many of them have now found it necessary to make their own European productions. This has happened with considerable success in France and Germany, where films of considerable merit have been produced under the ægis of American firms. In England, although no direct production has been made, American firms have distributed with much financial success a few outstanding European productions. Owing to the Quota, next year will see the beginning of a large number of British-made films designed solely to meet the legal demands of this.

The future for European productions is extremely bright. The surface has been hardly scratched up to now, and within a year or two the activity which is now becoming general through European countries may show its results in a much more increased export trade, with a consequent decrease of American exports.

WORLD TRADE.

America still stands far ahead of any other country in its exports abroad. Maybe because of its organisation of vested interests at home it always will. Its product is sound—and what is infinitely more important—it is universal. Perhaps in isolated instances it makes a "Super" which should be kept for home consumption only, but these are comparatively rare, and its films are needed to constitute the backbone of foreign countries trade. America has the supreme advantage of its own vast domestic territory, consequently the element of risk in production is very much lessened where large costs are involved in comparison with any other country, and it is thus placed in the position of being the "most favoured nation." Europe is not so well placed—yet, but its exports are growing tremendously. Its collaboration schemes may help it along much faster than its normal method of production.

BRITISH QUOTA EFFECT THROUGHOUT THE COLONIES.

Already this is beginning to be felt in the British Empire trade. British films are penetrating into the Colonies now, in vastly increased numbers for them. It is, of course, absurd to say that there is any real prejudice against British productions. What is wanted is quality.

Nevertheless, it has in the past at times been extremely difficult to get a release for pictures of merit in some of the Colonies because of the vested interests which could not take them.

SCANDINAVIA.

This group of countries is rapidly becoming one of the most difficult to penetrate in Europe. As is the case in all other countries of the world, an outstanding film will show a very good result, but because of its size and the vast amount of films at its disposal, Scandinavia is in the position of being able to choose films only of good quality and especially suitable to its requirements. British films are badly needed and welcomed there, and some of them during 1927 have been very successful indeed. The most successful renting firms are of Scandinavian origin. These hold the balance of power, and leave to the foreign producers with their own offices a small percentage of theatres to supply with films.

FRANCE.

Next to Scandinavia, France is the most difficult country in Europe to sell to. Although it is a very important producing nation, in reality so far as the renting of foreign pictures is concerned, the financial returns, in comparison with other countries, are not important. It is because France is a big producing centre that the foreign film is so difficult to dispose of there. French pictures, even if they are what we would term mediocre, can at least get back the cost of the production through exploitation in France alone, and the number of French films which are shown during the course of a year in comparison with the available number of theatres in the country, in addition to the American companies' own distributing offices, made the importation of foreign films into France almost impossible, with one exception, and that is that the better German films have had very good success financially. It can be, therefore, understood that the exploitation by American firms in France of French-made films is quite an important item in their ordinary business. The ordinary foreign film cannot possibly be used in France for the reasons which I have stated previously.

ITALY.

Under the eye of Mussolini, the Italian trade is rapidly undergoing a transformation, and although production from Italian studios is a negligible quantity to-day, ambitious schemes are on foot, and Italian production in a year or so's time will, it is believed, restore Italy to its previous importance as a production centre. Many changes have taken place in the conduct of the business there. With a few exceptions, all the theatres are supplied from one big source. The independents have a few big theatres in the principal cities, and these find the exploitation of the super film a very profitable business. Under the Mussolini regime, the censorship is extremely strict, and the Italian Censors' ruling may be compared with our own, but if anything is even more strict, in so far as morality films are concerned, and also the rejection of films which may be inclined to err politically. Here, again, is a country which cannot absorb the ordinary foreign picture. It is only the outstanding foreign productions which can be purchased, because of the enormous selection of the world's product which is at the disposal of Italy.

HISTORY OF ITS FORMATION.

The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association of Great Britain and Ireland was registered under the Trade Union Acts, 1871 to 1913, on the 25th day of January, 1917, and subsequently made a complete alteration of Rules, which were registered on the 3rd day of May, 1917.

This organisation replaced the Association established in January, 1912, as a company, liability of which was limited by guarantee under the Consolidation Act.

The original association had attained a very large measure of success in the five years of its existence, having placed more than half the existing Kinema theatres in the kingdom upon its roll of membership. In more senses than one, however, it was a limited organisation. To protect its members was its chief object, but its constitution being governed by the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, made the attainment of its purposes always difficult and mostly dangerous. Although, by dexterous steering, actual collision with the law was avoided, such a keen lookout had to be maintained that the ship made fewer knots than exhibitors thought good sailing.

Further, although the constitution of the Limited Association was intended to be democratic, it was impossible under the Consolidation Act properly to realise such intention to the extent which the Branches very naturally deemed essential.

Registration under the Trade Union Acts, 1871 to 1913, has not only made the organisation completely democratic, but it has set the hands of the governing body free to use measures for the protection and uplift of the business which will be effective and which will gain strength with every new theatre enrolled.

OBJECTS.

The objects of the Association are :—

(a) To promote good will and a good understanding between all Proprietors of Kinemas and other places of entertainment, and between them and such persons as work for them, and between them and the Manufacturers and Renters of Films.

(b) To provide a fund for the protection of the interests of the Members of the Association, to relieve them when in distress and to protect them from oppression.

(c) To secure unity of action among Proprietors of Kinemas and other places of entertainment.

(d) To promote by all lawful means the adoption of fair working rules and customs of the trade.

(e) To organise means to secure and if at any time considered necessary themselves supply means whereby a free and unrestricted circulation of films and other trade requisites may be secured for Members of the Association.

(f) To resist by all lawful means the imposition by public authorities or other persons of terms and conditions upon the trade which are unreasonable or unnecessary.

(g) To secure legislation for the protection of the interests of Members and to promote or oppose and join in promoting or opposing the Bills in Parliament.

(h) To adopt such means of making known the operations of the Association as may seem to the Council expedient.

(i) To adopt any means which in the opinion of the Council may be incidental or conducive to the above objects.

PROTECTION.

The first object embraces not only exhibitors but their employees and those with whom their business is chiefly conducted, viz., the Renters and Manufacturers. Misapprehension has arisen and may arise again concerning this object. It has been too hastily assumed that because the Association has been registered under the Trade Union Acts it is therefore a Trade Union in the same sense as the Dockers' Union. This is an error it is perhaps not unnatural should occur. The Association, however, is not a Union of employees, but a Union of employers. Those who are employed by exhibitors, although not organised as are the employees in many other walks of life, are nevertheless capable of being organised, and on one or two sides organisation exists, to wit, the A.M.U., the E.T.U. and the N.A.T.E., to which an increasing number of musicians, operators, and doormen belong. The employer unorganised is always in a weak position when he has to deal with organised labour. He rarely can secure even fair treatment. If he is subject to unfair and extortionate demands he often must give way, and thereby places his brother exhibitor in a false and dangerous position. But good will and good understanding can be promoted and fairness and equity secured if both sides meet upon more or less equal terms so far as organisation is concerned.

In this connection Rule XIII. provides in Clause 3 that if any member becomes involved in any dispute relating to the trade, he may submit his case to the President, Vice-President, Treasurer and General Secretary, who, if they think fit, and are so advised by the Solicitor, may grant the said member interim protection in respect of any cost so incurred until the next meeting of the Council, when the Council shall consider the case, and if it is satisfied that any question of principle or of general interest to the trade is involved, it may grant protection. Upon the grant of protection by the Council, the Council may pay from the funds of the Association such sum as may be decided to meet costs incurred. Any member who in the opinion of the Council has become involved in any dispute by his own lack of judgment or good sense shall not be entitled to benefit.

Should a dispute occur between Exhibitors and Renters and should the Association call upon its members to take certain action which might involve loss, under the same rule the members would be protected, and provision is made, should the funds not be adequate, to make levies. There is therefore power not only to give members the fullest protection, but the means are provided, as they were not in the old organisation, to make the protection effective.

TRADE DEVELOPMENT.

The Kinema, it cannot be too often insisted upon, is of such recent growth that the rules and customs which govern most old-established businesses can hardly be said to exist. The successful development of the trade depends upon whether wise business rules and sound useful customs are established. Therefore the object which is "to promote by all lawful means the adoption of fair working rules and customs of the trade" is one of primary importance, and to safeguard the exhibitor and make certain that bad rules and customs are not allowed to be established. The next object provides that if at any time it is considered necessary the Association may organise means to supply a free and unrestricted supply of films and other trade requisites. The development of the business has been already hampered by the imposition of unreasonable and unnecessary conditions, hence another object is to resist by all lawful means (and this stipulation is important) existing and proposed conditions which will interfere with the proper and legitimate development of the business.

In this connection the further object of securing useful legislation and opposing such as is detrimental provides the method by which the business will be assisted to further progress. A political fund has also been established to which a yearly payment of half-a-guinea is made in order that the object may be properly realised by having in Parliament a member to represent the trade, and by assisting the Branches to secure representation upon local bodies.

THE ORGANISATION.

The scheme of organisation is designed to give the fullest possible liberty to the individual member consistent with co-ordination and co-operation. Members are grouped together in Branches in accordance with geographical proximity, railway facilities, and common interests. The Branches enjoy complete local autonomy and conduct the affairs of the Association in the places they represent without interference from the Governing Body, with only two stipulations—that they shall not act in contravention of resolutions passed by a majority of the General Council (which is a wholly representative body) nor of the rules of the Association.

Members are allocated to the Branch in the area of which the theatre they represent is situated, but in certain circumstances they may choose to attend meetings of another branch. For any place which for good reasons cannot be attached to any provincial Branch, a Central Branch exists and delegates to the Council can be elected by a postal ballot vote.

Where a number of Branches exist in an area suitable for the purpose, Districts can be formed with a District Council and officers. By this means the united opinion of Yorkshire or Lancashire, of Scotland or Wales, can be focused upon any question affecting any of those single areas.

The General Council is the Governing Body, and it consists entirely of specific delegates elected upon a free franchise by the Branches in accordance with the strength of each in the proportion of one delegate for each 50 or portion of 50 members. The expenses of one delegate attending meetings of the Council and all members attending Committee meetings are paid by the Head Office.

From the General Council a small Executive is elected by that body. The Executive officers are a President, a Vice-President, Treasurer, three Trustees, and a General Secretary. The Branch Officers are a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Treasurer, three Trustees, and a Secretary who must be a paid official.

PROCEDURE.

All questions affecting the trade as a whole will be first submitted for discussion by the Branches and afterwards considered by the General Council and decided by a majority vote.

If the question is one upon which there is a great diversity of opinion a card vote can be claimed, and the delegates' votes are then recorded for the actual halls which his Branch represents. One Branch might have two delegates for 51 members, another for 99 members, but the provision of the card vote removes any inequality of this kind. Once the decision is arrived at, all the Branches, whether dissenting or not, and all the members of the Branches, must accept such decision and abide by it.

Although upon many questions the Branches have power to decide for their own locality, it will frequently happen that a Branch may consider the policy it has agreed upon for itself might be usefully adopted by the other Branches. In such a case, the proposal will be circulated to the other Branches, and if a majority agree the General Council will frame a resolution, the matter will be discussed, voted upon, and if the proposal is carried, the decision promulgated as the policy of the Association. Should, however, the proposal not be carried the right of the Branch to continue its own local policy for purely local purposes will not be interfered with. There will remain, however, the right for any such policy to be challenged by other Branches as inimical to the interests of the whole Association, and a decision of the General Council upon this point will bind all the Branches. Individual policy must be for the benefit of the Branch; general policy for the whole Association or for the trade.

Cinematograph Films Act	159
In the Courts (Principal Law Cases of the Year)	167

Digest of Acts and Regulations affecting the Film Industry.

A Short Analysis of the Cinematograph Films Act, 1927.

by NORMAN HART, B.A.,

Solicitor to the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association.

AS will be seen from the title to the Act, this is an Act to restrict blind booking and advance booking of cinematograph films and to secure the renting and exhibition of a certain proportion of British films and for the purposes connected therewith. It is cited as the Cinematograph Film Act, 1927, and comes into operation on 1st January, 1928, and continues in force for 10 years.

The Act is divided into Four Parts.

The First Part deals with the restriction of blind booking and advance booking of films, the Second Part with the registration of films, the Third Part contains provisions for securing a quota of British Films and the Fourth Part is general and deals with the question of films to which the Act applies, penalties for misrepresentation, powers of the Board to make regulations, appointment of an Advisory Committee, and lastly interpretation of Trade Shows and other expressions used in the Act.

As to how this Act will work out, time alone, of course, can only show, but dealing first of all with Part I, it does seem to me that the benefits derived from the compliance with this part of the Act should certainly benefit Exhibitors.

Whether it is by reason of the eloquence of the Renter, or the keenness of the Exhibitor to outdo his opposition, that the Exhibitor binds himself down months and months ahead to book certain films, the titles of which are not known, the films perhaps not even made, one does not know; but the results are very often most unsatisfactory for the simple reason that the Exhibitor, not having been able to see the film, he is unable to judge whether or not it will be suitable to his particular class of hall, and often finds that in the end he has made a mistake and that the films which he has booked, which may run into a large number on one particular contract (in fact, a firm's whole out-put for a particular year) are not at all suitable, with the result that he either has to scrap them and still pay for them under the contract, or, alternatively, show them and run the risk of losing his patrons. Under this Act he will be able to see the film before he books it, and is able to judge whether it will suit his Hall or not.

As regards Part I, Section 1 states that no Agreement shall be entered into to rent or impose an obligation when called on to rent, for public exhibition in Great Britain, any film to which this Act applies, unless every such film to which the agreement relates has been registered under this Act, or a valid application for the registration thereof has been made.

This Section does not apply to a film which has been exhibited to Exhibitors or to the public before the commencement of the Act, and if it is a serial or a series of films coming within the meaning of the Act, it is sufficient if any three parts thereof have been registered or a valid application for the registration of three parts thereof has been made. It limits advance booking to 12 months in the case of an agreement made before the 1st October, 1928, and 9 months in the case of an agreement between the 1st October, 1928, and the 1st October, 1930, and after the 1st October, 1930, to 6 months each.

The penalty of committing an offence under Part I is a fine not exceeding £50, and any agreement in contravention of this part of the Act wherever made shall be invalid.

Any agreement entered into before the commencement of the Act which if entered into after the commencement of the Act would be an illegal agreement under the provisions of this part of the Act or so far as it affects any films to which the Act applies to be delivered for exhibition after the 31st December, 1928, ceases to have effect from that day.

Part 2 of the Act deals with the registration of films. On and after the 1st April, 1928, no film to which this Act applies, or in the case of a serial film or a series of films no part thereof, shall be exhibited to the public in Great Britain unless the film or part thereof exhibited has been registered in accordance with this part of the Act.

It contains two provisoes to the effect that a film in respect of which a provisional application has been made may before registration be exhibited at a series of public exhibitions held on consecutive days, and that the provisions contained in this section shall not apply to a film which has been exhibited before the commencement of this Act.

The penalty for a person exhibiting a film, or in the case of a serial film or a series of films any part thereof, in contravention of this section is a fine not exceeding £20 for each day on which the film or part has been so exhibited.

The Board of Trade will keep register of films to which the Act applies.

The form of procedure to be adopted to register films is set out, and Section 4 states any application to register a film shall not be a valid application unless the film has been trade shown nor if more than 14 days have elapsed since it was trade shown. To this section there are two provisoes to the effect that a provisional application may be made before the film has been trade shown, provided that the film is trade shown within six weeks after the lodging of the provisional application, and the second proviso to the effect that where the application is made more than 14 days after the film was trade shown it may be accepted by the Board as a valid application if satisfied that the delay was due to special circumstances and was unintentional.

Instead of the Compulsory Trade Show a film may be booked for a pre-release at one theatre situated anywhere in Great Britain, after which, of course, it will have to be registered and can then be pre-released in the ordinary way.

On the registration of a film the Board will issue to the applicant a certificate of registration, such certificate stating the length of the film, whether it is registered as a British or Foreign film and so on.

The Register of these films will be open to inspection by any person on payment of a fee. Any person may also be furnished with a copy of any entry in the register certified to be a true copy by an officer of the Board of Trade appointed to keep the Register.

Part 3 deals with provisions for securing the quota of British films.

The quota is imposed upon the Renters, as from the 1st April, 1928, and as regards the Exhibitor as from the 1st October, 1928, and ending on the 30th September, 1929. He shall exhibit at each theatre during the period in any year at least such proportion of registered British films as is mentioned with respect to the year in question in Part II of the First Schedule to this Act. The percentage for the first year is 5 per cent. This does not mean that each programme must satisfy the quota by itself.

The proportion of British registered films to be exhibited during the period at any theatre is ascertained by comparing the aggregate arrived at by adding together the product of the total number of feet of each registered British film which has been exhibited during the normal hours in the ordinary programme, multiplied by the number of times the film has been so exhibited during such period, and the aggregate arrived at by adding together the products of the total number of feet of each registered film which has been so exhibited, multiplied by the number of times the film has been so exhibited during such period. This would probably work out to show that it would be possible for an Exhibitor to exhibit British films say two or three full weeks in a year and such exhibition would be sufficient to satisfy the quota for the whole year, leaving him the rest of the year to show whatever films he liked.

Failure to comply with the requirements of this part of the Act constitutes an offence under the Act, unless the exhibitor has obtained a certificate from the Board of Trade after having satisfied them that the circumstances of non-compliance are beyond the control of the renter or himself, or unless he proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the reasons for non-compliance were circumstances beyond his control.

From 1st October, 1928, to September 30th, 1938, an exhibitor carrying on the business of exhibiting British films to the public in any theatre must hold a licence for the purpose in respect of that theatre from the Board of Trade, but the section provides that when application for a licence has been made the applicant can carry on business at any theatre to which the application relates pending the determination of the application.

This licence is, of course, quite separate from the Licence an Exhibitor may be required to obtain under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, or the Public Health Act, as the case may be.

An exhibitor carrying on any such business without such a licence is liable on a summary offence to a fine not exceeding £10 for each day on which he so carried on the business. Every licensed exhibitor during any year ending September 30th will have to furnish before the 1st November in each year, or such later date as in any particular case the Board of Trade may allow, particulars of the films he has shown during the preceding calendar year, the dates and number of times on which they were exhibited, and such other information as the Board may require in order to enable them to ascertain how the requirements concerning the Exhibitor's quota have been satisfied by him.

A licensed exhibitor will have to keep at his theatre a book setting out the title, registered number, registered length of film, distinguishing between British and Foreign films, the dates of exhibition of such films and the number of times of exhibition each day, and this book shall always be open to inspection by any person authorised by the Board of Trade.

Penalties on failure to comply with the provisions of this part of the Act as regards Exhibitors are (a) if the accused is proceeded against summarily he shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding £50, and (b) if the accused is proceeded against on indictment he shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding £500. If the conviction is by way of indictment, and the offender is an exhibitor, the conviction may order his licence in respect of the theatre with respect to which the offence was committed to be revoked and may order that for each offence in each case as may be specified in the Order no licence in respect of that shall be issued to him or to any person with whom he is financially associated, or to any person who took part in the management of his business and was knowingly a party to the offence, or to any person whose licence in respect of any theatre of his has been revoked during 12 months prior to the date of the conviction.

Summary proceedings for the offence of not complying with the requirements of this part of the Act, as regards the Exhibitor's quota may be instituted at any time within two years after the commission of the offence.

A person failing to make a Return under this part of the Act within the time within which he is required, or on being so required fails to give any information or explanation respecting the Return which it is in his power to give, shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20 for every day during which default continues.

It is an offence if any person fails to keep a book and record therein the particulars required by the Act or when required by a person authorised by the Board of Trade fails to produce the book for inspection, the offender shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20.

Part (4) deals with matters generally, definition as to what films the Act is applicable, the penalties for misrepresentations, the power of the Board of Trade to make regulations, the interpretation of various expressions used in the Act, and also contains a clause appointing an Advisory Committee for the purpose of advising the Board of Trade on the administration of the provisions in this Act. This Committee, if carefully constituted, should, I think, form a very valuable asset to the Industry generally.

It will consist of two representatives of film makers, two representatives of film renters, four representatives of film exhibitors, and three members of whom one shall be Chairman, who shall have no pecuniary interest in any branch of the film Industry.

There are, of course, many other points in the Bill which could be dealt with, but I have just taken these short points which I hope will be of assistance to exhibitors, as showing to them the position they have to adopt and the penalties they will incur if they do not carry out the terms of the Act.

How the Act will work out time alone can show, and where an exhibitor is in doubt application should be made to the Board of Trade. Forms to be filled in will be sent out by the Board of Trade in due course, and these should be most carefully scrutinised before being signed and returned. It is upon the exhibitor to see his returns are properly made, and any attempt to evade the Act will only land the exhibitor in serious trouble and involve him in heavy penalties.

The Complete Text of the
will be found on page 159 et seq.

The Acts of Parliament and local bye-laws which relate to or affect the exhibition, storage or transit of kinematograph films are of paramount importance to the trade, and should be closely studied by all engaged in it. Below will be found a condensed digest of the principal regulations governing this industry. This has been prepared by a leading solicitor, who has explained the most essential points in a manner which will be readily understood by readers.

(We accept no liability for any inaccuracy which may appear in the following summary.)

REVISED BY NORMAN HART, SOLICITOR, ASSOCIATION.

CINEMATOGRAPH ACT, 1909.

All kinematograph exhibitions must be held at premises which are licensed (s. 1).

This Act was passed for making better provision for securing safety at kinematograph and other exhibitions.

Under Clause 1, provided premises comply with the regulations laid down by the Secretary of State, which are regulations dealing with the question of safety, nothing more is required.

All premises must hold a licence where inflammable films are used. The Act contains no definition of the word "inflammable."

Exceptions.—A licence is not necessary in the following cases :—

- (a) Where non-flammable films are used (as to whether a film is non-flammable or flammable is one of fact for the Justices to decide), (See Victoria Pier, Ltd. v. Reeves, 1912, 28 T.L.R. 443; also see re Dickman and Moore, Times Newspaper, December 17, 1912.) (Note.—If an exhibitor holds a licence for premises upon which he originally used inflammable films and decides in future to use non-flammable films only, he is still bound by the conditions on the licence granted although otherwise no licence would be necessary.)
- (b) For exhibitions in private dwelling-houses where the general public are not admitted whether on payment or otherwise. (Note.—A hospital has been held not to be a private house under Section 7 of the Act, for which a licence is required—National Hospital for Paralysed and Epileptic Persons, Times, October 11, 1913.)
- (c) Where premises are only used occasionally and not more than six days in any one year. But in this case the occupier must—
 - i. Give seven days' notice in writing to the Licensing Authority and the chief officer of police of the police area;
 - ii. Comply with the regulations as to safety;
 - iii. Comply with any conditions imposed in writing by the Licensing Authority.
- (d) On premises used for the purpose of exhibiting films to bona fide purchasers—Att.-Gen. v. Vitagraph Co., 1915, C.H. 206.

5. MOVABLE BUILDINGS OR STRUCTURES, provided the owner

- (a) Has a licence in respect of the building or structure from the Licensing Authority for the district where he ordinarily resides.
- (b) Has given two days' notice in writing to the Licensing Authority for the district where the exhibition is to take place. and to the chief officer of police of the police area.
- (c) Complies with any conditions imposed in writing by the Licensing Authority.

REGULATIONS AS TO SAFETY.

These are made by the Home Secretary (Act s. 1) except in Scotland and Ireland, where the Secretaries for Scotland and Ireland respectively exercise this power (Act ss. 8 and 9). They are known as the Cinematograph Regulations 1910 (Statutory Rules and Orders [1910] No. 189) and 1913 (St. R. & O. [1913] No. 566). Every owner and manager of a kinema must make himself familiar with these regulations, which are binding, even if the conditions of the licence happen to be inconsistent with them.

LICENSING AUTHORITY.

(1) ENGLAND.—The Council of the County or County Borough, but as a rule these powers are, in the first instance at least, exercised by a committee. Where the place is licensed by the Lord Chamberlain for stage plays, that official also grants cinematograph licences.

The County or County Borough Council may delegate these powers to the local justices (Act s. 5). Licensing Justices sit as an administrative body, not as a Court of Summary Jurisdiction—Huish v. Liverpool Justices, [1914] 1 K.B. 109. Therefore they have no power to state a case. Doubtful if any appeal of licensing authorities where a licence is refused without any reason.

If reasons are stated and not been satisfactory or a proper hearing has not been given, proceedings by way of mandamus should be taken to the Court of Appeal. A further appeal in such a case can be taken to the House of Lords, or proceedings might be taken in the King's Bench Division for a declaration that proposed conditions which the Licensing Authorities have decided to put upon licences are ultra vires and an injunction asked for to restrain the authorities from enforcing same. In cases before the Court of Summary Jurisdiction where the procedure is by way of case stated to the Divisional Court no further appeal is allowed.

(2) SCOTLAND.—The Council of the County or the magistrates of a royal parliamentary or police burgh. There is no power of delegation (Act s. 8).

(3) IRELAND.—The Council of the County or County Borough or Urban District or the Commissioners of the Town. There is no power of delegation, but a County Council may, in writing, authorise any officer of the Council to exercise any of the powers of the Act (Act s. 9).

GRANT, RENEWAL AND TRANSFER OF LICENCES.

Licences are normally for one year, but may be for shorter periods (Act s. 2 (2)). The Act makes no provision for granting provisional licences.

For new grants or transfers seven days' notice in writing must be given to the Licensing Authority and to the chief officer of police of the police area, but no notice need be given in the case of a renewal (Act s. 2 (4)).

FEES PAYABLE.—One year's licence (grant or renewal), £1. Shorter periods, 5s. a month (but not to exceed £1 for every year). Transfers, 5s. (Act s. 2 (5)).

LICENSEES.—The Licensing Authority has a discretion (Acts. 2(1) (3)). Where the refusal was based on the ground that several of the directors and the majority of the shareholders of the company in question were alien enemies, the refusal was upheld by the Court (Rex v. L.C.C. ex parte London and Provincial Electric Theatres [1915] 2 K.B. 466).

CONDITIONS.—Under Clause 2, Section 1, Licensing Authorities have much further powers than those given under Clause 1, as they can grant licences subject to such conditions as they may think fit in addition to the regulations of the Secretary of State as regards safety. The condition must be reasonable—L.C.C. v. Bermondsey Bioscope, 80 L.J.K. 1314. It has been argued on the words of the Act that these must be decided upon when the application for each licence is made, and not determined beforehand (e.g., most of the authorities issue a list of conditions which licensees must submit to), but this argument has not met with favour (see Rex v. Burnley Justices [1916], 32 T.L.R. at p. 696).

Conditions or undertakings which have been upheld in the Courts include :

Against opening on Sundays and Holy Days, even where non-inflammable films used (L.C.C. v. Bermondsey Bioscope Co. [1911] 1 K.B. 445; Ellis v. North Metropolitan Theatres [1915] 2 K.B. 61).
Against showing any film to which the Authority objects (ex p. Stott [1916] 1 K.B. 7);

As to hours of opening and closing (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra);

Against showing any licentious or indecent film (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).

There is a distinction between conditions and undertakings and a condition as to the admission of children has been held bad (Halifax Theatre de Luxe v. Gledhill [1915] 2 K.B. 49), but an undertaking of not so widespread a character relating to the same matter has been upheld (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).

Breach of a condition is an offence for which the licensee may be fined, and at once lose his licence; breach of an undertaking may lead to refusal of renewal.

A condition that no film can be shown if a specified number of justices object is void, as different groups may think differently (Rex v. Burnley Justices, supra).

Where the Licensing Authority enforce a condition that no film to which the Authority objects may be shown, the owner of the film is apparently without any adequate remedy (ex p. Stott [1916] 1 K.B. 7; Stott v. Gamble [1916] 2 K.B. 504).

A condition that no film be shown which has not been certified for public exhibition by the British Board of Film Censors is ultra vires, as it sets up in place of the Licensing Committee another Body whose ipse dixit should be a test of what might be exhibited. (Ellis v. Dubouski [1921] 3, K.B.D.).

As to whether, therefore, the above conditions are intra vires is somewhat doubtful, and it might be argued that even if a film had not been censored and no notice given to the Local Licensing Authority, the only legal ground for proceeding against an exhibitor for showing the picture would be that of indecency.

The argument was upheld in a summons brought against an exhibitor in the Midlands, by the Licensing Authority, on the condition that if it was desired to show a film that had not been passed by the Censor, three clear days' notice must be sent to the Licensing Authority.

POLICE SUPERVISION.—Any police officer and any person authorised by the Licensing Authority may enter any premises (whether licensed or not) where he has reason to believe that a kinematograph exhibition is being or is about to be given. A police officer needs no authority, and while there may pay attention to any other breaches of the law that he may suspect (McVittie v. Turner [1916] 85 L.J. K.B. 23). If anyone prevents or obstructs him, the offender is liable to be fined up to £20 (Act s. 4).

A Constable without consent is not entitled to take away a piece of a film for the purpose of testing whether it is inflammable or non-flammable.

PENALTIES.

Besides the offence just mentioned, the owner of a cinematograph or other apparatus who uses it or allows it to be used in contravention of the Act or the Regulations or the conditions of the licence, and the occupier of premises who allows them to be used in contravention of the same, may be fined up to £20, and in the case of a continuing offence, £5 a day, and the licence may be revoked on conviction (Act s. 3). The manager of a kinema owned by a company is not an occupier, and cannot be summoned as such (Bruce v. McMains [1915] 3 K.B. 1).

A cinematograph licence does not authorise musical accompaniments. A music licence is not necessary where music is subsidiary to the picture.—See Hallinan, 73 J.P.N. 458.

THEATRE AND MUSIC AND DANCING LICENCES may also be necessary. Theatre Licences for Stage Plays are obtained from the Lord Chamberlain in London, and from the justices elsewhere. Music and Dancing Licences are granted by the County and County Borough Councils, who can delegate this power to the local justices.

Music and Dancing Licences in London are governed by the Music Halls Act, 1751. In Middlesex, by the Music and Dancing Middlesex Act, 1894. In other areas beyond 20 miles from the Cities of London and Westminster under the Public Health Acts (Amendment Act), 1890, Sec. 4. Music Licences are renewable only once each year. They may contain conditions (in view of the section of the Public Health Act), different to the conditions of a cinematograph licence, as that act does not apply to Music and Dancing Licences. In London, Music and Dancing Licences are governed by the Music Halls Act, 1751. A Music and Dancing Licence does not authorise stage plays, nor does a Theatre Licence, under the Theatre Act, 1843, include Music and Dancing.

CHILDREN.

Where an entertainment is given for children (i.e., under fourteen), or the majority of persons present are children, and their number exceeds one hundred, and access to any part of the building is by stairs, then it is the duty of the occupier (if he is paid) and of the person giving the entertainment (in any case) to see that an adequate number of adult attendants are present to prevent overcrowding in any part, to control the movements of the audience when entering and leaving, and also to take all reasonable precautions for safety. Police officers have the right of entry. The penalty for a first offence is up to £50, for a second or subsequent offence up to £100, and any licence held in respect of the building may be revoked (Children Act, 1908, s. 121). The cinematograph licence is not mentioned, as it had not come into existence at that date.

The Employment of Children Act, 1903, s. 1, enables local authorities to make bye-laws relating to the employment of children (i.e., under fourteen), and many of them have exercised this power. A licensee should enquire at the council offices whether the local authority of his district has made any bye-law affecting him (e.g., as to programme, sweet, or cigarette sellers, etc.).

The sale of sweetmeats is now regulated by the Shop (Early Closing) Act (1920) Amendment Act 1921, which states that Part I. and Part II. of the 1920 Act shall have effect as though at the end of Article 2, the following words were inserted :

Or

"(4) The sale of fruit, table waters, sweets, chocolates or other sugar confectionery or ice creams until 9.30 p.m. on week-days other than Saturday, and 10 p.m. on Saturday."

This Act does not include tobacco, nor does it permit Sunday sales.

No child (under sixteen) employed half-time in a factory or workshop may be employed elsewhere (Act 1903, s. 3 (3)), nor may any child be employed before six a.m. or after nine p.m., unless the local bye-laws allow it (Act 1903, s. 3 (1)). The fine is up to 40s. for a first offence, and £5 afterwards (Act 1903, s. 5 (1)).

OTHER LEGISLATION.

HOUSES (ADDITIONAL POWERS) ACT, 1919.

Gives powers to Councils to make orders prohibiting the construction of works or theatres on grounds that the production of dwelling accommodation is likely to be delayed by a deficiency of labour or materials arising out of the employment of labour, or material in the construction of such works or buildings. Any person aggrieved by such an order of prohibition can appeal, subject to the rules of procedure set down by the Ministry. A Tribunal of Appeal can be set up under this Act to hear appeals against any such Order.

LICENSING (CONSOLIDATION) ACT, 1910.

Where it is desired to sell intoxicating liquors by retail on the premises, a Licence must be obtained.

REFRESHMENT HOUSES ACT, 1860.

Any House, Room or Building can be opened for Public resort and entertainment between 10 p.m., and 5 a.m., but if not being licensed for beer, wine and spirits, must take out a Refreshment House Excise Licence.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE ACT, 1781.

Any house opened for Public amusement or debate on a Sunday to which persons shall be admitted by payment of money shall be deemed a Disorderly House—Penalty £200 for every Sunday opened. (Note)—If a reasonable number of persons are admitted free there is no offence under the Act in making a charge for a reserved seat; it will be noted that the act speaks of admission, not to a seat, but to the entertainment.

FILMS—MANUFACTURE AND STORAGE.

There is no general legislation upon this matter, but there are local statutes and orders.

(1) LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL (CELLULOID) ACT, 1915; GLASGOW CELLULOID ACT, 1915. These Acts came into force on April 1st, 1916 (with certain exceptions), and are in practically identical terms. They deal with celluloid and other substances and kinematograph films. They deal with three classes of buildings: (a) Raw Celluloid Factories; (b) Celluloid Factories; and (c) Celluloid Stores.

(a) Raw Celluloid Factories, i.e., places where celluloid and similar substances are made. The site and construction of each factory must be approved by the Council, and the factory must be maintained substantially as approved (London Act, s. 3).

(b) Celluloid Factories, i.e., places where celluloid or kinematograph film is subjected to manufacturing process. Such a factory must not be beneath or below the level of other parts of the same building used for residential purposes. The Council may dispense with this duty in the case of a building so used before April 1st, 1916. Proper means of escape from fire must be provided unless the premises are already under the Dangerous Trade Regulations (Factory Act, 1901). The Council may dispense with these requirements in any case where it judges them to be unnecessary (London Act, ss. 5 and 6).

- (c) Celluloid Stores, i.e., places where for sale, hire, or profit, either (a) kinematograph film is kept or stored in quantities exceeding 20 reels or 80 lbs., or, where smaller quantities are kept, etc., unless the reels are kept in separate closed metal boxes or (b) unmanufactured celluloid is kept in quantities exceeding 112 lbs. weight. These stores must be registered with the Council (from whom forms can be obtained). The registration fee is 10s. 6d. (London Act, s. 4). The same provisions apply to stores as to factories under head (b), but the Council has no power to dispense with any of the requirements as unnecessary (London Act, s. 7).

Where buildings were before the Act partly used as a celluloid factory or store and partly for other purposes, and film is used or handled therein, then, if the Council requires structural alterations before giving any consent, the owner of the building must be notified, and, if the Council requires as a condition the provision of means of escape from fire, the person using the building must be notified. In each case if the person notified objects to the requirement, he can claim arbitration (London Act, s. 9).

Once the consent or approval of the Council is obtained, no further request can be made unless the conditions materially change (London Act, s. 11).

The elaborate provisions as to storage of celluloid and celluloid film do not come into operation until the Defence of the Realm Regulation is revoked (London Act, s. 12). In Glasgow they came into force on January 1st, 1917.

If anyone affected by a decision of the Council objects to it, he has an appeal to a Police Magistrate (London Act, s. 14).

The Council may appoint officials who have power to enter any premises, take samples, and have them analysed (London Act, s. 21).

The general procedure for infringing the Act is a prosecution with a maximum penalty of £20 and £10 a day if the offence is continuing (London Act, s. 2), but in the case of selling film to a person apparently under sixteen without a written order from a responsible person, the penalty is up to £2 for the first offence; £5 for the second; and £10 for the third and later offence (London Act, s. 24).

These Acts do not apply to Theatres, Music Halls and Kinemas (London Act, s. 25), nor to films, etc., while in transit on railways (London Act, s. 30).

(2) DEFENCE OF THE REALM REGULATION 35.—No person may have in his possession, or in premises in his occupation or under his control, any celluloid or film exceeding the prescribed amount without a permit. The police are charged with the duty of enforcing the regulation, and may enter premises and may remove and destroy any celluloid or film found there without a permit or in breach of the terms of the permit.

Orders under this Regulation have been made as to Birmingham, Leeds, London, and Nottingham. The London Order is the only one referring to celluloid; and allows 112 lbs. to be kept without a permit. The requirements as to permits are expressed not to apply to kinemas or to factories which are under the Dangerous Trade Regulations (Factory Act, 1901).

TRANSIT BY RAIL.

RAILWAY REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO FILM BOXES.—The specification of the Railway Clearing House of the type of metal boxes required by the Railway Companies to be used for the transit of films is as follows:

Boxes must be rectangular, wood-lined cases, to hold not more than six films and measure not more than 14½ inches outside either way. They must be made of galvanised iron of not less thickness than .022 of an inch (No 25. B.G.) for the small one and two film cases, and not less than .028 of an inch (No. 23 B.G.) for the larger sizes (three to six film cases).

All the corners of the sides and bottom must be strengthened by folding seams, the top of the body having wired edges turned inwards. The hinged lid must be turned down all round for a depth of one and a quarter inches. It must fit over the body of the case and have wired edges turned outwards. It must be attached to the body by two strong hinges, firmly riveted to both body and lid, and fastened by stout wire hasps fitting over iron staples riveted to the front of the case. Each hasp and staple must be locked, either by padlock or by a spring safety hook, permanently to the staple by a short length of stout chain. Cases for one and two films need only have one clasp and staple fastening; other sizes must have two.

Other conditions are that a thin metal label frame, open at the top, must be riveted to the case in such a position that the top edge of the label frame is covered by the lid when closed; all the boxes must be completely lined with plain wood of half-inch thickness fastened by rivets to the lid and body of the case; the following words must be painted in black on the lid: "Cinema Films," in one-inch block letters, and "Keep in a cool place," in letters five-eighths of an inch depth. No other lettering must appear on the lid. The name and address of the owners may be painted on the sides or ends, and the cases must be unpainted.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

(1) EXPORT.—Under the Customs (Exports Restrictions) Acts, 1914 and 1915, orders have been made totally prohibiting the export of celluloid, celluloid sheet which is non-inflammable, and similar transparent material not soluble in lubricating oil, petrol or water, and kinematograph film.

Licences can, however, be obtained from the War Trade Department through the British Board of Film Censors, and general licences can be obtained under certain conditions which must be strictly complied with. All applications for licences and information should be made in the first instance to the British Board of Film Censors.

(2) IMPORTS.—The import of films is affected in three ways:

(c) Restriction of Imports.

(a) The owner of British copyright may notify the Customs that he objects to copies made out of the United Kingdom of his work which would be an infringement if made here, being imported. The Customs make regulations dealing with this matter, and breach of the prohibition leads to forfeiture and destruction of the offending copies.

(b) The duty on imported films is as follows: Rate per foot of the standard width, 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ inches: Blank film (also called raw film or stock), $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; positives, i.e., films ready for exhibition, 1d.; negatives, i.e., films containing a photograph from which positives may be prepared, 5d. They can be placed in bond.

(c) Imported films must comply with the regulations for railway transit.

ENTERTAINMENTS TAX.

For tax purposes an "entertainment" includes any exhibition, performance, amusement, game, or sport to which persons are admitted for payment. Admission to the place where the entertainment is held is sufficient, otherwise tax could be evaded by charging admission and giving a free show. If there is an additional charge to go to another part of the premises, tax is levied on both charges. The proprietor for this purpose includes the person responsible for the management. The rates are:

						Tax.
Up to 6d. there is no Tax.
Exceeding 6d. but not exceeding	7d.	1
„	7d.	„	„	8d.	..	1	$\frac{1}{2}$
„	8d.	„	„	1/1	..	2
„	1/1	„	„	1/3	..	3
„	1/3	„	„	2/-	..	4
„	2/-	„	„	3/-	..	6
„	3/-	„	„	5/-	..	9
„	5/-	„	„	7/6	..	1	0
„	7/6	„	„	10/6	..	1	6
„	10/6	„	„	15/-	..	2	0

Exceeding 15/-, 2/- for the first 15/-, and 6d. for every 5/- or part of 5/- over 15/-.

Thus, if the charge is £1, the tax is 2/6. If it is £1 10s., the tax is 3/6. The Entertainments Tax is an excise tax and is managed and collected by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise.

Admission can only be given by ticket stamped with a mark denoting that duty has been paid, or in special cases, if the Commissioners approve, through a barrier which automatically registers the numbers admitted. But the proprietor can make arrangements with the Commissioners dispensing with these conditions on the terms of furnishing certified returns at stated times and giving security for due payment of the duty. Penalty for breach : Proprietor, £50 and duty ; Person admitted, £5. Special provision is made for lump sum payments in the case of clubs or societies, or in the case of season tickets or tickets for a series of entertainments.

Duty is not payable where the Commissioners are satisfied :

- (a) That the proceeds are devoted to philanthropic or charitable purposes without deduction of expenses, or
- (b) That the entertainment is wholly educational (in case of difference the Board of Education decides) ; or
- (c) That the entertainment is for children only, and the charge is not more than one penny per person ; or
- (d) That the entertainment is provided for partly educational or partly scientific purposes by a society, and not run for profit ; or
- (e) That it is provided by or on behalf of a school or educational institution if the school or institution is not run for profit, and the entertainment is provided solely for promoting some object of the school or institution, and that all the persons who are performers are under sixteen and are scholars or ex-scholars of the school or institution.

In the case of a charity performance where the whole of the expenses are deducted, but do not exceed 20 per cent. of the receipts, the duty is repaid to the proprietor.

Any officer of excise authorised to do so may enter a place of entertainment and any person who prevents or obstructs him is liable to a fine up to £20.

The Commissioners can make regulations, any breach of which entails an excise penalty of £50, and they may make arrangements whereby the local authority (county, borough, or urban district council), or the police may exercise all or any of the powers of the Commissioners as to this duty. The law is contained in the Finance (New Duties) Act, 1916, ss. 1 and 2, and the Finance Act, 1916, s. 12.

COPYRIGHT.

Under the Copyright Act, 1911, the owner of a literary or dramatic work has the sole right to make a kinematograph film or other contrivance by which the same may be mechanically performed, and to authorise such acts. Before the Act it was held that there was no such right (Karno v. Pathé Frères, 100 L.T. 260).

Infringement is doing without the owner's consent anything which conflicts with the owner's rights. It includes selling, or letting for hire, or by way of trade exposing or offering for sale or hire, or by way of trade exhibiting in public or importing for sale or hire any work which infringes copyright or would do so if the work had been made in the country where infringement takes place. It also includes the case of a person who, for his private profit, permits a theatre or place of entertainment to be used for the public performance of a work without the owner's consent unless the person so doing was not aware and had no reasonable ground for suspecting that it was an infringement.

Copyright lasts during the life of the author and fifty years after his death. In the case of photographs, it is fifty years from the making of the original negative. All transfers or licences must be in writing and signed by the owner or his agent. The author cannot assign his copyright for longer than twenty-five years after his death.

A compulsory licence can be obtained twenty-five or thirty years after the author's death, but this provision cannot apply before 1936 at the earliest. The Privy Council has the power to grant a compulsory licence at any time after the author's death if it is proved that the work has been published or performed in public, and the present owner of the copyright has refused to allow republication, etc., so that the work is in effect withheld from the public.

An employee or apprentice does not acquire the copyright in work he does for his employer. Where a photograph is taken at the order of the sitter, who pays for it, he, and not the photographer, is the owner. It is a criminal offence to infringe copyright knowingly, and the offender is liable to a fine up to 40s. for every copy, but not more than £50 for any one transaction. In the case of second or subsequent offences, the justices can send the offender to prison for two months without the option of a fine, and in all cases may order the copies to be destroyed. No criminal charge under the Act can be brought more than six months after the act complained of. In civil proceedings the usual remedy is an injunction, but the defendant is also liable for damages unless he proves not merely that he did not know of the copyright, but also that he had no reasonable grounds for suspecting its existence. For example, if a kinema proprietor hires a film to show at one hall, he is liable for damages if he shows it at any other place (Fenning Film Service v. Wolverhampton, etc., Cinemas [1914] 3 K.B. 1171). Where the alleged infringement is such that the Court would not protect it as an original work (e.g., on the ground of indecency), the owner of the copyright cannot sue under the Act, but can claim damages for defamatory representation of his work (Glyn v. Western Feature Film Co. [1916] 1 Ch. 261). The proper way to prove a film is to call someone who has seen it shown and not to produce the film unless some point turns on the film itself.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD REGULATIONS.

The Local Government Board have power under Section 130 of Public Health Act, 1875, and amendments to issue regulations with a view to preventing the spread of any epidemic or infectious disease. Regulations known as the Public Health (Influenza) Regulations, 1918, were issued by the Local Government Board under general orders dated November 18 and 22, 1918 :—

1. Limiting the time of entertainment to not more than 4 hours consecutively.
2. An interval of not less than 30 minutes between any two entertainments.
3. During such interval the place to be effectually and thoroughly ventilated, the penalty for breach not exceeding £100, and in case of a continuing offence to a further penalty not exceeding £50 for every day which the offence continues.
4. No children to be admitted to exhibitions where public elementary schools in the district have been temporarily closed. Notice must be given to the proprietor, otherwise regulation not effective.

These restrictions can be relaxed by any local authority upon such conditions as they may determine on the advice of their Medical Officer for Health. They do not concern the Licensing Authorities, who have no power to deal with such restrictions.

For removal of regulations application should be made to the District or Urban Council of the place where the theatre is situated.

[These regulations have been rescinded. Attempts are being made to make them conditions on cinematograph licences, but it is doubtful whether such conditions are "intra vires."]

THE CELLULOID ACT.

An Act known as "THE CELLULOID AND CINEMATOGRAPH FILM ACT OF 1922" has been passed to make better provision for the prevention of fire in premises where raw celluloid or cinematograph films are stored or used.

The purposes to which this Act applies are :—

- (1) The keeping or storing of raw celluloid—
 - (a) In quantities exceeding at any one time one hundredweight ; or
 - (b) In smaller quantities unless kept (except when required to be exposed for the purpose of the work carried on in the premises) in a properly closed metal box or case ; and
- (2) The keeping or storing of cinematograph film—
 - (a) In quantities exceeding at any one time twenty reels or eighty pounds in weight, or
 - (b) In smaller quantities unless each reel is kept (except when required to be exposed for the purpose of the work carried on in the premises) in a separate and properly closed metal box or case :—

Provided that :—

- i. For the purpose of this Act, cinematograph film shall be deemed to be kept in any premises where it is temporarily deposited for the purpose of examination, cleaning, packing, re-winding or repair, but celluloid or cinematograph film shall not be deemed to be kept or stored in any premises where it is temporarily deposited whilst in the course of delivery, conveyance or transport ; and
- ii The provisions of this Act shall not, except in the cases referred to in paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) of sub-section (1) of section one thereof, apply to premises to which the Factory and Workshop Acts, 1901 to 1920 apply. Nor do the provisions of this Act apply to premises licensed under the Cinematograph Act, 1909. It should be pointed out, however, that under this Act any Officer duly authorised by a local authority may at any time take for analysis sufficient samples of any material which he suspects to be or to contain Celluloid.

HOME OFFICE REGULATIONS, 1923.

The 1923 Regulations under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, are somewhat important, and have been somewhat amended from their original form, owing to various meetings that took place between the Sub-Committee of the C.E.A. and the Home Office.

The Regulations took the place of previous Regulations of February 18, 1910 and May 20, 1913. The Regulations must be exhibited in the enclosure and easily accessible to operators. They are dated July 30, 1923, and operate from that date, but they would not affect any licence for the period for which it was granted, though, of course, when the same is renewed the new conditions will appear.

As regards clause 4, "Fire Appliances" footnote should be noticed, as it lays down that a fireman need not be employed exclusively in taking charge of the fire appliances. He must not, however, be given other work during an exhibition which would take him away from the building or otherwise prevent him from being immediately available in case of danger or alarm of fire.

As regards No. 5, "Smoking," it should be observed that notices stating that smoking is prohibited shall be kept posted in the enclosure and film room or anywhere where films are stored, wound or repaired.

As regards No. 7, relating to enclosure, fire-resisting material now includes teak or oak not less than two inches thick.

With regard to clause 7, "Enclosures," Sec. 8, it will be noticed that in case of need the enclosure may be left for a short period in charge of a competent assistant over 16 years of age.

As to what is the exact definition of a "competent operator," one does not know, but apparently it can be taken to mean that an operator who can satisfactorily operate would come within the definition of a "competent operator."

With regard to clause 13, "Lighting," it should be pointed out that if the general lighting is by electricity the safety lighting shall be by (a) electricity from another source (b) gas or (c) oil or candles

One does not take this to mean that the safety lighting, if electricity, shall be taken from an entirely different supply, but merely that there shall be primary and secondary lighting installed in the building, the intention, of course, being that should the electric light supply be temporarily interrupted, the theatre will not be put into darkness

Clause 14, on "Electrical Installation," it should be noticed that the Wiring Rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers, apply, a copy of which can always be obtained from E. & F. N. Spon, Ltd., 57, Haymarket, W.C., price 6d.

It should be observed that Sections A, E, F and G of these Regulations do not apply to wiring in existence before July 30, 1923, except in the event of such wiring being altered or renewed.

With regard to clause 15, it should be noticed that the requirements in paragraphs C, D, M and N shall not apply to apparatus in use before the date of these Regulations, and the requirements in paragraphs E, G, I, J and K do not apply until July 29, 1925, except in the event of the apparatus being renewed or materially altered.—NORMAN HART.

STATUTORY RULES AND ORDERS, 1923, No. 983.

[REGULATIONS, DATED JULY 30, 1923, MADE BY THE SECRETARY OF STATE UNDER THE CINEMATOGRAPH ACT, 1909 (9 EDW. 7, C. 30).]

PART I.—GENERAL.

DEFINITIONS.

1.—In these Regulations—

- (a) The word "building" shall be deemed to include any booth, tent or similar structure.
- (b) The expression "new building" means a building newly erected or adapted after the date on which these regulations come into force for the purpose of cinematograph exhibitions.
- (c) The expression "cinematograph exhibition" includes any exhibition to which the Act applies.

SEATING AND EXITS.

2.—(a) No building shall be used for cinematograph exhibitions unless it be provided with an adequate number of exits clearly indicated and so placed and maintained as readily to afford the audience ample means of safe egress.

(b) The doors of all exits shall be so constructed and maintained as easily to open outwards on being pressed from within.

(c) The seating in the building shall be so arranged as not to interfere with free access to the exits.

(d) The gangways, the staircases, and the passages leading to the exits shall, during the presence of the public in the building, be kept clear of obstructions. No person shall be allowed to stand or sit in any of the gangways intersecting the rows of seats, or in the space between the front row of seats and the screen; and if standing be permitted by the licensing authority in any other gangway or portion of the auditorium, sufficient room shall be left to allow persons to pass easily to and fro.

STAFF.

3.—(a) The licensee or some responsible person nominated by him in writing for the purpose shall be in charge during the whole time of any exhibition and there shall also be during that time a sufficient staff of attendants in the building for the purpose of securing safety.

(b) All persons responsible for or employed in or in connection with the exhibition shall take all due precautions for the prevention of accidents, and shall abstain from any act whatever which tends to cause fire and is not reasonably necessary for the purpose of the exhibition.

FIRE APPLIANCES.

4.—(a) Fire appliances suitable to the character of the building and adequate to deal with an outbreak of fire shall be provided and maintained in good working order. During the exhibition such appliances shall be in the charge of some person (A) specially nominated for that purpose who shall see that they are kept constantly available for use.

(b) There shall always be within the enclosure sufficient means of dealing with fire readily available for use, and these shall include the following, namely, a thick woollen blanket, two buckets of water, and a bucket of dry sand. Before the commencement of each exhibition the operator shall satisfy himself that the fire appliances within the enclosure are ready for use.

(A) It is not required that the person specially nominated should necessarily be employed exclusively in taking charge of the fire appliances, but he must not be given other work during an exhibition which would take him away from the building or otherwise prevent him from being immediately available in case of danger or alarm of fire.

SMOKING.

5.—No smoking shall at any time be permitted within the barrier or enclosure, nor in the film room nor in any part of the premises in which films are stored, wound, or repaired. Notices stating that smoking is prohibited shall be kept posted in the enclosure and film room and any such part of the premises as aforesaid.

INFLAMMABLE ARTICLES.

6.—No inflammable article shall unnecessarily be taken into, or allowed to remain in, the enclosure, the film room, or any part of the premises in which films are stored, wound, or repaired.

ENCLOSURES.

Regulations applying to all classes of buildings.

7.—(1) (a) The projecting apparatus shall be placed in an enclosure of substantial construction made of or lined internally with fire-resisting material and of sufficient dimensions to allow the operator to work freely.

(b) All fittings and fixtures within the enclosure other than the frames of outside windows shall be constructed of or covered with fire-resisting material.

The entrance to the enclosure shall be suitably placed and fitted with a self-closing close-fitting door which shall be kept closed during the exhibition.

For the purpose of this Regulation the expression "fire resisting material" includes teak or oak not less than two inches thick.

(c) The openings through which the necessary pipes and cables pass into the enclosure shall be efficiently sealed or bushed, as the case may be.

(d) The openings in the front face of the enclosure shall be covered with glass and shall not be larger than is necessary for effective projection and observation.

Each such opening shall be fitted with a screen of fire-resisting material, which can be released from both the inside and the outside of the enclosure so that it automatically closes with a close-fitting joint. The screens shall be so constructed and arranged that they can all be released simultaneously from the operating position near any of the projectors.

The openings shall not exceed two for each projecting apparatus and not more than two of the openings shall be left unscreeened at any one time notwithstanding that there be two or more lanterns in the enclosure unless a control is provided by which all the screens can be released simultaneously from both the inside and the outside of the enclosure.

(e) The door of the enclosure and all openings, bushes, and joints shall be so constructed and maintained as to prevent, so far as possible, the escape of any smoke into the auditorium or any part of the building to which the public are admitted.

(f) Adequate means of ventilation shall be provided with sufficient inlets and outlets so as to ensure a constant supply of fresh air. The inlets and outlets shall communicate directly with the outside of the building, and shall be so arranged as not to expose the operator to a direct draught.

(g) If the enclosure is inside the auditorium, either a suitable barrier shall be placed round the enclosure at a distance of not less than two feet from it, or other effectual means shall be taken to prevent the public from coming into contact with the enclosure.

Provided that this requirement shall not apply where the enclosure is of permanent construction and is not entered from the auditorium.

(h) The enclosure shall be in charge of a competent operator over eighteen years of age, who shall be present in the enclosure during the whole time that the apparatus is in use. This shall not prevent the operator leaving the enclosure for a short period in case of need provided that a competent assistant, over sixteen years of age, is left in charge and the operator remains within immediate call.

(i) No unauthorised person shall go into the enclosure or be allowed to be within the barrier.

Regulations applying only to specified classes of buildings.

(2) In the case of buildings used habitually for cinematograph exhibitions the enclosure shall be outside the auditorium ; and in the case of permanent buildings used habitually as aforesaid the enclosure shall also be permanent.

Provided that if the licensing authority is of opinion that, in the case of an existing building, compliance with either or both of the requirements in the preceding paragraph is impracticable or in the circumstances unnecessary for securing safety, the requirement or requirements shall not apply.

In any new building where the enclosure is permanent, the enclosure shall also comply with the following requirements :—

(a) a window or skylight shall be provided.

(b) the entrance shall be from the open air.

(c) alternative means of egress shall be provided unless the licensing authority is satisfied that compliance with this requirement is impracticable.

PROJECTING APPARATUS AND FILMS.

8.—(a) The projecting apparatus shall be placed on firm supports constructed of fire-resisting material.

(b) Every lantern shall be fitted with a metal shutter which can readily be inserted by hand between the source of light and the film-gate, and every projector shall be fitted with a metal shutter so arranged as automatically to cut off the film-gate from the source of light when the projector stops.

(c) The construction of the film-gate shall be substantial and such as to afford ample heat-radiating surface. The passage for the film shall be sufficiently narrow to prevent flames travelling upwards or downwards from the light-opening.

9.—(a) Projectors shall be fitted with two metal boxes of substantial construction to and from which the film shall be made to travel, unless both the film spools are contained in a metal chamber of substantial construction below the projector. There shall not be more than 2,000 feet of film in either of the two metal boxes.

(b) The film boxes or chamber shall be made to close in such a manner, and shall be fitted with film slots so constructed, as to prevent the passage of flame to the interior of the box or chamber, and they shall remain so closed during the whole time that projection is taking place.

10.—Take-up spools shall be mechanically driven and films shall be wound upon spools so that the wound film shall not at any time reach or project beyond the edges of the flanges of the spool.

11.—(a) During the exhibition all films when not in use shall be kept in closed metal boxes of substantial construction. When in the enclosure not more than six spools shall be kept in one box at the same time.

(b) Not more than 12 spools or 20,000 feet of film altogether shall be kept in the enclosure and the rewinding room at the same time.

REWINDING ROOM.

12.—(a) A separate room shall be provided for the rewinding and repairing of films, which shall be constructed throughout of, or lined internally with, fire-resisting material.

(b) All fittings and fixtures within the rewinding room shall be constructed of, or covered with, fire-resisting material, and the entrance shall be provided with a self-closing close-fitting door of fire-resisting material which shall not communicate directly with the auditorium or any part of the building to which the public are admitted. If there is any communicating doorway or other opening between the enclosure and the rewinding room it shall also be provided with a door or shutter of fire-resisting material.

For the purposes of this Regulation the expression " fire-resisting material " includes teak or oak not less than 2 inches thick.

(c) The rewinding room shall be provided with adequate means of ventilation, with sufficient inlets and outlets so as to ensure a constant supply of fresh air. The inlets and outlets shall communicate directly with the outside of the building.

(d) Alternative means of egress shall be provided other than through the enclosure.

Provided that if the licensing authority is of opinion that compliance with any of the requirements of this regulation is impracticable or, in the case of any of the requirements in paragraphs (a), (b) and (d), that it is in the circumstances unnecessary for securing safety, the requirement or requirements shall not apply.

LIGHTING AND ELECTRICAL INSTALLATION.

13.—(a) Where the general lighting of the premises can be controlled from within the enclosure, there shall also be separate and independent means of control outside of and away from the enclosure.

(b) The auditorium and exits therefrom to the outside of the building and all parts of the building to which the public are admitted shall throughout be adequately illuminated (A) during the whole time the public is present. The lighting for this purpose (hereinafter referred to as safety lighting) shall be supplied from a separate source from that of the general lighting of the premises and shall not be controllable from the enclosure (B). Where oil lamps are provided colza oil shall be used.

14.—Where electrical energy is used for lighting or other purposes within the building the following requirements shall be observed :—

- (a) Except as otherwise provided in these Regulations, the installation generally shall be in accordance with the Wiring Rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers.
 - (b) The main supply fuses and switches shall not be accessible to the public. They shall be located where there is ample space and head room and where there is no risk of fire resulting therefrom.
 - (c) A separate circuit shall be taken from the source of supply for the projector circuit so that no accident to this circuit can affect the general lighting.
 - (d) Each of the main circuits shall be separately protected by an efficient linked switch and by a fuse on each pole.
 - (e) The general wiring of the building shall be protected by metal conduit mechanically and electrically continuous or by hard wood casings, except as regards any necessary flexible conductors such as may be required for pendant lamps or movable fittings.
 - (f) All fuses and distribution boards shall be of a completely protected type so constructed that the fuse holders can be handled for renewal of the fuse wires without risk of touching live metal.
 - (g) Portable lamps for the orchestra or similar lighting shall be connected to a separate circuit or circuits from the distribution fuse boards.
 - (h) The electrical installation shall be in charge of a competent person, whether the operator or another, who shall have received an adequate electrical training for his duties.
 - (i) The competent person shall satisfy himself before the commencement of each performance that the electrical apparatus, including the projector circuits, is in proper working order.
- Provided that paragraphs (a), (e), (f), (g) of this Regulation shall not apply to such parts of the electrical installation as were in use before the date of these Regulations, except in the event of such parts being altered or renewed.

15.—No illuminant other than electric light, limelight, or acetylene shall be used within the lantern and the following conditions shall be observed :

(1) Electric Light.—(a) All cables and wires for the projector circuits within and without the enclosure shall be heavily insulated and any necessary slack cable within the enclosure shall be heavily covered with asbestos.

For permanent enclosures installed after the date of these Regulations the cables and wires except as regards any necessary slack cable shall, unless armoured, be further protected by heavy gauge screwed metal conduit efficiently earthed. The conduit and fittings shall be bushed where necessary to prevent abrasion of the insulating material.

For temporary enclosures the cables and wires shall be secured by insulating cleats. Within the enclosure they shall be heavily protected by asbestos and without the enclosure they shall be protected by casings in all positions where they are liable to damage.

(b) An efficient double-pole main switch shall be fixed within the enclosure whereby all pressure may be cut off from the projector circuit or circuits within the enclosure, and where the lantern is earthed an additional double-

(A) By adequate illumination it is meant that there should be such a degree of light as to enable the spectators to see their way out.

(B) e.g., if the general lighting is by electricity, the safety lighting shall be by (a) electricity from another source, (b) gas, or (c) oil or candles.

pole switch shall be fixed for each arc lamp so that the pressure may be cut off whilst recarboning is taking place.

(c) Where two or more projectors are installed and a change-over switch is required, it shall, unless it be a double-pole switch having a secure " off " position, be in addition to and not in substitution for the above main switch.

(d) All live parts of apparatus within five feet of the projector shall be shielded so that they cannot be accidentally touched. The covers of enclosed switches shall be of metal and, with the exception of change-over switches, shall be so constructed that the switch handle does not work through an open slot. Where live metal is exposed so that it may be touched, the floor within a radius of three feet from a point immediately below the live metal shall be covered with insulating material.

(e) Within the enclosure the pressure of the supply between any two conductors or between any conductor and earth shall not at any time exceed 250 volts direct or 125 volts alternating for the projector circuit.

Where the supply of alternating current is at a higher pressure, the pressure shall be reduced by means of a double-wound transformer.

In the case of a stand-by or temporary supply from across the outer conductors of a direct-current 3-wire system exceeding 250 volts, the projector circuit shall be taken as a shunt across part of a resistance connected across the outer conductors of the supply, so that the pressure within the enclosure shall not at any time exceed 250 volts.

(f) The projector motor circuit shall be controlled by a double-pole switch or hand-shield plug. The motor starter and its resistance may be within the enclosure, but these and all other parts of the circuit shall be protected so that no live metal can be inadvertently touched.

(g) Fuses shall be protected by enclosure in covers or cabinets against scattering of hot metal and shall be mounted in carriers or holders, so constructed that the hand cannot inadvertently touch live metal and that the hand is protected from the flash should a fuse blow on the insertion of the carrier in the contacts.

(h) The lamp or lamps for lighting the enclosure and the rewinding room shall not be connected to the safety lighting.

(i) All metal work liable to become accidentally charged, including the projecting apparatus, shall be efficiently earthed. The size of the earth wires shall be in accordance with the requirements of the Wiring Rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers.

(j) The arc lamp adjusting handles shall be made of insulating material and shall be so constructed and arranged that the hand cannot inadvertently touch live metal.

(k) An ammeter shall be provided in the projector circuit within the enclosure.

(l) Resistances shall be so constructed and maintained that no coil or other part shall at any time become unduly heated. (A)

The framework, supports and enclosures of resistances shall be made entirely of fire-resisting material.

Resistances shall not be attached to wood work and shall, as far as possible, be kept away from any wood work. All wood work shall, where necessary, be effectively protected against overheating.

The terminals of the resistances and the connecting cables shall not be placed above the resistance elements.

Resistances placed where they are liable to be accidentally touched shall be efficiently guarded.

(m) Resistances, in which more than two kilowatts are dissipated, shall be placed outside the enclosure and in a room or place other than the rewinding room accessible only to the technical staff. Adequate precautions shall be taken against fire resulting therefrom. If within the building, the room or place shall not communicate directly with the auditorium. It shall be well ventilated by ample inlets and outlets connecting directly with the outside air.

(A) e.g., they should not become so heated that a piece of newspaper placed in contact with any part of the resistance would readily ignite.

Switches suitably placed shall be provided by means of which the pressure may be cut off from the resistances

(n) The motor generators or the electrical generating plant, as the case may be, and the main switchgear shall be in a fire-resisting room or rooms which may also contain the main resistances and the main supply fuses and switches. This room shall be well ventilated and shall not communicate directly with the auditorium or any part of the building to which the public are admitted.

Provided that the requirements in paragraphs (c), (d), (m), (n) shall not apply to apparatus in use before the date of these Regulations and the requirements in paragraphs (e), (g), (i), (j), (k) shall not apply, as regards such apparatus, until two years from the said date, except in the event of the apparatus being renewed or materially altered.

(2) Limelight.—The tubing shall be of sufficient strength to resist pressure from without and shall be properly connected up.

Cylinders containing gas under pressure other than acetylene gas shall be constructed, tested and filled in conformity with the recommendations either of the Committee on the manufacture of Compressed Gas Cylinders appointed by the Home Office in 1895 or of the Committee on Compressed Gas Cylinders appointed by the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research in 1918.

(3) Acetylene.—Acetylene, whether or not in conjunction with oxygen shall be used only when supplied :—

- (a) direct from cylinders or other vessels containing a homogeneous porous substance with or without acetone, which, in regard to their contents and the degree of compression, comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State's order (A) regulating the compression of acetylene gas into cylinders containing a porous substance, and in force for the time being; or (b) from a generator which shall be situated outside the building in a place approved by the licensing authority, the gas being supplied to the operator's box, so far as practicable, by pipes of metal other than unalloyed copper, and such flexible tubing as is necessarily employed being of sufficient strength to resist pressure from without and being properly connected up.

Provided that acetylene supplied direct from a generator shall not be employed as an illuminant in wooden buildings or in tents, or other movable or temporary structures.

EXHIBITION OF REGULATIONS.

16.—The licensee shall see that a copy of these Regulations is exhibited in the enclosure and is easily accessible to the operators.

BUILDINGS OCCASIONALLY USED.

17.—Where a building is used only occasionally for the purposes of a cinematograph exhibition, the provisions of the following Regulations shall not apply unless specially imposed and notified as conditions by the licensing authority in pursuance of Section 7 of the Act in cases of exceptional danger, viz. :—

Regulations 2(b), 11(b), and 14 (excepting paragraphs (c) (h) and (i) in so far as they relate to the projector circuits), but the following requirements shall be complied with, viz.:—

- (a) The doors of all exits shall be arranged to meet any requirements of the licensing authority.
- (b) The film-boxes fitted to the projector shall not exceed 14 inches in diameter, inside measurement.
- (c) Not more than 3 spools altogether shall be kept in the enclosure at any one time.

PART II.—PORTABLE PROJECTORS.

18.—Where a portable self-contained projector is used, regulations 2(b), 4(a), 5 to 12 inclusive and 14 to 17 (except 17(a)) inclusive shall not apply

(A) The Order at present in force is that dated the 23rd June, 1919 (Statutory Rules and Orders, 1919, No. 809).

provided that regulations 1, 2(a), (c), (d), 3, 4(b) (with the substitution of the words "reserved space" for the word "enclosure"), 13 (with the substitution of the words "reserved space" for the word "enclosure"), 17(a) (whether or not the building is only occasionally used) and 19 to 26 inclusive are complied with

RESERVED SPACE.

19.—(a) If the projector is erected in any part of the auditorium or any place to which the public have access, effectual means shall be taken, whether by the erection of a suitable barrier or otherwise, to maintain round the projector a clear space of at least 3 feet, hereinafter referred to as "the reserved space."

(b) No unauthorised person shall be allowed within the reserved space.

(c) No smoking shall at any time be permitted within the reserved space.

(d) No inflammable article shall unnecessarily be taken into or allowed to remain in the reserved-space.

PROJECTORS AND FILMS.

20.—The projector shall be placed on a firm support and shall be kept clear of the access to any exit.

21.—(a) The projector and the illuminant shall be entirely enclosed in a casing of fire-resisting material except for such openings as are necessary for effective manipulation and ventilation.

(b) Any electric wiring or terminals fitted within the casing shall be so placed that it shall be impossible for films in use in the projector to come in contact with them.

(c) Each electric circuit on the projector shall be fitted with a separate switch controlled from outside the casing, and so placed as to be within reach of the operator when standing at the projector.

(d) No illuminant other than electric light in hermetically sealed lamps shall be used within the projector, and the illuminant shall be separately encased in such a way as to prevent contact with the film.

(e) The heat of the illuminant, and its position in relation to the optical system, shall be such that it is impossible for the rays of light to ignite a stationary film. (A)

22.—(a) The projector shall be fitted with film-boxes of fire-resisting material, which shall be made to close in such a manner, and (where ribbon film is employed) shall be fitted with film-slots so constructed as to prevent the passage of flame to the interior of the box.

(b) The film-boxes shall not be capable of carrying films of more than 10 inches in diameter, and shall be so constructed as to be easily detachable from the apparatus.

(c) All films shall be contained in film-boxes, which shall be attached to or removed from the projector without being opened, so that at no time shall a film be exposed except the portion necessary for threading up.

(d) During an exhibition not more than three film-boxes (including the two actually attached to the projector) shall be in the auditorium at any one time. If further film-boxes are required, they shall be kept in closed metal boxes outside the auditorium, and, if in the building, in a place approved by the licensing authority.

ELECTRIC CIRCUITS FOR THE PROJECTOR.

23.—(a) All electric conductors shall be of adequate size for the current they have to carry and shall be efficiently covered with insulating material and shall be either (i) placed out of reach of persons in the auditorium and where they are not liable to damage, or (ii) protected against injury by suitable casings.

(A) This requirement will be considered as met if a film stationary in the film-gate fails to ignite within a period of three minutes.

(b) Resistances shall be made entirely of fire-resisting material, and shall be so constructed and maintained that no coil or other part at any time shall become unduly heated. (A) If inside the auditorium, they shall be adequately protected by a wire guard or other efficient means of preventing accidental contact, and shall not be placed within reach of persons in the audience.

(c) The operator shall satisfy himself before the commencement of each performance that all cables, leads, connections, resistances, and fuses are in proper working order. The resistances, if not under constant observation, shall be inspected at least once during each performance. If any fault is detected, current shall be immediately switched off, and shall remain switched off until the fault has been remedied.

(d) The projector circuit shall be independently protected by a double pole switch and fuses properly enclosed and placed near the source of supply or the point of connection with the general lighting supply, as the case may be. Provided that, where the current does not exceed five amperes and the connection of the projector circuit to the general lighting supply is made by means of a connector as described in paragraph (e) below, such a connector may be used in substitution for a double-pole switch.

(e) Where the projector circuit is connected to the general lighting supply it shall be connected only at a point where the wires of the general lighting supply are of ample size for the current they may have to carry, and the connection shall be either by (a) securely made joints or connections, or (b) a properly constructed wall type connector of hand shield type. It shall not be connected to any lighting fitting, or by means of an "adaptor" to a lamp-holder.

EXHIBITION OF REGULATIONS.

24.—A copy of so much of these Regulations as applies when a portable projector is used shall be exhibited in any room or place in which a portable projector is used for the purposes of an exhibition.

PART III.—LICENCES.

25.—Subject to the provisions of No. 26 of these Regulations, every licence granted under the Act shall contain a clause providing for its suspension by the licensing authority in the event of any failure on the part of the licensee to carry out these Regulations, or of the building becoming otherwise unsafe or of any material alteration being made in the building or enclosure with out the consent of the licensing authority.

26.—Where a licence has been granted under the Act in respect of a movable building, a plan and description of the building, certified with the approval of the licensing authority, shall be attached to the licence. Such a licence may provide that any of the conditions or restrictions contained therein may be modified either by the licensing authority, or by the licensing authority for the district where an exhibition is about to be given. The licence and plan and description or any of them shall be produced on demand to any police constable or to any person authorised by the licensing authority, or by the authority in whose district the building is being, or is about to be, used for the purpose of an exhibition.

PART IV.—REPEAL.

27.—The Regulations dated February 18th, 1910 (B), and May 20th, 1913 (c) made under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, are hereby repealed, provided nevertheless that any licence granted prior to such repeal shall remain valid for the period for which it was granted without the imposition of any more stringent condition than may have been imposed at the time of the grant

(A) e.g., they should not become so heated that a piece of newspaper placed in contact with any part of the resistance would readily ignite.

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

PART I.

RESTRICTIONS ON BLIND BOOKING AND ADVANCE BOOKING OF FILMS.

1.—(Restriction on Blind Booking of Films).—(1) As from the commencement of this Act, no agreement shall be entered into to rent or imposing an obligation when called on to rent for public exhibition in Great Britain any film to which this Act applies unless every such film to which the agreement relates has been registered under this Act or a valid application for the registration thereof has been made:

Provided that—

(a) this provision shall not apply to a film which has been exhibited to exhibitors or to the public in Great Britain before the commencement of this Act; and

(b) in the case of a serial film or a series of films within the meaning of this Act, it shall be sufficient if any three parts thereof have been registered or a valid application for the registration of three parts thereof has been made.

(2) In the case of a film which has not been previously exhibited to exhibitors or to the public in Great Britain, this section shall not operate so as to prohibit the making prior to the registration or application for registration thereof of an agreement for the exhibition of the film in one theatre only on a number of consecutive days.

2.—(Restriction on Advance Booking).—(1) As from the commencement of this Act, no agreement shall be entered into for the exhibition to the public in Great Britain at a date later than the expiration of the authorised period from the date of the agreement of any film to which this Act applies:

Provided that in the case of a serial film or a series of films within the meaning of this Act, the authorised period shall apply only in respect of the date of exhibition of the first three parts.

Provided that in the case of a serial film or a series of films within the meaning of this Act the authorised period shall apply only in respect of the date of exhibition of the first three parts.

(2) For the purposes of this section the authorised period shall—

(a) in the case of an agreement made before the first day of October, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, be twelve months;

(b) in the case of an agreement made on or after the first day of October, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, and before the first day of October, nineteen hundred and thirty, be nine months;

(c) in the case of an agreement made on or after the first day of October, nineteen hundred and thirty, be six months.

3.—(Penalty on Contraventions).—If any person enters into an agreement in contravention of this Part of this Act, or if any person exhibits to the public in Great Britain a film the right to exhibit which has been acquired by him under any such agreement, he shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and any agreement in contravention of this part of the Act, wherever made, shall be invalid.

4.—(Provision as to Existing Agreements).—Any agreement entered into after the twenty-fifth day of September, nineteen hundred and twenty-six, and before the commencement of this Act which if entered into after the commencement of this Act would be an invalid Agreement under the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act shall, if and so far as it affects any films to which this Act applies to be delivered for public exhibition in Great Britain after the thirty-first day of December, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, cease to have effect on that day.

PART II.

REGISTRATION OF FILMS.

5.—(Prohibition Against Exhibition of Unregistered Films).—(1) On and after the first day of April, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, no film to which this Act applies, or, in the case of a serial film or a series of films, no part thereof, shall be exhibited to the public in Great Britain unless the film or the part thereof exhibited has been registered in accordance with this Part of this Act:

Provided that—

(a) a film in respect of which a provisional application for registration has been made may, before registration, be exhibited in Great Britain at a series of public exhibitions held at one theatre only on consecutive days.

(b) the prohibition contained in this section shall not apply to a film which has been exhibited before the commencement of this Act.

(2) If any person exhibits a film, or, in the case of a serial film or a series of films, any part thereof, in contravention of this section he shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for each day on which the film or part has been so exhibited.

6.—(Registration of Films.)—(1) The Board of Trade shall keep a register of films to which this Act applies, and shall enter therein such particulars as may be prescribed; and the register shall specify whether the film is registered as a British film or a foreign film.

Provided that a film which has been exhibited to exhibitors or to the public before the first day of October, nineteen hundred and twenty-seven shall not be registered unless the Board of Trade, after consultation with the Advisory Committee hereinafter mentioned, determine that the registration of the film shall be allowed.

TRADE DISPUTES.

Second-hand Projector Claim.—At Newcastle County Court, on July 20, when Carter Crowe, trading as Crowe and Company, kinematograph engineers, Newcastle, sued Capt. A. F. Watt, proprietor of the Marine Pavilion, Spittal, for £19 2s. 6d. Defendant repudiated the account, and counter-claimed against the plaintiff for £91 14s. 7d.

Plaintiff explained that he fitted an electric installation in the Marine Pavilion, on defendant's instructions, and supplied a second-hand Gaumont projector. The projector was in perfect working order when he gave a demonstration at the hall, on May 29, but in consequence of the defendant's repeated complaints, plaintiff went to the hall on June 11, and finding no one in the hall except the operator and proprietor, an hour after starting time, he brought the projector away.

He offered credit of £61 7s. 8d. for all material returned, and to charge him hire for the fortnight. To this defendant agreed. The claim was for the balance of the account.

Defendant declared that by supplying a projector that was not in working order, plaintiff had caused him to lose two sums of £10 and one of £30, in takings, on successive nights, and besides counter-claiming for these amounts, he claimed from the plaintiff £15 loss sustained on the resale of chairs which had been bought for the kinema, loss on the resale of the screen, and the week's film hire bill, amounting to £6 17s. 8d.

Witnesses asserted that the defendant engaged as operator a man who had been employed at a Berwick picture theatre to sweep the stage, and who had no experience as an operator; and that the projector without having had anything done to it since, was now giving entire satisfaction at the Palladium Cinema, Gateshead.

His Honour Judge Greenwell remarked that in no circumstances was he entitled to charge up against the plaintiff the cost of fittings for the kinema, which could have been used with any projector, and were necessary in any event if the kinema was to be run as such, and said that if the defendant was dissatisfied with the projector supplied, his proper course was to have obtained another projector from some other source, and gone on with the show, charging the plaintiff with the difference in the cost of the projector.

Finding that the projector was in proper working order, his Honour gave judgment for the plaintiff on the claim, with costs, and dismissed the defendant's counter-claim.

Film Hire Terms.—Stoll Picture Productions, Ltd., Oxford Street, W., brought an action in Westminster County Court against Norman Healing Barger, the Lyric Theatre, Carmarthen, to recover £12 10s. for hire of a film called 'The Golden Butterfly.'

Mr. Done, for plaintiffs, stated under agreement eleven films were hired by Mr. Barger, who was also the proprietor of the Picture Palace, Pembroke Dock. Ten of the films were shown there. The last, 'The Golden Butterfly,' was withheld because payment had not been made for the other films. They had since been paid for.

Mr. Davis, for the defence, said that if plaintiff had the right to break the contract and not deliver the film they could not require the other side to carry out the undertaking to pay for it.

Judge Sir Alfred Tobin found there had been no breach of contract by plaintiffs, and gave judgment for them with costs.

Film Condition.—Before Judge Frank Davies, at Carmarthen County Court, the Allied Artists Corporation, Ltd., claimed the sum of £41 6s. 9d. from Norman H. Barger, proprietor of the Lyric Theatre, Carmarthen, and The Palace, Pembroke Dock, in respect of the hire of the film 'The Black Pirate.'

Mr. Barger counter-claimed £86 10s. for alleged breach of warranty, the film being stated to be unfit for exhibition.

Mr. Barger said 'The Black Pirate' was a special film which he hired for twelve days, and for which he charged increased prices. The hiring price was £35. When the film arrived it was found to be in a bad condition, and he communicated at once with the plaintiffs, and asked for another copy to be sent on immediately. They replied that no copy was available.

Judgment was given for Mr. Barger on the counter-claim for £31 10s., and for plaintiffs on the claim for £16 6s. 9d.

Film Contract Dispute.—Before Mr. Justice Talbot, in the Civil Court at the West Riding Assizes at Leeds, W. & F. Film Services (Yorkshire), Ltd., sued Marks Freedman, of Fitzwilliam Street, Huddersfield, and the Savoy Cinemas, Ltd., of 62, Oxford Street, London, as third party, for the recovery of £175.

For the plaintiffs it was explained that in March, 1925, Marks Freedman took over the lease of the Regent Picture House, Bradford, and in the following December he sold his rights to the Savoy Cinemas, Ltd.

The dispute was to the payment of the hire of a film called 'The Woman Who Did,' which was booked in advance for the Regent, but which the Savoy Company said they had refused to take over at the price claimed.

Savoy Cinemas said that the film was quoted to them by Freedman's son at £75.

In giving judgment, his Lordship observed that it was clear to him that the prices of the contracts for films must have been ascertained by the Savoy Company before the final contract was concluded.

He was satisfied, however, that there was no evidence on the part of the plaintiffs to prove that company had agreed to take over this film at the price of £175. He, therefore, gave judgment for the third party—Savoy Cinemas, Ltd.—with costs.

Film Hire Action.—Before Judge Rowland Rowlands at Bridgend County Court, Film Services (Ltd.), London, sued the Cosy Theatre Syndicate, Porthcawl, for a sum of £84 in respect of moneys alleged to be due under seven contracts for the hire of films made through Serralls Exclusives (Ltd.), Cardiff. Counsel said the contracts were entered into, but the films were not delivered because defendants were alleged to be in arrears. The defence was that there was no breach of contract because the films were not delivered. Plaintiffs, however, contended that they were entitled under the new standard form of contract to the full amount of the rental by way of liquidated damages. Judgment was given for the defendants.

More "Fortune's Fool" Litigation.—In the King's Bench Division on March 28, Mr. Justice Acton heard an action in which plaintiffs, the Australian Films, Limited, claimed against defendant, Mr. Lawrence Stanley Stock, 26, Litchfield Street, Charing Cross Road, for the return of £284 19s. 4d. paid for the hire of a film entitled "Fortune's Fool," under an agreement dated August 31, 1925.

For the plaintiffs it was stated that the film was hired by plaintiff and was rejected by the Censor in Australia. Under the terms of the agreement the money paid for the hire of the film became repayable.

The film had also been rejected by the British Censor, and had formed the subject of litigation before Mr. Justice McCardie.

Defendant denied that the British Censor had rejected the film. What happened was that at the time it was submitted it was rejected by plaintiffs on the ground of alleged fraud, and therefore the negotiations with the Censor were not continued.

Giving judgment, his lordship said the agreement was a confused one, but it was clear that the film was rejected by the chief Censor and ordinary Censor in Australia. The plaintiffs had done that which was obligatory and he would enter judgment for the plaintiffs for the amount of the claim with costs.

COPYRIGHT.

"Wild Life" Films.—In the Chancery Division, on July 26, counsel mentioned to Mr. Justice Eve the case of Cherry Kearton, the big game photographer, against Fredk. Arthur Ellis, which was an action for an injunction to restrain the defendant from exhibiting cinematograph films depicting bears in the Rocky Mountains, elephants in Africa, and rhino. lassoing, the copyright of which was claimed by the plaintiff. Counsel said the case had been settled on terms that the defendant would submit to a perpetual injunction.

Mr. Ellis, appearing in person, said there had been an amicable arrangement between the parties, and he would consent to the injunction.

His Lordship said on the terms agreed the action would be stayed.

Copyright Case.—Sir Thomas Hughes, K.C., mentioned to Mr. Justice Eve in the Chancery Division on March 11 the case of Abrahams and Son against W. and F. Film Service, Limited, and said he had a motion by the plaintiffs for an injunction, but Mr. Byrne, who appeared for the defendants, was willing to put an end to the matter.

The plaintiffs were proprietors of the copyright in certain pictures of naval battles and warships, and they had negotiations with the defendants, who wanted the pictures for film purposes.

The plaintiffs gave them a licence to use the pictures for certain purposes, but the defendants used them for purposes entirely outside the licence.

Mr. Byrne offered either an undertaking or an injunction. His clients, he said, committed quite an innocent act.

Sir Thos. Hughes preferred to take the injunction, and his lordship granted it with the other relief asked, the costs of the inquiry being reserved.

Bernard Shaw Wins.—Mr. Justice Eve, in the Chancery Division, on March 21, heard an action against George Bernard Shaw relating to the film rights in the musical comedy, "The Chocolate Soldier," and Mr. Shaw's play, "Arms and the Man." The action was brought by Jesse Arnold Levinson, of Los Angeles, a member of the American bar, who, it was said, had as clients many film producers, and himself was interested in film rights. He asked for a declaration that the operetta known as "Der Tapfere Soldat," or "The Chocolate Soldier," did not reproduce any substantial part of Mr. Shaw's play, "Arms and the Man," and that he was entitled to produce a film version of the operetta without Mr. Shaw's consent. Alternatively he said that consent was given by Mr. Shaw's secretary, Miss Patch. Mr. Levinson also claimed an injunction to restrain Mr. Shaw from stating to film producers and others that any film entitled "The Chocolate Soldier" or based on the operetta would infringe his copyright.

A letter to Mr. Levinson from Mr. Shaw's private secretary states:—"Mr. Bernard Shaw says that 'The Chocolate Soldier' and 'Arms and the Man' are two distinct plays. They are both written round the same battle, and the incident of the soldier breaking into the lady's bedroom is the same. If 'The Chocolate Soldier' is filmed, care must be taken that nothing is quoted from the letterpress of Mr. Shaw's play, 'Arms and the Man,' nor must his name appear in connection with it, as he would immediately prosecute should there be any suggestion that he had anything to do with the writing of 'The Chocolate Soldier.'" In his defence, said counsel, Mr. Shaw did not admit that Mr. Levinson owned the film rights in the operetta.

Mr. Gover, who called no witnesses, stated that Mr. Shaw had been offered between £15,000 and £32,000 for the film rights of "Arms and the Man." Counsel submitted that the case should be dismissed.

His Lordship gave judgment, and said the action was not maintainable, and there was not cause of action underlying it.

The result was that the action failed and was dismissed, with costs.

ADVERTISING.

Curtain Advertising.—C. H. Dent, proprietor of the Grand Theatre, Tamworth, Warwickshire, was the defendant in a claim for damages for breach of contract brought in the Nisi Prius court of the Birmingham Assizes by Goodman, Raven and Co., of Gloucester House, 19, Charing Cross Road.

The dispute arose over a contract for the fixing of an advertisement curtain in the Grand Theatre. Plaintiffs, who are theatrical advertisers, arranged to supply the curtain on the understanding that the defendant was to fix it in the theatre. The curtain was sent, but defendant repudiated his liability to fix it, and alleged misrepresentation. Plaintiffs maintained that the contract clearly defined defendant's obligations, and took action. The bookings that were obtained by plaintiffs for the curtain would have resulted in a revenue of £184 16s., and a gross profit of £154 16s. per annum.

The jury awarded plaintiffs £150 damages, and judgment was entered, with costs.

BREACH OF CONTRACT.

"The Only Way."—In the King's Bench Division on July 27, Mr. Justice Greer gave judgment for the plaintiff in the action in which Sir John Martin Harvey claimed, against Herbert Sidney Wilcox, of "The Rosery," Harpenden, Herts, and Charles Wilcox, of 8, Alexandra Court, Queen's Gate, S.W., film-producers, a declaration that, by the terms of an agreement or licence dated March 4, 1925, relating to the production of the film "The Only Way," he was entitled to be paid by the defendants the percentages therein provided.

The plaintiff also claimed an account for, and payment of, royalties; a receiver of the moneys received; and an injunction restraining the defendants from committing breaches of the agreement.

Plaintiff alleged that, in breach of the agreement, the defendants assigned to Herbert Wilcox Productions, Ltd., the sole right to exploit by letting out the film on hire in Great Britain and Ireland for a term of seven years. He also alleged that the defendants, without right or title to do so, permitted First National Pictures, Ltd., to act as sole renting agents upon terms which permitted the company to retain 50 per cent. of the balance of moneys received. If it should be held that the defendants were entitled to employ any renting agents, the plaintiff said that 10 per cent. was reasonable remuneration. He alleged that the defendants kept no books of account relating to the letting out or sale of the film, and failed to render accounts. He also complained that the defendants wrongfully claimed to deduct from the moneys upon which his percentage was provided £313 13s. 5d. for advertising and further sums.

Defendants denied that they broke the terms of the agreement, and stated that First National Pictures, Ltd., were properly employed as renting agents, and that the terms and conditions of that employment were fair and reasonable. They further said that sufficient and accurate books of account were kept, and that full and accurate accounts had been rendered to the plaintiff. They contended that the £313 13s. 5d. was rightly deducted by them as a renting agent's charge.

Sir John Martin Harvey said that he did not know in April, 1925, that First National Pictures were exploiting the film, "The Only Way."

Sir John admitted that he had received 50 per cent. of the balance after the expenses had been deducted, but said that if First National Pictures had not retained 50 per cent. he would have received double. He had met Mr. Bundy at the studio, and was aware that he was interested in financing the production of the film.

He admitted that he probably knew of the function of First National Pictures in October, 1925, and that he did not complain about the contract with them until February, 1926. It astonished him when he learnt that they were going to retain 50 per cent. On October 6, 1925, he wrote to Mr. Pugh, and asked whether Americans were likely to take the film. At that time he knew First National Pictures were handling the film in England.

Sir John said there was an agreement by which he should get £4,000 on account of royalties, and he did not think that it was a great strain upon Mr. Wilcox to give him £2,000 or £3,000 for his (Sir John's) services. It obviously put pressure on the defendants to put the film in a position to earn money as soon as possible.

Sir John said that one of his complaints was that he did not receive the information he required. He had no feeling of distrust against the defendants, but he thought they were in an awkward position.

At the conclusion of the plaintiff's case Mr. Conway contended that there had been no breach of contract, and that if there had been one it was of a purely technical character.

Herbert Sidney Wilcox, giving evidence, said that he had produced, among other films, "Decameron Nights," "Southern Love," and "Chu Chin Chow." He was previously a film renter. When he entered into the contract with First National Pictures, Limited, to distribute the film "The Only Way," he looked upon it as a big "scoop." It was the best contract into which he had ever entered. He had a cash guarantee of £12,500, which was tantamount to a guarantee of cash bookings of £25,000 in this country.

It was the first occasion on which an American house had taken a British film. He denied that £12,500 was advanced for financing the film. The greater portion was not paid until the film was made. The deductions provided for in the First National Pictures' contract in respect of advertisement and other expenses were not unusual.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bevan, the witness said that "The Only Way" cost £24,000 to produce. He received £11,000 from Mr. Bundy to enable him to begin the film. Half the profits that he and his brother were to get out of the film were to go to Mr. Bundy. Any film was necessarily speculative, and Mr. Bundy would regard it as a speculation. It was agreed by Mr. Bundy that he should pay such further sums as might be required. £4,000 was voluntarily given in advance by First National Pictures, Ltd.

Alfred Edward Bundy, a director of Wilcox Productions, Ltd., also gave evidence as to the procedure adopted in connection with the renting of the film.

His Lordship, in giving judgment, held that there had been a fundamental breach of the contract between the plaintiff and the defendants by reason of the latter having assigned to Herbert Wilcox Productions, Ltd., the sole right of exploiting the film, and thus rendering themselves unable to furnish an account. The defendants were, therefore, liable to the plaintiff for damages which, if they could not be agreed between the parties, were to be ascertained by the Official Referee.

The question of costs was reserved.

"The Only Way" Appeal.—In the Court of Appeal, Herbert Sidney Wilcox and Charles Wilcox were the appellants against the judgment of Mr. Justice Greer (now Lord Justice Greer) in favour of Sir John Martin Harvey.

Mr. Justice Greer held that defendants were liable to Sir John in damages, which, if they could not be agreed were to be ascertained by an official referee. From this result Messrs. Wilcox now appealed.

Mr. Stuart Bevan, K.C., for Sir John Martin Harvey, said it was the Judge who had treated the agreement as at an end. His client had treated the agreement as subsisting and all Sir John wanted was what was due. He would accept now an order for an account and damages.

In the result, their Lordships held that there ought to be a new trial as the position was not satisfactory. Each party would have leave to amend their pleadings.

The Master of the Rolls expressed the hope that the parties would endeavour to come to a settlement.

German Claim Fails.—In the King's Bench Division on February 8, J. Springer, Ltd., of Beck House, Shaftesbury Avenue, London (now in liquidation), were sued by the Phoebus Film Co., of Berlin, for breach of a contract for the exploitation by the defendants of films supplied by the plaintiffs. The case for the plaintiffs was that the defendants agreed to hire from the plaintiffs their output of films for a year from April, 1924. The defendants were to arrange a trade show within eight weeks of the arrival of each film, and were to provide a bank guarantee of £1,500 for each, and the profits were to be divided in the proportion of 40 per cent. for the plaintiffs, and 60 per cent. for the defendants. Five films were forwarded, but defendants had failed to arrange trade shows; had not exploited the films, and had neglected to provide the guarantees. The plaintiffs claimed £7,500, and the return of the films. The defence was the films were unsuitable, and that defendants had already paid the plaintiffs £2,000, because the latter said they would not proceed without assistance, and that that advance was in substitution of the bankers' guarantee, and the defendants counter-claimed for the return of the money. Mr. Justice MacKinnon held that the plaintiffs claim for damages was ill founded, and they must repay the £2,000 to the defendants. Thus there would be judgment for the defendants on the claim, and on the counter-claim for £2,000, with costs. He would not allow anything on the counter-claim for loss of profits and the cost of advertising, etc.

WAGES AND COMMISSIONS.

"The Creeping Tide."—The hearing took place at Westminster County Court of the claim of John Nelson Ramsay, actor, against H. E. Hayward Productions, Ltd., 6, New Compton Street, W.C.2, for £60. The amount claimed was due under a verbal agreement made in August, 1926, between plaintiff and defendants for four weeks' employment of Mr. Ramsay at £15 per week to play in the film production called "The Creeping Tide." The contract was confirmed by telephone and in correspondence. There was delay in the production. Meantime, the film was undertaken by another company called the British General Film Enterprise, but the principals in it were the same. Defendants denied that plaintiff was engaged by them or that they were agents for the British General Film Enterprise, by whom, they contended, any agreement with plaintiff could only have been made. J. N. Ramsay said that he was engaged by defendants on July 16, and was to hold himself in readiness, but on August 9 had a letter from Mr. Templeman saying that it was postponed owing to the labour trouble. He made a fresh agreement with the General Film Enterprise on September 17, but that was not in substitution for the other one. The individual men with whom he had originally dealt in the name of Haywards were the same as those concerned in British Film Enterprise. H. E. Hayward said that he never authorised any of the people mentioned to engage artistes for Haywards, Ltd. Haywards Productions, Ltd., were film renters, and they never had produced a film. Pending the formation of British General Film Enterprise, they temporarily used Hayward's offices, and since then he had had no dealings with them. To his knowledge none of them made any arrangements with Mr. Ramsay on his behalf. Judge Smith said the companies were mixed up in a peculiar way. Defendants contended that it was substitution of contract, but he could not find that Ramsay had given up any right of action against the first company—Haywards. It was rather hard upon Haywards in the circumstances, but there must be judgment for Ramsay for the amount claimed and costs. Mr. Cope Morgan for the defendants said that this judgment might have to go further, for it might be that Mr. Hayward would be sued by other claimants.

Traveller's Commission.—Custom of the film trade to recover from traveller's commission paid on contracts that were cancelled or resulted in bad debts was disputed in the case at Westminster County Court on July 29, of M.P. Sales Agency, Ltd., Soho Square, W.C., against H. Lander, Old Quebec Street, W.1.

Plaintiffs claimed £32 10s. paid as commission on film-hire transactions negotiated by Lander. Mr. Dearman, secretary to the plaintiff company, said they debited the bad debt cases against Lander's account, but they did not proceed to make any settlement till he left their employ.

Lander was paid commission of 20 per cent. on business which matured within six months, and on six and nine months maturities received 15 and 10 per cent. respectively at once and the balance of the 20 per cent. at the end of the period. He "subbed" regularly on his commission.

Mr. Lander denied that it was a general custom of the trade to pay commission only on contracts which turned out good. His business was, he said, to book orders for films, and with that his responsibility ceased. "Of course, I don't like to think that any of my business does not prove profitable," he remarked.

Judge Reeve said he was satisfied that the contract between the parties provided that defendant should not retain commission on orders from which plaintiffs got no benefit, but he held that they must prove that a contract was "reasonably cancelled," and that they took "reasonable business measures" to recover a debt before debiting it against the defendant.

Mr. Dearman, for defendant, pointed out that there remained £5 16s. 6d. due to defendant, which he counter-claimed.

Judgment was entered for defendant on the claim without costs, and for defendant on the counter-claim with costs.

Directors' Illegal Agreement.—In the Westminster County Court, on March 8, Mrs. Minola Iris Johnson, Haverstock Hill, N.W., claimed against British National Pictures, Ltd., for £57, £32 being for a month's wages in lieu of notice, and £25 for commission.

The plaintiff, it is said, had acted as typist and assistant secretary, and her engagement was terminated without due notice. The commission was in respect to the introduction of purchasers of shares in the company. The defence was that it was illegal to pay anyone other than a broker for such services. It seemed as if the directors had been quite ignorant of the legal aspect of the matter.

During an adjournment consultations took place in which the solicitors for defendants intimated that they would consent to judgment for the full amount and costs.

Manager's Notice.—In Aberdeen Sheriff Court proof was heard in an action in which Hermann Cohn, cinema manager, of Aberdeen, sued Rebecca Phillips, London, carrying on business at the New Kinema, Aberdeen, for £82 10s.—eleven weeks' wages.

Pursuer had managed the New Kinema from May, 1912, to August, 1926. Defendant's son, Henry N. Phillips, was proprietor until July.

1926, but on that date defender took over the premises and continued pursuer as manager, at £7 10s. a week. At a later date defender wrote announcing that she should appoint her son manager, and she was reluctantly compelled to give pursuer two weeks' notice to quit her employment.

Pursuer intimated that he did not consider he had received reasonable notice. Three months' notice should have been given, and he claimed eleven weeks' wages at £7 10s. weekly.

At the close of the evidence, Sheriff Laings said he thought that in the absence of a written agreement one month's notice would be fair and reasonable for a manager to look for another appointment.

As the pursuer had already been paid £17, the decision meant an award of £13, and the Sheriff also awarded pursuer £15 15s. of expenses.

Film Actor's Claim Fails.—Kimber Phillips, of Ranelagh Grove, S.W., sued Piccadilly Pictures, Ltd., Cranbourn Street, W.C., for £66 3s., balance of salary, at Westminster County Court recently. He alleged that under a written contract he was engaged for fifty-five days in the production of "The Rolling Road," at £2 2s. a day for seven days per week on working or non-working days.

Sidney Jay, kinema artistes' agent, said the custom was for artistes to be paid only for the days on which they were called, unless there was a guarantee for a particular number of days. At the suggestion of the judge, Mr. Pocock consulted with his client, and announced that the plaintiff would accept judgment against him with costs.

BREACH OF REGULATIONS.

Excise Case Dismissed.—The Middlesex Kinemas, Ltd., and Esther Phyllis Blackman, of Teddington, were summoned at Feltham on January 24 for failing to comply with the Entertainment Duty Regulations. It was alleged that in two instances where couples had entered together only one ticket had been torn in two for the return of halves to the seat-holders. The case was dismissed, the Bench holding that no fraud had been proved, but that there had been carelessness on the part of the attendant.

A Boy in Charge.—The Princess Theatre (Pictures), Ltd., Hoyland, were charged at Barnsley with breaches of the cinematograph regulations. The charges were that they had so much film on a spool that it overlapped the machines, and that the operator was not over 18 years of age.

The police stated that there were two boys, one aged 15 and the other aged 17, in the operator's box. They had a spool on which there was so much film that it was trailing on the floor as it was being taken from the operating box.

Supt. Blacker suggested that the reason for this was that two films had been placed on one spool. "The reason for a boy under 18 being in charge," he added, "is to be found in the wage book, for the boy was getting £1 10s. a week instead of the usual £3 18s."

C. M. Clegg, defending, pleaded "guilty" to this charge and said that the competent operator was a man named Kennedy, who at the time of the offence was taking his first holiday for twenty years. He contended that the spool was large enough for the film, but by accident it projected over the ridge.

A fine of 20s. was imposed in the first case, but the Chairman said they regarded it as a serious offence to leave a boy in charge, and the company would have to pay £3.

Shutter Prosecution.—At Middlesbrough on March 21, Harry Watson, licensee of the Elite, was charged with a breach of the Home Office regulations.

The Chief Constable said the fireproof shutter on both sides of the projecting box, designed to cut off the box completely from the audience in the event of films catching fire, was worked by a lever instead of having weighted strings which would be instantly burned through by the flames and let down the screens automatically.

The case had been brought as a warning. The magistrates ordered defendant to pay the costs, but did not record a conviction.

Health Insurance Point.—The liability of kinema owners to payments under the National Health Insurance Acts was argued at Bodmin, Cornwall, on March 4, when Walter Bruce Hacking was summoned for failing to pay contributions from March 1 to June 10 last for Leonard W. Browning, employed as operator at the Turret Kinema, Bodmin. Bruce Hacking pleaded not guilty, contending that he was not liable for payment.

Browning said he was employed as operator in what he regarded as more or less a full-time job. He told Mr. Hacking he was a taxi-owner, and that he accepted the appointment in order to supplement his income.

Bruce Hacking contended that Browning was outside the Insurance Acts, because he was a master man on his own account, and had a good living from his own business. Browning took on the job as operator to supplement his income, and was not at the kinema during the whole of the working hours.

The magistrates imposed a fine of 10s. and costs, and ordered him to pay the arrears, £1 3s. 6d.

Kinema Panic Danger.—Arthur J. Goss (51) proprietor of the Magnet Picture House, was summoned at Bishop Auckland on January 26 for not taking sufficient precautions against fire and panic during a performance. It was alleged that patrons saw a flame appear on the screen, and, thinking there had been a fire, some of them left the circle, and, arriving on the stair-landing, were met by clouds of smoke and fumes that it later transpired were caused by the assistant operator carrying a piece of burning film through the passage. The film, it was submitted by the police, should have been put out in the operating box, and not carried into the back yard. The defence was that the bottom spool had over-run, and the assistant operator opened the spool chamber to wind in the slack, in doing so drawing the burning portion into the spool-chamber. About 50 ft. then began to smoulder, and, instead of putting it out there and then—as it was admitted he should have done—the assistant picked up the spool and carried it into the yard, where he extinguished it with water. Goss, who had a previous conviction for a smaller offence, was fined 40s. including costs.

Unauthorised Exhibitor.—At Oban Sheriff Court last week, William Mack, entertainment caterer, Ardrishaig, was fined £4 for having, in the Aros Hall, Tobermory, given an exhibition of kinematograph pictures for the purpose of which inflammable films were used, without giving notice to the authorities.

GENERAL.

Important Excise Ruling.—On February 1 the Court of Appeal heard an appeal by the Crown from a judgment of Mr. Justice Talbot holding that baby film $9\frac{1}{2}$ millimetres in width and emulsionised celluloid sheet were not subject to the McKenna Duties on cinematograph films and blanks, and that Pathé of France, Ltd., were entitled to the return of deposits paid on importations made to test the matter. The Solicitor-General for the Crown said the Finance Act of 1915 first imposed these duties on films or blanks per linear foot of $1\frac{3}{8}$ metres. That was the standard size, equal to 35 millimetres. The baby films were $9\frac{1}{2}$ millimetres, and in the submission of the Crown were subject to a proportionate duty. The respondents urged that baby films were not for exhibition in picture halls, and because they were not $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. in width they also escaped duty.

The celluloid sheet was 45 inches wide, emulsionised and ready to be made into positive films. What happened to it in the course of trade was that half an inch was cut off each end, and the 44 inches remaining were divided into 32 strips. In the submission of the Crown it was merely 32 strips of undivided blank film. If it had been slit up into 32 strips it would certainly be blank film. The Lord Chief Justice said duty was payable in respect of baby films. In regard to the sheets of emulsionised celluloid, the case was different. He thought the judge was right in coming to the conclusion that that was not either film or blank within the meaning of the charging section. Therefore, duty was not payable in respect of that.

Prison for Kinema Director.—Sentence of 12 months' imprisonment was passed at Glamorgan Assizes last week on Ernest George Brooks, aged 36, kinema proprietor, of Pentre, who was convicted on eighteen counts of false pretences and fraudulent conversion. The prosecution said that the total sum involved was £400. Brooks was the managing director of E. J. Brooks Kinemas, Ltd., and some time in August last year he advertised for managers, but stipulated the applicants should deposit £100 as a guarantee of good conduct. It was subsequently discovered that Brooks had only two halls, although he had appointed seven managers. Brooks, when asked for the return of the £100, said that he had no money, and that the "managers trust fund was all rot." One man, Thomas, had been reimbursed to the extent of £25, but the rest was still owing to two other men. Prisoner in evidence said that his idea was to form a circuit of kinemas. He raised the capital by inducing persons to invest £100, which would qualify them for posts as managers. There was no suggestion of a managers' trust fund. All the applicants were told his intentions, and deposited their money in furtherance of the scheme. Accused said that he had received altogether in £100 deposits a sum of £700.

'Twixt Two Firms.—Loss to film renters through succession in the proprietary of a kinema concern arose in the case at Westminster County Court of British Exhibitors Films (1922), Ltd., against Hunt's Cinemas, Ltd., of Boston, Lincolnshire. Plaintiffs claimed £4 2s. for hire of the film "Speed Wild," and had obtained judgment for that amount and costs against a firm of Grenfell and Co., which had ceased to exist and had no assets. Plaintiffs alleged that Grenfells and Hunts were, in fact, the same persons.

A. E. Davis, secretary to British Exhibitors Films, said that Grenfells owned the film in October, 1925. Posters advertising the exhibition of the film there were ordered on August 30, 1926, by Hunts, and supplied to and paid for by them.

Judge Sir Alfred Tobin: "I don't follow why Hunts ordered the posters for this film unless they intended to exhibit it."

N. R. Mitchell, solicitor for the defence: "They expected to show the film because they intended to take over the business on September 1, but in fact did not do so till October 25, but, having ordered the posters, they paid for them."

J. R. Rich, managing director of Hunts Cinemas, Ltd., said that they were unable to take over Grenfells on September 1 because the solicitors could not get the conveyance ready in time. He had five shares in Grenfells. Hunts had been in the business since 1915. In 1922 Hunts resolved to change their name to Grenfell and Co., but the resolution was not carried into effect. It was not correct that the film was used by Hunts.

Judge Tobin said the judgment against Grenfells did not bar action against Hunts, but the question was were Hunts liable. He was satisfied that they did not take over till some date in October, 1926. Hunts could not be liable in the circumstances, however hard it might be on plaintiffs, who had been "done" by Grenfell, Ltd. Judgment for defendants with costs.

Seating Accident.—Mrs. Mary Taylor, a charwoman, who met with an accident at the St. George's Picture Palace, West Bromwich, was awarded £10 damages by His Honour Judge Tebbs. She was incapacitated from work for five weeks through the back of a seat giving way.

Thomas Leach, proprietor of the hall, admitted liability and expressed his willingness to pay reasonable damages.

Patron's Injuries.—Grace Williams, a married woman, of Charles Street, Newport (Mon.), sued Tilney's Kinemas at the local county court for £30 in respect of damages for injuries sustained at the Olympia Kinema on December 22 last, and alleged that her fall was due to insufficient lighting. Defendants contended that the lighting was sufficient, and the Judge, after visiting the spot, gave judgment in favour of the defendants.

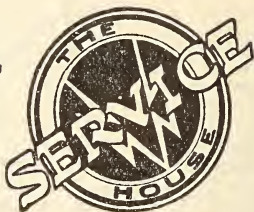

"Mons" Raid.—At the Dundalk Court, Judge Doyle awarded the New Era Co. £105 damages for the destruction of a copy of the film "Mons," which was burned in a raid by armed men last May.

Mr. Scott, Irish manager for New Era, said he had probably lost between £300 and £400 as a result of the film being destroyed.

"Owner's Risk" on Rail.—Judgment was delivered at Dublin Circuit Court in the case of the Fox Film Co. v. Great Southern Railways in an appeal from a decision of a district justice dismissing plaintiffs' claim for £11 10s., the replacement cost of a cinematograph film which it was alleged, had not been delivered to plaintiffs.

Judge Davitt held that the defendant company were entitled to rely upon their contract that the goods were carried at owners' risk, and that, short of wilful misconduct having been proved, the plaintiffs must fail. He affirmed the decision of the district justice, and dismissed the appeal.

COMPANIES WINDING UP. (VOLUNTARY AND COMPULSORY LIQUIDATIONS.)

British Educational Failure.—Particulars to be issued by the Official Receiver to creditors and shareholders of the British Educational Film Co., Ltd., 7, Union Court, Old Broad Street, E.C., against which a compulsory winding-up order was made in October, 1926, of the promotion and collapse of the company. The statement of affairs shows liabilities £1,280 and no assets, and as regards the shareholders a total deficiency of £2,284. The company was registered as a private company on July 25, 1919, with a nominal capital of £5,000, divided into shares of £1 each. No accounts were prepared by the company, but it appears from the books that a loss has been incurred throughout.

The liquidation remains in the hands of the Official Receiver.

British General Film Enterprises.—In the Winding-Up Court on January 18, Mr. Justice Romer ordered an adjournment of the petition of Alice Margaret McCall, of Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C., for an order for the compulsory liquidation of British General Film Enterprises Ltd., to see what proposal would be put forward to satisfy the creditors.

Petitioner was a judgment creditor for £111 for salary due, and other debts amounting to some £500 were due to artistes. The company's assets were mostly debts owing to it, and £31 cash. The company's objects were to sell kinema machines and appliances, and to act as film producers, hirers and manufacturers.

Mr. Arthrwatt, for the company, said a meeting of creditors had been held, and they had agreed to accept a scheme whereby they would take debentures for their debts, the debentures to be payable in a year's time. The directors were providing the money to fight an action against a person who had agreed, but had failed, to pay his share.

British General Film Enterprises.—In the Companies (Winding Up) Court, on February 1, Mr. Justice Romer made an order for the compulsory liquidation of the British General Film Enterprises, Ltd., on the petition of Alice Margaret McCall, of Hart Street, Bloomsbury. The statement of affairs showed total liabilities £2,042, of which £1,965 is unsecured, and assets £6,733, whilst the total deficiency as regards shareholders is £6,511.

Films De France, Ltd., Wound Up.—In the Companies Winding-Up Court on January 11, Mr. Justice Romer made an order for the compulsory liquidation of Films De France, Ltd., on the petition of Henri Leon Charbonnel and Marcel Ruot.

Mr. Buckmaster said the petitioners were employees of the company, and had obtained judgment for £500 and £1,000 respectively for arrears of salary.

There was no opposition.

G. B. Samuelson Films.—Mr. Justice Romer, in the Companies Winding-up Court, made an order for the compulsory liquidation of G. B. Samuelson Films, Ltd., on the petition of R. E. Strange and Company, Ltd., of Little Denmark Street, W.C.

It was stated that the petitioners were judgment creditors for £304 14s. 6d., and they were supported by the Automatic Film Printers, creditors for £125.

Trafalgar Films, Ltd.—Mr. Justice Eve, in the Companies Winding-up Court, on June 2, made an order for the compulsory winding-up of Trafalgar Films, Ltd., on the petition of R. Fogwell.

The counsel for the petitioner said the petition had been allowed to stand over two months ago, on the terms that the debt would be paid by instalments, but no instalments had been paid.

His Lordship remarked that the whole debt was only £81, and granted a compulsory winding-up order. The company was registered as a private company on September 15, 1926, with a nominal capital of £10,000, divided into shares of £1 each. According to the statement of affairs the claims of the unsecured creditors amount to £448 8s. 6d. No assets are disclosed in the statement of affairs, but since the winding-up the Official Receiver has taken possession of a typewriter and table, which have been sold for £3 1s. Efforts are being made to dispose of the company's interest in a scenario, but up to the present no offers have been obtained. The failure of the company is attributed by Hobbs to the delay in fixing the quota on British films.

The Official Receiver is the Liquidator.

BANKRUPTCIES.

William George Bartram. residing at 270' Cemetery Road, Lidget Green and carrying on business at Cross Lane Picture House, Great Horton, and the Elysian Palace Picture House, Lidget Green, appeared at Bradford for his public examination.

The debtor's statement of affairs showed gross liabilities amounting to £2,895, of which £1,569 were expected to rank.

The examination was closed.

George Henry Beresford, lodging at 12, High Street, HARRISSEHEAD, near Tunstall, Staffs, late 2, Church Street, and Keele Street, and late of the Alexandra Picture House, Chesterton, Staffordshire. At the adjourned public examination at Hanley, the statement of affairs showed liabilities of £2,012 and no assets. Debtor purchased the Miners' Hall, Chesterton, in 1919 and converted it into a kinema. The business was not a success and he closed it in 1925. He estimated that he had lost between £4,000 and £5,000 on it. The examination was closed.

Frederick Andrew Davies, 2, Granby Street, Littleport, Isle of Ely, Cambs, late kinema proprietor.

The receiving order in this matter was made recently on debtor's own petition. The statement of affairs shows liabilities of £3,269 18s. 7d., while the assets are estimated at £407 9s. 6d., from which preferential claims of £9 14s. 7d. have to be deducted, leaving net assets of £397 14s. 11d., or a deficiency of £2,872 3s. 8d. Debtor attributes his failure to loss on a kinema venture, bad debts, heavy interest to money-lenders, and illness. He alleges he lost £2,500 on a Littleport venture. In 1921 he began borrowing from professional lenders, and altogether he obtained upwards of £1,800 from this source, on which about £800 interest has been charged.

Hyman Goldstein, 58, Old Montague Street London.—On January 21 debtor was publicly examined at the London Bankruptcy Court on accounts showing liabilities £1,240 and assets £3. Debtor stated that about September, 1918, he and another person purchased for £9,500 (£2,500 of which was raised on mortgage) the lease of a cinema in the Lea Bridge Road, Leyton. The business was a failure, and in 1924 the mortgagee foreclosed on the property, and witness lost £3,500. In 1919-1920 he endeavoured to establish a market opposite the cinema, but owing to the competition of other markets the venture proved unsuccessful. The examination was concluded.

Christopher Norman Graham, 3, Gledhow Wood Avenue, Roundhay, Leeds, late trading with another at Donald Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, and also on his own account as the Art Slide Co., Avenue Block, Winnipeg. Kinema manager, film exchange manager, and agent for kinema accessories. The public examination of this debtor was held on October 4 at the County Court House, Albion Place, Leeds. According to the statement of affairs there was a deficiency of £1,262. Debtor attributed his failure to living beyond his means. The examination was adjourned for formal closing.

William Bruce Hacking.—The mysterious disappearance of a copy of "Where the Rainbow Ends" was discussed at the public examination in Plymouth Bankruptcy Court on July 22 of William Bruce Hacking, kinema proprietor, late of Bodmin, Cornwall. In reply to questions by the Official Receiver, Mr. Hacking stated that he was the promoter of a company known as the British Photo Plays Production Company, and filmed "Where the Rainbow Ends" at Torquay. For a certain reason he severed his connection with the company, and was told to return all the copies of the film. There were twelve copies, and he returned eleven, one being lost. It was true that when he was at Bodmin he showed "Where the Rainbow Ends," but he booked it in the usual way from another agency. It was not the missing copy of the film. The missing film, so far as he knew, had never been found. Mr. Hacking said his liabilities were estimated at £4,127, and the estimated assets were £3,908, leaving a small deficiency of £219. He was a schoolmaster by profession, but seven years before the war he entered a lace business belonging to his wife at Nottingham. The business failed, and subsequently he became a film traveller. In 1917 he went to Torquay, and subsequently formed Fleet Photo Plays, Ltd. Twenty-four films were purchased for £9,600, and they realised £18,000. Failure came owing to grave trade disputes in South Wales, and a lot of money was lost in bad debts. The company went into liquidation. He rented a cinema at Torpoint, but in three months he lost £178. He then went on to Bodmin, where his business was hampered by the debt incurred at Torquay.

The examination was adjourned until August 26.

George Edward Hogg, Picture House, Station Street, Mansfield Woodhouse, Nottinghamshire, kinema proprietor.—The public examination was held on June 2 at Nottingham. Debtor said he commenced business as a wheelwright, taking over a large workshop in Station Street, Mansfield Woodhouse, and, borrowing £60 from friends, converted the building into a cinema in 1912. Until the war the business was satisfactory. In 1920 the premises were condemned as unsuitable for a cinema and debtor had to spend about £2,000 in making structural alterations, of which £1,000 was borrowed. The coal strikes of 1921 and 1926 caused business to fall away, and he filed his petition after an execution had been issued. Debtor's deficiency was put down at £1,721 17s. 6d. The examination was closed.

Percy Hothersall (44), architect, surveyor and valuer, who practised in Piccadilly, Manchester, applied for his public examination in bankruptcy at Manchester last week, and admitted a deficiency of £65,125.

For some years debtor had interested himself in the building, financing and managing of picture houses, and that had gradually encroached upon his business as an architect. After preparing plans and superintending the building of cinemas, he had, he stated, received, in lieu of cash for his fees, shares in the companies formed to run the picture houses, and his fortune had accordingly become identified with the fortunes of the houses he built.

Replying to the Official Receiver, debtor said it had been a common practice for some years past to take shares in lieu of cash. There was a loss, he said, of nearly £5,000 in connection with the Collyhurst Palace, Ltd.; a liability of nearly £8,000 under joint guarantees concerning Cinemas (Manchester), Ltd., and Cinemas (Warrington), Ltd.; and an item of £1,877 representing household and personal expenses of himself, wife and child since 1923.

The examination was closed.

W. Dalton Hunter, proprietor of the Edinburgh Lyric, was examined in Edinburgh Sheriff Court in January in connection with his bankruptcy. He attributed his financial difficulties to the exceptionally fine summer last year. He acquired the Lyric in November, 1924. The price of the property was £3,000, but this sum had only been partly paid. He admitted that a claim for £400 by his brother had not been included in his statement of affairs because he never expected the claim to be made at this time. The examination was adjourned.

George Matkin Johnson, The Hippodrome, Langley Moor, Durham, film hirer.—The adjourned public examination of this debtor was held on June 21, at Old Elvet, Durham. The gross liabilities were returned at £2,039 14s. 3d., of which £788 7s. 9d. was expected to rank, and there were no assets. Debtor attributed his failure to the miners' strike of 1926, and having to fulfil contracts made before the strike during a period of depression. Since April, 1926, debtor admitted that he sustained a net loss from carrying on business of £457, and his household and personal expenses had amounted to £189. He became aware of his position during the miners' strike last year. The examination was closed.

Reginald James McEvoy Palmer, film hirer, The Cosy Cinema, Southampton Street, Camberwell, and the Queen's Cinema, Ramsgate.

This debtor failed in July, 1926, and on the 18th inst. was publicly examined at the London Bankruptcy Court on accounts showing liabilities £5,120, of which £1,557 ranks for dividend against assets estimated to produce £437.

The examination was concluded.

F. W. Pendleton, Corbett Street, Cottenham, Cambridgeshire, late The Supply Stores, Cottenham. Late cinema proprietor.

The public examination of this debtor was held on June 22, at Cambridge. The statement of affairs showed £1,236 2s. 2d. owing to unsecured creditors, while £2,446 3s. was due to two fully-secured creditors, the estimated value of securities being £3,460. The assets were estimated to produce £3,548 6s. 1d., so that the statement showed a surplus.

Debtor stated that about 1906, while in the Army, he acquired a hall at Enam, near Blackburn, which was managed by his brother and brother-in-law, and he advanced several hundred pounds to keep it going. In 1909 or 1910 the business was transferred to the Co-operative Hall, Crewe. In 1911 he entered into an arrangement for the erection of a large cinema at Newcastle-under-Lyme. The building cost £5,250, and he was to repay £8 a week principal and interest. In 1915 the Crewe cinema was closed. In 1920 he sold the Newcastle-under-Lyme concern, together with the Picturedrome, Longton, Staffs (all the shares of which he had purchased), for £30,000. He received £2,900, a sum of £12,000 was secured by debentures on the purchasing company's assets, and the balance was paid by instalments. After further questions the examination was closed.

Alfred Llewellyn Ballard Rees, The Picture Palace, Vere Street, Cadoxton, Barry, Glamorganshire, Film Hirer.—The public examination of this debtor was held on November 4 at Cardiff. Debtor took over the Picture Palace, Vere Street, in May, 1924, at which time he was in financial difficulties. He purchased an engine worth £275 and a piano worth £180, on the hire purchase system, for the cinema. There were still payments outstanding in that connection. A distress warrant was issued against him in September last, a sale being conducted which realised £161. At the time there was £134 owing for rent. Asked why the cinema had not paid, debtor said that business had declined, and he had no capital. The examination was adjourned.

Leon Vint, 142, Long Acre, W.C.—On October 4 Mr. Vint was publicly examined at the London Bankruptcy Court before Mr. Registrar Warming-ton on accounts showing total liabilities £15,483, of which £12,971 is unsecured and assets £2.

About 1906, debtor acquired the lease of a hall at Kettering which he opened as a cinematograph theatre. The venture proved successful and from time to time he acquired various halls and theatres and carried them on in the style of Leon Vints Organisations. In 1911 Vints Theatres, Ltd., was formed with a capital of £20,000 to acquire and take over from him as going concerns seven theatres situate at Neath, Exmouth, Llanelly and Aberavon, and to carry on as music-hall, theatre and cinematograph proprietors. The purchase consideration was satisfied as to £6,000 in cash and the allotment to him of 14,000 fully paid shares in the company and he became managing director at a remuneration of £500 a year. He attributed his failure to a slump in the theatrical and cinema business and consequent depreciation of his shares in the two above-mentioned companies, to having lived beyond his income, to heavy interest on borrowed moneys, to losses by betting, and to heavy expenses incurred in entertaining and travelling in the endeavour to obtain business for the above companies. The examination was concluded.

Joseph William White, 172, Daubney Street, and 3, High Street, late 89, Crow Hill Avenue, Cleethorpes, late cinematograph proprietor. The public examination of this debtor was held on April 7 at Great Grimsby. According to the statement of affairs there were gross liabilities of £246 16s. 11d. and a deficiency of £205 6s. 4d. Debtor attributed his failure to bad trade caused by the coal strike and to the failure of a cinema venture. The examination was adjourned.

Mary Helena Wileman, Palace Picture House, Measham, Burton-on-Trent, Staffs. Kinema proprietor.

The public examination of this debtor was held on October 26 at Burton-on-Trent. The statement of affairs showed liabilities of £880 12s. 5d. against assets of £44 11s. 4d., thus leaving a deficiency of £836 1s. 1d. Debtor stated that her late husband was a travelling showman, having a portable wooden building with seating at the Stone Yard, Measham, used as a cinema known as the Palace Picture House. He died in 1919 and debtor took over the business. For about three years she made a living, but after 1922 the business began to go down and the venture was a failure. She attributed her present position to bad trade through the coal strike, heavy expenses in structural alterations to the cinema and competition caused by 'bus transport. The examination was closed.

Philip Hornby Yorke, "Earnshill," Sunnyhurst, lately Olympia Picture House, both Darwen, Lancashire, kinema proprietor.

The adjourned public examination of this debtor was held recently at the County Court House, Victoria Street, Blackburn. Debtor's statement of affairs showed a deficiency of £1,666 3s. 8d. Debtor said he drew £261 from the business between December 4, 1925, and February 4, 1927. Debtor said when he commenced to trade he had no capital, but borrowed £500 from the bank, for which someone stood as guarantor. Debtor said he had to pay the rates and cash in advance for films. The examination was closed.

MEETINGS OF CREDITORS.

William George Bartram, Cross Lane Picture House, Great Horton, and the Elysian Palace Picture House, Lidget Green, both Bradford, kinema proprietor.

The first meeting of the creditors of the above was held on November 16 at the Official Receiver's Office, 12, Duke Street, Bradford. The statement of affairs showed gross liabilities of £2,896 os. 11d., of which £1,570 16s. 9d. was expected to rank, against assets of £54 17s. 2d., thus leaving a deficiency of £1,515 19s. 7d. Debtor attributed his failure to bad trade and heavy overhead charges. The matter was left with the Official Receiver as trustee.

British General Film Enterprises, Ltd., 80-82, Wardour Street. The statutory first meetings of the creditors and contributors of the above company, against which a winding-up order was made on February 1, was held at the offices of the Board of Trade. The Official Receiver reported that the company was registered in September, 1926, with a nominal capital of £30,000, and was formed to carry on business as proprietors of music halls, kinemas and to deal in cinematograph machines, films and accessories. The insolvency was attributed to the failure on the part of an inventor of a process for producing films in natural colours to pay for shares in the company for which he promised to subscribe. The statement of affairs showed total liabilities £2,042, of which £1,965 was unsecured, and assets £6,733. He warned the meeting, however, not to place any great reliance on those figures. He thought there was very little chance of the assets realising anything like the amount at which they were estimated.

In the result the liquidation was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

Films de France, Ltd., Finsbury House, Blomfield Street.—Under the winding-up order made against this company on January 11 the statutory first meetings of creditors and shareholders were held on February 11. The statement of affairs filed in the proceedings showed total liabilities £2,097, of which all save £60 is unsecured, and assets estimated to produce £3,045, and as regards the shareholders a deficiency of £52. The company was formed on April 6, 1922, with a nominal capital of £1,000, as dealers in films and cinematograph and other apparatus, and particularly to exploit films produced by the Société Anonyme Pathé Consortium Cinema, Paris. The latter undertook to supply films on certain terms. That agreement was acted on till September, 1924, when the Société Anonyme Pathé Consortium ceased to supply the company with films. Litigation ensued and the company obtained a judgment for £1,000 against the Consortium, but it was doubtful, in the opinion of the Official Receiver, whether that judgment could be registered in France. With the ceasing of the supply of films the business of the company came to an end. The directors attributed the failure to the Pathé Consortium declining to continue the agreement. In the result, resolutions were passed nominating Mr. D. Finnie, C.A., 22-23, Laurence Pountney Lane, E.C., as liquidator.

Thomas Ellis Griffiths, The Cinema, Assembly Rooms, Blaenau Festiniog, Merionethshire, film hirer.

The first meeting of the creditors was held on August 5 at the offices of the Official Receiver, Chester. The statement of affairs showed gross liabilities of £1,147 8s., of which £338 5s. 10d. was expected to rank. After allowing for £53 10s. 9d. for preferential claims there were no assets. The present position was attributed to future bookings of films which debtor was unable to use on the stipulated dates, and law costs, etc. The case being a summary one, was left in the hands of the Official Receiver as trustee of the estate.

Bruce Hacking, kinema proprietor, Bodmin.—When the affairs of this debtor were reviewed at a meeting of creditors at Plymouth, the Official Receiver suggested that a trustee should be appointed because the largest creditors were firms in the vicinity of Wardour Street, London, and they would be the people primarily affected. The suggestion was adopted, Albert Henry Partridge, of Holborn, London, being appointed trustee. It was also decided that the committee of inspection should include the largest West Country creditor and representatives of Pathé, First National, and Gaumont.

The first meeting of the creditors herein was held on May 3 at Nottingham. The statement of affairs showed gross liabilities of £1,716 7s. 6d., of which £1,668 6s. 7d. was expected to rank, with a deficiency of £1,570 7s. 6d. Debtor attributed his failure to bad trade and strikes in the colliery districts. It appeared debtor acquired the above premises in 1912, which he adapted as a kinema. Having no capital, he borrowed £60 from friends, with which he purchased a second-hand gas engine and projector. Business continued to be good, but in 1920 he had to spend about £2,000 in making structural alterations. He borrowed £1,000, but the subsequent takings were insufficient to meet the interest on the borrowed money. The coal strikes of 1921 and 1926 also caused business to fall away.

The case was left in the hands of the Official Receiver as trustee of the estate.

George Matkin Johnson, The Hippodrome, Langley Moor, Durham, film hirer.—The first meeting of the creditors of the above was held on May 12 at Sunderland. It was stated that the majority of the creditors were film distributors. Debtor had practically no assets. It was decided that the estate should be wound up by the Official Receiver as trustee.

Llewelyn Morris, of 51, Chapel Street, Dalton-in-Furness, and the Pavilion Cinema, Askam-in-Furness, kinema proprietor.

At the first meeting of creditors, on February 23, gross liabilities were stated to amount to £355 13s. 5d., expected to rank £159 11s. 2d., and assets £55 17s. 9d., and his deficiency £103 13s. 5d.

Phillips Film Co. Affairs.—A meeting of the creditors of the Phillips Film Co., Ltd., Motograph House, Upper St. Martin's Lane, W.C.2, film renters and importers, was held on January 11, when the liquidator, Mr. J. L. Milligan, C.A., in the voluntary liquidation of the company, presided.

No proper statement of affairs was presented, but it was reported that the liabilities to unsecured trade creditors amounted to £3,208 13s. 6d., and there were debentures for £17,500. The assets were valued at £11,639, from which had to be deducted certain amounts which left £9,239 to cover the debenture holder's claim of £17,500.

After some further discussion, a committee of inspection was appointed consisting of the representatives of Messrs. David Allen and Son Ltd., Film Laboratories, Williamson Film Co., R. E. Strange and Co., and the Ensign Film Co., to act with Mr. Milligan as liquidator.

Alfred Llewellyn Ballard Rees, The Picture Palace, Vere Street, Cadoxton, Barry, Glamorganshire, film hirer.—The first meeting of the creditors herein was held on October 21 at 34, Park Place, Cardiff. The liabilities were put down at £1,050 3s., and there were no assets. Debtor attributed his failure to want of capital, heavy working expenses, falling off in takings since December, and law costs. The case being a summary one was left in the hands of the Official Receiver as trustee of the estate.

Reginald Jacob Reubenson, 3, Macclesfield Street, Soho, and lately trading at 59 and 60, Chancery Lane, W.C. The statutory first meeting was held on May 12 at the London Bankruptcy Court. The debtor was not present and the Official Receiver reported that he had not surrendered to the proceedings. The inspector had, he said, attended at Macclesfield Street and had reported that he was there informed that the debtor was managing director of the Seventh Avenue Film Co., Ltd., of that address, that he had not been to the office for some days and was believed to be abroad.

The matter went into bankruptcy and will be wound up by the Official Receiver.

The Cinema Apparatus Co., Ltd., Ormes Buildings, The Parsonage, Manchester.—At a meeting of the creditors of the above a statement of affairs was submitted which disclosed liabilities of £546 13s. 10d., made up as follows: Trade creditors £100 13s. 10d., and cash creditors £446. The total net assets amounted to £50 rs. 2d., a deficiency as regarded the creditors of £496 rs. 8d. The issued capital of the company was £1,300, so that there was a total deficiency of £1,796 rs. 8d.

The present position was attributed to lack of working capital and the recent industrial unrest.

It was decided to confirm the voluntary liquidation of the company with Mr. Frank Wheatcroft as liquidator, together with an advisory committee.

Mary Helena Wileman, Palace Picture House, Meacham, Staffordshire, kinema proprietress.

The first meeting of the creditors herein was held on August 17, at the Official Receiver's offices, 4, Castle Place, Nottingham. Debtor's statement disclosed a deficiency of £836 rs. 1d. She attributed her failure to bad trade through coal strike, heavy expenses in structural alterations of kinema and competition caused by bus transport. Debtor said she took over the kinema in 1919 on the death of her husband, but it did not prove successful. She had some buildings added to render the premises fit for giving a variety performance. The business continued to be a failure, and she had lost money since the coal strike. The case was left with the Official Receiver as trustee.

David Thomas Williams, 8, Bankes Street, Aberdare, Glam., late Picture Palace, Cwmaman, Aberdare, picture palace lessee.

The first meeting of the creditors of the above was held on November 17 at 34, Park Place, Cardiff. The statement of affairs showed liabilities of £115 9s. 5d., against assets of £18 14s., or a deficiency of £96 15s. 5d. Debtor attributed his failure to trade depression caused by stoppages of local collieries and forced discontinuance of business at kinema. The matter was left with the Official Receiver as trustee.

APPLICATIONS FOR DISCHARGE.

Henry Joseph Boam, 45 and 47, Wigmore Street, W.—On March 2, at the London Bankruptcy Court, the above debtor applied for his discharge from the order of September 22, 1926, adjudicating him a bankrupt. The Official Receiver reported that the liabilities were £2,242 and there were no assets.

In 1916 he was appointed manager and organiser to a firm of film renters whose business was a few months later taken over by him and another person and carried on by them in partnership until the following May, when it was transferred to Phillips Film Co., Ltd., a company with a capital of £7,500.

Early in 1925 the Kinema Expansions, Ltd., was formed for the purpose of absorbing the Phillips Film Co., Ltd., and the debtor exchanged his shares in the latter for 50,000 shares in the former, of which he became a director, and in February, 1925, he was drawing as a director £3,500. In that month he resigned because he did not wish to share his work with another director, and surrendered his shares in settlement of his debt to the Phillips Film Co., Ltd., which debt was for overdrawn salary.

From February, 1925, to the date of the receiving order he was without employment, to which fact he attributes his insolvency, but the Official Receiver was of opinion that the debtor was insolvent in February, 1925, in consequence of his personal extravagance. He opposed the application on statutory grounds.

His Honour suspended the discharge for eighteen months.

Harry Johnson, 95, The Green, Darlaston, Staffordshire, late the Scala Picture House, Newton, Montgomery, late kinema proprietor.—The application for discharge of this debtor was heard on October 19 at Walsall. The proceedings took place in 1922, the statement of affairs showing liabilities of £556 and assets £10. The discharge was granted subject to a suspension for 14 days.

Anthony Charles Keith (Alec Olaf Henderson, described as), 2, Whitcombe House, 24, Orange Street, film producer. The above debtor, who was adjudicated a bankrupt in May, 1922, applied last week at the London Bankruptcy Court for his discharge. The Official Receiver reported that the liabilities were £4,043 and there were no assets. The debtor assumed the name of Keith for the stage and Jack Selfridge for the films. In July, 1919, he entered into partnership with one Reed, who provided £2,000 capital, and they carried on business as film producers at 17, Shaftesbury Avenue as "The World's Best Pictures," but he left that partnership in the following October and joined another person, and they traded as the Cairo Film Co. at Hammer-smith, but no effective business was done. He attributed his insolvency to the slump in the kinema business and not being able to obtain permanent employment after January, 1922. The discharge was suspended for two years.

Arthur Wilton Nicholson, The Rialto Cinema Theatre, Birley Street, Kirkham, Lancashire kinema proprietor.

The application for discharge of this debtor was heard on November 15 at the Sessions Hall, Lancaster Road, Preston. The proceedings took place in 1926. The Official Receiver said the ranking liabilities were estimated at £1,752 5s. 6d.; but the proofs actually received in October, 1926, were £1,256 and the probable claims not then received totalled £2,332. In 1923 debtor opened a variety agency in Blackpool which never appeared to have paid. He took over the Empire Kinema, Kirkham, on lease at £32 per month, and that proved disastrous, although debtor carried on there for six months. The Judge said that the debtor was in financial difficulties when he began business, and he continued knowing himself to be insolvent. There were not enough assets to pay the expenses of the proceedings. He refused to grant the discharge.

George Samuel, commonly known and described in the receiving order as George Samuel James, of 14, High Holborn, and Grosvenor Road, Westcliff-on-Sea.—The above applied to-day to Mr. Registrar Francke at the London Bankruptcy Court for his discharge from the order of September, 1926, adjudicating him a bankrupt. The Official Receiver reported that the liabilities were estimated at £3,182, and nothing had been realised in the shape of assets. He attributed his insolvency to ill-health and to his income having been insufficient to meet his household and personal expenses.

The Official Receiver opposed the debtor's application on the ground that his assets did not equal ros. in the £ of his unsecured liabilities; that he had contributed to his bankruptcy by unjustifiable extravagance in living, and that he had failed to account satisfactorily for his deficiency of assets to meet his liabilities.

His Honour characterised the case as a bad one. He had, he said, read the whole of the public examination of the debtor, and had come to the conclusion that the debtor did not tell the truth. His discharge would be suspended until he had paid a dividend of 10s. in the £ on his liabilities.

L. Segal (Louis Levy, trading as) Cinema, proprietor, New Empire Theatre, Earl St., Maidstone. Application for discharge from bankruptcy was made to Mr. Registrar Francke in London Bankruptcy Court on March 4, on behalf of the above debtor. E. Parke (Official Receiver) reported that the applicant failed in December, 1925, with liabilities to rank for dividend estimated at £833, and no assets were disclosed and nothing had been realised.

The learned Registrar said it was not the applicant's fault, and he thought it would be sufficient to suspend the discharge for three months.

Jacob Myer Solomons, boot heel manufacturer and cinema proprietor, 105, Fieldgate Street and 77, New Road, Whitechapel.—The above debtor applied to the London Bankruptcy Court for his discharge from the order of July, 1924, adjudicating him a bankrupt.

His Honour suspended the discharge for three years.

PRIVATE ARRANGEMENT.

S. L. Streeter, East Street, Petworth, and the Picturedrome, Petworth, electrical and wireless engineer and cinematograph proprietor.

A meeting of the creditors was held on May 11, in London, when a statement of affairs showed liabilities of £467 10s., and assets of £432 6s. 3d., or a deficiency of £35 3s. 9d. There was also a contingent liability amounting to £435 in respect of films booked in advance, but at present that was not expected to rank.

The debtor commenced business as a wireless and electrical dealer in April, 1925, and in January, 1927, he took over the Picturedrome, which had a seating capacity of 150, from his brother-in-law. The latter had entered into a number of contracts in respect of films which were prohibitive for the size of the theatre.

The takings from the Picturedrome in March were £83, and in April £76. The debtor employed an operator at 10s. per week and a girl in the box office at 5s. a week, while his wife played the piano. The turnover of the wireless business averaged about £400 a year.

After some discussion it was decided that the deed of assignment already executed by the debtor to Mr. Booth should be confirmed, and a committee of inspection consisting of three of the creditors was also appointed.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Capital Returned.—Mr. Justice Russell in the Chancery Division made an order, on the petition of the Tunbridge Wells Victory Theatre, Ltd., for the reduction of the company's capital by 5s. per share on their issued capital of £9,500.

Mr. Hodge, for the company, said that the petition asked for a reduction to be effected by the return of 5s. per share to the shareholders as the capital was in excess of the needs of the company.

It consisted of £30,000, of which £9,500 was issued. The company came into existence in 1919 and had been successful. It proposed to pay £2,375 back—that being 5s. on each of the 9,500 shares.

Kinema Directors' Mortgage.—In a considered judgment delivered on March 17, Mr. Justice Romer, in the Chancery Division, discussed the application by Goodall, Lamb and Heighway, Ltd., furniture dealers, of Manchester, to have set aside on the ground of undue preference a mortgage for £14,500 issued by the directors of Freedman's Pictures, owners of the Princess Picture House, Huddersfield, to themselves, to secure advances to the company.

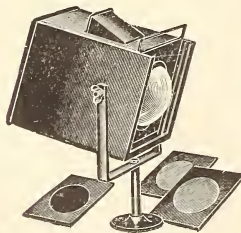

The applicants were creditors of the company for £1,900, and they alleged that at the date of the execution of the mortgage the directors knew that the company was hopelessly insolvent. The directors cited as respondents were Messrs. J. W. Howarth, Marks Freedman, George Little and Daniel Wainwright.

His Lordship said he was satisfied that the directors had the bona-fide belief that they were entitled to the mortgage as of right, and as are of the terms for the advance of their money to the company. He was not surprised, however, to learn that the applicants decided to probe the whole matter, as there were doubtless elements of suspicion about it.

He expressed his dissatisfaction with the evidence of some of the directors—not specifying any one of them—and he added that they must have known at material dates that the company could not pay its debts as they became due. Indeed, if a winding-up petition had been presented he did not see how the company could have resisted it. While dismissing the application, he said he should make no order as to the costs of the respondent directors.

THE KINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE.

Equipment and Technique in 1927.

By A. LESLIE CARTER.

THE past year has brought a measure of prosperity to the Industry, a prosperity in which the makers of picture theatre equipment and technical apparatus have fully shared. Notwithstanding the severe depression caused by the coal strike, and still felt in some districts, on the whole the net business of the year has been so satisfactory that it would not appear unduly optimistic to forecast for exhibitors in 1928 a period of comparative commercial stability and continued financial welfare.

It is not too much to say that last year witnessed a huge accession to previously existing picture patronage. This has followed upon the enterprise of the exhibitor in planning kinema accommodation which in luxury and capacity has never previously been approached in this country. Building developments in 1927 have been unparalleled in the history of the Trade, and there seems nothing to indicate that the peak has yet been reached.

This remarkable progress in theatre construction has been accompanied with intensive activity on the technical side, and although these developments have been very much less spectacular it is largely due to the high efficiency of our trade technicians that the British public is assimilating the picture-going habit which means so much for the future welfare of the Industry.

LEGISLATION.

Although the Trade itself is concerned more vitally with the Quota proposals than any other subject raised during the year, its incidence does not come within purview of an article dealing with the more specialised subject of theatre management. So far as this particular phase of the Industry is concerned there has been practically no interference either from national or local authorities. Early in the year, however, there was a movement among members of the C.E.A. in favour of an amendment of the Cinematograph Act of 1909. Suggestions were made by the Portsmouth C.E.A. that Sunday opening should be permitted at the proprietor's discretion and that the kinema licence should include music and singing, and that there should be a revision of the existing powers of local authorities with the right of appeal, but the danger of attracting to the exhibitor further and possible unwelcome attention of the authorities was recognised and no further action was taken.

The wisdom of this decision will not be denied in view of the suggestion made by the Parliamentary Committee of the L.C.C. that as the Quota proposals do not apply to non-flam film, powers of control should be given local authorities over the exhibition of non-flam films, and for increasing the penalties under the Cinematograph Act of 1909. It was decided, however, that these matters should be dealt with in an amendment of the 1909 Act rather than in the Quota Bill.

At Bradford and other districts the subject of eye-strain has arisen, and in the former place it has been decided that front seats shall be no nearer than 20 feet from the screen. This is roughly the usage in London, although the distance is based upon the angle of vision between the screen and the eye of the patron in the front row, which must not exceed 35 degrees and be less than 25 degrees. This, it has recently been officially stated, is considered by the L.C.C. to meet all the requirements of the 1920 report of the Committee of Eye Strain appointed by the Illuminating Engineering Society. An American theory is that the contrast between the picture and the usual black screen surround is conducive to eye-strain, and it is suggested the border might be eliminated now that the efficiency of the optical system has done away with the need for so strong a contrast.

The Finance Bill regularised the situation created last year by the decision of the Appeal Court that blank sensitised sheet when imported in width beyond standard size was not subject to the McKenna duties, so that it now comes within the duty of 1s. 3d. per linear foot.

The manufacturing and the laboratory side of the Trade will be affected by a new Home Office regulation concerning the manufacture and storage of film, a draft of which was introduced in November. This action followed closely upon a disastrous fire in a waste film factory in London in which three lives were lost. The regulation will supersede the celluloid regulations of 1921. They consist of two codes, one dealing with the manufacture of film and the other dealing with works where waste film is manipulated.

The unification of electrical supply under the Electricity Act seems likely to raise an awkward problem for exhibitors in the L.C.C. area at least, for if the technical scheme goes through many theatres will be unable to obtain two satisfactory independent supplies necessitated by the regulations. The L.C.C., however, have been considering the subject in conjunction with the London and Home Counties Branch of the C.E.A. and the Electricity Commission.

SAFETY REGULATIONS.

Local authorities were deeply impressed by the Montreal cinema disaster and generally there has been a tightening up of safety regulations. Serious concern has been expressed by the possibility of film fires, due to the use of mirror and high-intensity arcs. For the past 24 months conversations have been taking place between the L.C.C. and the I.A.K.M. and London and Home Counties Branch of the C.E.A. with regard to the prevention of fire at the film gate. Systems by which streams of cooled or pumped air are directed on the gate have been placed on the market by the Walturdaw Co. and J. Frank Brockliss, Ltd., but have not been in conspicuous demand. It is understood, however, that the I.A.K.M. have perfected an attachment on similar lines which will be considered by the L.C.C. While seemingly satisfying all safety requirements, its installation will not throw any great financial strain on the exhibitor.

The same authority, whose lead, by the way, is so often followed by provincial councils, has made an important regulation forbidding the use of anything but fire-resisting material in the construction of the roofs of kinemas above 500 capacity.

NON-FLAM FILM.

Prominence was given to the subject of the use of non-inflammable film stock by the flotation of companies to manufacture and market the products made under the patent of H. J. Mallabar, but although early tests proved the technical practicability of the new base under ordinary projection conditions, there has been no information this year concerning the operations of the company. A factory, however, has now been taken in the Liverpool area, and interesting developments are expected at no distant date. In the meantime, the French Government at long last decided to put into operation on January 1, 1928, the regulation for the compulsory use of non-flam film. This will be enforced by districts according to population.

In England the possibility of the use of non-flam film seems to have exercised operators, who view by its general use a danger of the employment of unqualified and unskilled labour. The matter was officially considered by the Liverpool Kinema section of the E.T.U., but there seems but little probability of employers lowering the standard of projection on these grounds.

LITERATURE.

Technical literature has not been over abundant. Among the most important is a second edition of Motion Picture Theatre Electrical Equipment, and Projection, which in its revised and enlarged state is more than ever an essential to the theatre library. Its contents, which include a new chapter on water supply, make the book one not only for the managerial staff but also for the architect.

An authoritative work on kinema practice by Leopold Lobel, La Technique Cinematographique describes with numerous illustrations all the technical phases of the making and projection of films as entertainment and also studio technique and dark room methods.

The illuminating engineer will find Electrical Illumination a standard work on all matters that affect his province, the chapters devoted to exterior and interior illumination and the special chapters on kinema practice are invaluable. The authors are Cyril Sylvester, A.M.I.E.E., the KINE. lighting expert, and Thomas E. Ritchie, A.M.I.E.E.

The manager who proposes to try his hand at local topicals is recommended to the Taking and Showing of Motion Pictures, by J. R. Cameron a useful manual which, written in non-technical language, deals exhaustively with the subject and also contains valuable hints as to titling and editing and the sale of product to the news reels.

THEATRE BUILDING.

In respect to theatre building 1926 has instituted new records eclipsing previous boom periods. In London and the provinces there has been a scramble for new sites: existing theatres have been enlarged to super dimensions, and the seating capacity throughout the country must have been increased by hundreds of thousands. At Birmingham for instance, no less than eight new halls have been opened within a comparatively short period, and there are others to follow. In this district the fear of overseating among established houses has led the C.E.A. successfully to apply for a veto in at least one case, but owing to the obvious dangers of creating a monopoly value for kinema licences, this action has not been altogether countenanced in the Trade, although at Bristol and elsewhere similar opposition has been entered by local exhibitors to new schemes, on the score of redundancy.

The most important house completed during the year has been Green's Playhouse at Glasgow, where building has also been prolific. The total capacity of this house (4,500) successfully substantiates its claim to be the biggest in Europe, although two or three now being erected in London and elsewhere will probably challenge the title. London schemes include the New Empire, the Metro Goldwyn House, the capacity of which will exceed 4,000, the Regal, Marble Arch, which A. E. Abrahams is planning at a cost of half-a-million. Madame Tussaud's, and a house at Croydon which, accommodating 4,500, will cost the Davis' a quarter of a million to erect.

P.C.T. have in hand a big building programme which involves the erection, in various centres, of six or more theatres exceeding 2,500 accommodation.

The description by John Eberson, the American Architect, in the Ideal Kinema supplement to the Kine, of the "Atmospheric" Theatres in the States has led to consideration of this individual style of architecture. Atmospheric theatres, which introduce an outdoor effect to the auditorium, are proposed in Glasgow, where W. Inglis is designing a building with a Spanish motif, for N.B. Theatres Ltd., and at Hammersmith, for W. H. & T. B. Percy, and Fulham, of which Clough Williams Ellis is the architect.

A TRADE EXHIBITION.

The comparatively large measure of success attending an unpretentious privately organised exhibition by equipment firms at the C.E.A. summer conference at Morecambe emphasised the potential benefit that might accrue from an exhibition arranged under official auspices. The suggestion that this should be undertaken at the Cardiff Conference this year was adopted by the General Council of the C.E.A., and arrangements to this end are now well in hand. The move has been welcomed by the majority of equipment and accessory firms and there is every indication that the Cardiff exhibition will be productive of very considerable benefit, both to exhibitors and the firms taking part.

Notwithstanding the promises of support given to this undertaking, British equipment firms generally appear unwilling to avail themselves of the opportunities presented in foreign markets. During the year the commercial fairs held in Germany and Poland have failed to attract the interest of British manufacturers, who, with a few exceptions on the optical side, have also displayed regrettable apathy towards the opportunities presented by the British Industries Fair. In this last respect the view has been expressed that the I.A.K.M., should revert to the arrangement sponsored by them in 1924, when several members co-operated in staging an exhibit of their product. Co-operation between the C.E.A. and the I.A.K.M., in connection with the Cardiff Equipment Exhibition would go far towards ensuring its complete success.

The need for closer co-operation between the various units of the trade has again been discussed, one powerful appeal being made by George Pearson, of the Welsh-Pearson Company, who, at the annual dinner of the Royal Photographic Society, declared that the time had arrived when producers and technicians should avail themselves of the specialised knowledge represented by the R.P.S., membership. If British production were to be successful a closer union was essential so that producers might use to the full their unique scientific and technical knowledge.

One of the most interesting exhibits at the R.P.S., Show, was the exhibit by Will Day, F.R.P.S., of the machine invented in 1876 by J. A. R. Rudge of Bath, nine years before the now historic experiment of Muybridge. The machine represents the transition from the magic lantern to the kine-projector. Seven plates, representing a trick photograph of the inventor, revolved round an illuminant, the movement being governed by a rotary shaft which also actuated a flicker shutter.

CARBONS.

Improvements in projector illuminants and the widespread use of mirror and high intensity arcs have necessarily focussed increased attention on the subject of carbons. There is usually little to choose between two makes of carbons, continual use being essential if we are to establish a quality that suits particular circumstances. In this country operators have a wide choice of brands and varieties. There is the well known Kinarko Brand, the only British made carbon which is manufactured by the G.E.C. Other popular brands are the "Siemens" for which the Electrical Equipment and Carbon Co. are the agents, the "Conradty" marketed by the Sloan Electrical Co., Ltd., "Ship," handled by Charles H. Champion & Co., Ltd. There is also the "Columbia," the British agent for which is J. R. Morris. Charles H. Champion & Co., Ltd., have made a progressive step during the year by acquiring a site at Chadwell Heath for the manufacture of their product. The new enterprise with a capital of £130,000 is putting down the most modern plant, which will be under the technical direction of Dr. Brunner.

RAW STOCK.

Considerable activity has been manifest among raw stock manufacturers during the year, Kodak of London acquired controlling interests in the Pathé organisation and took over the Vincennes establishment in April. Later in the year Kodak acquired the raw stock business of the Glanzfilm of Berlin. These operations were regarded in some quarters as a direct challenge to Agfa, which controls about two-thirds of the entire German output.

In the studios the advantage of panchromatic film is becoming more generally recognised although in the States its use has been standard practice for some time, especially since the adoption of incandescent studio lighting. Best results however, for this type of illuminant are stated to have been achieved with super-speed film: in this direction it is interesting to remark upon the report that Agfa have perfected a negative stock alleged to be approximately 25 times faster than the fastest previously known.

As a prevention of film injury, a test has been made at the Futurist, Birmingham, of an armoured stock, which takes the form of re-enforcement of the sprocket holes of positive film by means of thin strips of copper or alloy.

RADIO VISION.

Developments in radio-vision have been remarkable. In America talking moving pictures have been successfully transmitted between Washington and New York, and in England a 438 mile test of the Baird system of television was achieved between London and Glasgow, persons in Glasgow "seeing" Mr. Baird in his London laboratory, speech and vision being transmitted through an ordinary land wire. Since then Mr. Baird has been similarly successful by wireless, and patents have been acquired by the Marconi Company. It has been claimed that television sets will be in the near future available for about £30. A German system invented by Denes von Mihaly, a Hungarian in conjunction with the A.E.G., has eliminated the recording screen and can transmit ordinary motion pictures which have previously been recorded by a specially constructed Zeiss camera and lens.

ILLUMINATION.

It is probable that in no previous year has more attention been paid to the science of picture theatre lighting both on the exterior and in the auditorium. An increasing number of managements have appreciated the value of floodlighting, which, in spite of obvious limitations due to dirty or blackened surfaces, has been used with artistic effect and no little commercial benefit to kinemas. It has been adopted with great success by new buildings where in many cases the units have been made an integral part of the building. A new impetus has also been given to neon lighting which, although the initial cost is heavier than lamp signs, is to be recommended because of its current economy and small maintenance cost. Great advances have also been made in the construction of ordinary lamp signs which nowadays are installed in many diverse styles and will stand up to a long and arduous life. For picture advertisements interchangeable signs are eminently suitable, titles are easily changed, and there is a wide variety of lettering, which can be changed even by inexperienced hands.

Considerable progress has taken place in respect of auditorium illumination, and although in a number of recent kinemas concealed lighting has been adopted, there are others where lighting takes the form of artistically designed lighting units with suitable colour screens, which, with dimmer control, afford any desired colour effect or combination of colours. An important contribution to this phase of lighting has been made by the Holophone Company, whose specially arranged system causes the whole decorative effect of a theatre to be changed in an instant. This system has been adopted in its entirety by the new Ritz Kinema, Birmingham. Distinctive auditorium fittings are also supplied by the G.E.C., Strand Electric, British Thomson-Houston Co., and Cinema Traders, to name but a few.

The time is at hand when lamps and gas jets as illuminant for secondary lighting will be superseded even in the smallest kinemas by electricity. In the larger halls this is derived from an independent source of supply, but many proprietors save the additional expense thus involved by installing Chloride storage batteries, which may be charged from the mains or from the same supply which feeds the projectors. This installation compares very favourably with the cost of any other method of efficient illumination, and fully complies with the regulations as to safety lighting.

The introduction of kine-variety, prologues, etc., has necessitated a revision of all ideas of stage lighting in the kinemas, and all equipment manufacturers are giving special attention to this subject. The G.E.C. recently opened new showrooms at Kingsway, where all the needs of the exhibitor may be met in an economical fashion. It is possible for a small stage to be equipped in the most modern fashion at a cost of some £350, which includes a baby cloud projector and cyclorama. Nowadays arc lamps have given place to gasfilled projector lamps in flood lights, optical lanterns, spot-lights, etc. Osram, Siemens and Mazda lamps are specially designed for this purpose. "Seecol" apparatus is another popular range, and however small the stage a Strand Electric installation will be found to suit all requirements.

An important firm specialising in stage requirements is the Holophane Company, whose recently introduced batten and "Duo Phantom" effects have been adopted by many of this year's new theatres. I have already referred at length to the many delightful effects that may be achieved at a very moderate cost by this installation.

Late in the year there was put on the market by Walturdaw a most useful accessory which, at a cost of five guineas, puts within the reach of any exhibitor an efficient stage spot. The "Cine Spot" is the invention of J. S. Nairn, of Edinburgh, and without interfering with the projection of films or slides provides all that is demanded of the ordinary spot.

PRESENTATION.

The most important development of the picture theatre is the attention that is being paid to presentation, both as regards stage and screen lighting, effects, prologue work and variety. Some, or all, of these factors form an integral portion of every modern cinema programme, a fact which has necessitated a redistribution of ideas concerning the back of the stage equipment. Nowadays a stage of at least 20 feet in depth is necessary, together with two screens. The main picture screen on which the feature is shown should be some 15-18 feet from the footlights. In the front is another screen for the showing of shorts during which the stage is set for prologue or variety. There is an increasing inclination to stage revuettes, some running as long as 40 minutes, and variety, and the adoption of this hybrid entertainment has necessitated more attention being paid to the acoustics of kinemas as well as sight lines. This presentation of vocal turns is one of the problems to be faced in the designing of a new theatre.

One of the most interesting phases of presentation was the introduction at the Plaza during the run of "Chang" of the magnascope. During one episode, without warning the screen picture suddenly enlarged from normal to fill the whole proscenium opening, thus adding immeasurably to the dramatic force of the sequence. Technical details of the invention have not been divulged by the Paramount engineers, but it is understood the effect is achieved by means of a special optical system which has the result of increasing the width of angle.

Another novelty which was put on in France is the triple screen, by means of which it is possible to view parallel action without interference with continuity of the story. The main picture is projected on the ordinary screen, but when it is desired, say, to indicate the thoughts of the chief character or action taking place simultaneously with that on the usual screen, this is thrown upon screens on each side of the main surface. In this way the dissolve or flash back is done away with. Projection on each of the screens is of course, by separate projection.

The staging of the orchestra upon occasions is now a recognised form of presentation, but the latest arrangement is the provision of a lift whereby the whole orchestra is lifted to stage level for the purposes of their act. Organ console lifts, such as those made by W. J. Furse and Co., Ltd., the manufacturers of curtain controllers, have been put in in most places where a modern kinema organ is installed. This American practice has proved most effective on its adoption in this country.

The improvement in trailers has made them almost an integral portion of any programme. Since S. E. Abel came to this country as associate of Paul Kimberley at National Screen Service, great improvements have been made in regard both to the entertainment value of the theatre and the ingenuity with which they are introduced on the screen. Good work has also been done as regards trailers by Winads.

Effective proscenium display is a great help in presentation. Artificial flowers, ferns, etc., are as attractive and certainly more economical than natural plants or flowers. The Armin Trading Co., specialise in this phase of decorative work.

SELF-CONTAINED PLANT.

The advantages to be derived from the possession of an independent plant for the generation of the current supply are many. There is the great saving in overhead charges, allied with efficiency in service, and there is also the benefit arising from current supply control. To the kinema proprietor the last mentioned is essential; breakdowns are a continual source of direct financial loss; furthermore, there is an enormous amount of legitimate business profit diverted from the profits of the concern to those of local electricity undertakings. These difficulties are obviated by the installation of current generating plants driven by residual oil engines. While a gas engine makes a considerable saving in expenses compared with the cost of supplied "juice," even here running costs are governed by the price of town supply.

An interesting comparison is afforded by some figures supplied by Ruston and Hornsby, Ltd. At a village kinema a gas engine which ran on gas 8s. 9d. per 1,000 c.f., was replaced by a 20-h.p. crude oil engine, the crude oil for which worked out at 9d. a gallon. Net cost of gas fuel was £62, while that of crude oil, including lubricating oil, was £17 11s. A 50 am. load can be switched on without reduction of speed, and the voltage is always steady—a factor which is frequently wanting in a provincial gas supply.

The wide range of fuels which includes crude and residual petroleum oils, diesel, furnace and tar oils, makes the independent plant such a sound investment, and indeed, in cases where a sufficient storage is available bulk supplies may be obtained which are almost 50 per cent. cheaper than in barrels.

The special Kinema Department of Blackstone & Co., Ltd., have a series of oil engines which have been designed with the view to service of the exhibitor. The oil engine driven generator plant of this firm will produce all the electricity required for either power or lighting at a cost varying between $\frac{1}{4}$ d. and 1d. per unit. They are small to handle, start instantly if cold, and require very little attention.

All types of gas and oil engines are built by Crossley Bros., and for many years they have specialised in engines for kinema work, such as for instance, their two-stroke vertical heavy oil engines with separate air scavenge pump. One of these units, a 10 B.H.P. engine, was recently installed at a Lydd (Kent) picture house, where it supplies 2-300 watt, 14-60 watt, 11-30 watt and 17-20 watt lamps in addition to a 20 amp. kinema arc, on just over four pints of gas-oil per hour—an excellent illustration of an efficient, yet highly economical installation.

Two interesting new propositions for the theatre technician have been introduced during the year. The first was the Rosenberg generator for which the Electrical Equipment and Carbon Company are the agents. Among its advantages is that it eliminates the swamp resistance and attendant losses, and results in a 50 per cent. saving in "juice" costs. A similar claim is made for the Akk-Emmar auto-mechanical rectifier, recently put on the market by the Cricks Cinematograph Company. Diminutive in size, its overall length is only 24 in. its nominal rating is 2 k.w. or 75 volts. 25-30 amps, but it has been known to carry 100 amps. without complaining, and it is intended to carry 60 amps. for the change over.

STEREOSCOPY.

Little more has been heard of the "natural vision" films which 18 months ago was stated to have been perfected by George K. Spoor, and Berggren, the Swedish inventor, who were said to be engaged last year upon a full length stereoscopic feature "The American." It is now declared that Mr. Spoor's first effort will be a series of shorts. The chief drawback of this process seems to be that in addition to the need for a special camera, intricate printing equipment and a huge screen are necessitated. Now we learn that a London renting firm proposes shortly to release a series of stereoscopic pictures made under the patents of Jacques and Emil Burkhardt, Swiss inventors—a process that has been acquired by the Bernhard-Tiffany organisation. No technical details are available. In England there seems to have been little progress, although a passable stereoscopic effect has been attained by Theodore Brown, a British experimenter, by means of an oscillating camera. Neither of these processes requires any addition to the camera or other special equipment.

PROJECTION.

Chief among the changes in the operating equipment are the number of new models of popular machines, each of which present radical changes in familiar design. These new machines are dealt with in detail in the following pages. An outstanding feature in this connection is that proprietors in these competitive days appreciate the prime importance of projectors, and are renewing their equipment much more frequently than previously. Freak projectors and gadgets have been few this year, although a Littlehampton exhibitor, J. Marshall, claims to have invented a fitment which does away with sprockets without interfering with the steadiness of the picture. A new non-intermittent projector, the Continsouza-Combes, was demonstrated in France, the principle being the use of lenses for the superimposition of one frame on the next.

Mirror arcs are now practically standard equipment; an interesting addition to the former is the mirror arc lamp recently introduced by F. Brown, Ltd., which, complete with ash tray, key and three sets of carbon holders, costs only £10. This lamp is a thoroughly efficient illuminant and has all the movements necessary for easy and quick centring. Compared with the vertical type it saves approximately 75 per cent. of current and 60 per cent. in respect of carbons.

In the larger kinemas, the installation of High Intensity Arcs proceeds apace, a new model over here is the "Perfex" for which J. F. Brocklis's are the distributors and is claimed to be the first H. I. lamp with a reflector. mirror, although over here we are used to the Ross Searchlight on a similar principle. The Perfex operates at 50 amps. on 110 volts, and gives a strikingly clear picture. Another model of which there have been some successful installations is the Ashcraft.

Success in projection depends on the lens used, British lenses, by reason of their light efficiency, are almost exclusively in use in this country and are being used to an increasing extent throughout the world. For instance, Taylor-Hobson, Maximum and Unifit lenses are greatly in demand, the patented Maximum lenses lie close up to the gate and so pass the maximum light to the screen. They are the largest that can be placed in standard jacket. As there are only four reflecting surfaces loss of light by reflection is reduced to a minimum.

A.E.G.

Many unique features and improvements are claimed for the latest model A.E.G., for which Theatre Equipment Ltd. are sole agents. The present-day high running speed has been the one big consideration in the technical details of the mechanism, which are made of specially hardened metal, while the self-acting oil device ensures even and automatic lubrication of all essential parts. An outstanding feature, which should commend itself to all exhibitors desiring absolute protection against the film firing at the gate, is the adoption of a rotary shutter between the arc lamps and the gate. This answers the function of an ordinary flicker shutter and a suction ventilating fan, by which means the heat is reduced by 50 per cent. because the gate is subjected to two cooling devices: one being the wind vane action of the shutter, and the other the interception of the light beam during cover period. The whole are enclosed in a ball-shaped case which, after the manner of a suction ventilator, increases the cooling effect.

Other interesting features which contribute to steadiness of projection are the exact working of the intermittent movement and the self-acting brake of the film; the introduction of a spring roller device. It adapts itself to the breadth of the film and a film track of exceptional length. There is a strong pedestal stand fitted with a ball-joint movement of the head, adjustable to all angles by hand wheel. The A.E.G. mirror arc lamp is fitted either with 6½ or 10 in. pressure Zeiss glass mirrors and speedometer, and meter counting contrivance may be installed.

ERNEMANN "IMPERATOR II."

Special features of the last model of the popular Ernemann, for which Walturdaw Company are agents, are numerous, and are specially directed to conform with modern high speed running. The mechanism is totally enclosed with the exception of the film track, motion being transmitted by spur wheels with helical teeth. Ball bearings have been introduced for the first time, which, with the continuous and visible circulation of oil, makes for quiet and smooth running even at the highest speed. The Maltese cross gear of the Emperor I model remains the same. Pin disc and cross run in a totally enclosed oil bath with automatic lubrication. As only a short cam spindle and gear are concerned the unit is readily removable, and an exchange can be effected as quickly as an operator changes a spool, no adjustment nor technical skill being required. As both spool boxes are in perfect vertical alignment undue strain is obviated on film, the preservation of which is also contributed to by the use of central masking. The film track is extra long with easily interchangeable runners on the front section of the gate. The flicker shutter is small and totally enclosed, the shutter shaft is short and the arrangement of the assembly on the telescopic principle permits easy focal length adjustment. Lubrication can be watched through an inspection glass. Oil is automatically pumped during circulation and forced to all gear parts. Speedometers are built into the casing. Reduction of speed for short reels, etc., is provided for by means of a built in mechanical brake, which can be operated with one finger. An asbestos lined film shield with lightcone between lamphouse and mechanism prevents overheating of the mechanism and a broken film from coming in contact with the lamphouse. Rear section of the gate is ribbed, and a copper shield immediately behind the mask of the gate is a further aid to keeping the film cool. Spool boxes carrying 3,000 ft. of film are arranged on an entirely new principle. The main section being hinged leaves the spool of film easily accessible. Lantern slide attachment is on the diascope principle. The Emperor II may be equipped with Ernemann arcs or any lamp desired by the exhibitor.

ERNEMANN DOUBLE IMPERATOR.

Introduced by Walturdaw early in the year, the Double Emperor I should appeal to every exhibitor whose projection room space is severely limited. Briefly the apparatus consists of two Emperor I mechanisms and lamphouses mounted upon a single base. They are precisely similar mechanisms except that one is right-handed and the other left-handed. The machine is essentially easy to operate, and threading up is no more complicated than on an ordinary single-machine, except that on the right-hand side the ordinary Ernemann front-opening gate is used, and on the left the back-opening gate of the Powers thread up. The twin lamphouse system is an improvement on the double lamp house with its difficulties of carboning up. The distance between the centres of the machine is only 18 in., which while conserving space also effects almost perfect optical alignment. The features of the Emperor I are too well known to require recapitulation, but sufficient has been said to indicate the very real benefits conferred by the double machine under specific conditions.

GAUMONT ECLIPSE.

The new Gaumont Eclipse model represents a radical departure in design from its forerunners. The application of the fixed optical centre system is one of the most noteworthy improvements, and with it an ingenious racking arrangement by which a turn of a handle beneath the lamp base plate simultaneously raises the lamp and the gate mechanism. All gearing has been considerably strengthened to meet the heavier wear caused by present day rate of running. This applies to the new cross mechanism, which is both larger and heavier. The cross is slotted instead of grooved, and the sprocket is now detachable. The whole unit runs in an easily accessible oil bath instead of a grease bath. All lubrication of the mechanism is picked up from oil cups situated on all bearings. Although totally enclosed the mechanism is essentially facile of approach. Racking is on the micrometer principle and works down to 1,000th part of an inch. The lens is mounted in a swing ring, which absolutely eliminates vibration. Gate length has been increased and an idler roller has been provided by which imperfections in the film are compensated for and lateral movement prevented. Metal shields cover the film throughout its travel. Spool boxes are aligned directly above and beneath the mechanism. The new pedestal stand is fitted with a centre-piece which is easily adjusted, and fine fitting adjustment is afforded. Lamp-house is of cast aluminium ribbed, and accommodates the new pattern lamp with a 12 in. mirror. Slide projection is on the diascope principle.

HAHN-GOERZ.

The Hahn-Goerz projector has proved by its performance to have fulfilled all the requirements of many exhibitors. Perhaps the best tribute to this projector is that it is a fitting complement to the Hahn-Goerz "Artisol" mirror arc that has become almost a standard mirror arc installation. Among the many interesting features of this projector is the manner in which the problem of lubrication has been solved by the establishment of only three oil points and the enclosing of all gearing and axles, which are run in oil baths. In consequence, wear on gear teeth and bearings is minimised, and the running is practically silent, a fact to which the system of worm-wheel gearing and the accuracy of every mechanical part contributes. The gearing is easily adjusted and is made of the best grade steel or a special bronze, and are standardised. The distinctive take-up device is claimed to be absolutely reliable in its action, slip being between a driving wheel and driver-disc, the rims of which are held in contact by a coiled tension spring. This friction clutch can be adjusted for tension even while the machine is running. By swivelling the motor upon a bracket motor belt tension is constant. The gate has an arrangement by which six teeth of the intermittent sprocket engage the film instead of the usual three teeth. The Hahn-Goerz has a fixed optical centre and framing is done by a T shaped handle in either direction which operates an eccentric cam movement. A description of the Hahn-Goerz "Artisol" mirror arc with which the motor is fitted is superfluous at this stage, but exhibitors have the choice of an 8 in. or 10 in. lamp, the latter being specially intended for the largest theatres. A special arrangement now enables the Hahn-Goerz to be accommodated to the steepest throws without any possible injury to the mirror, samples of which have not required re-silvering after 18 months' use.

The new slide attachment of this projector, by which the light for the arc is deflected into a slide projector outside the lamphouse, is a boon to operators. As the picture can be focused immediately in the centre of the screen, a fade on the film is possible without interruption. A speed indicator and automatic motor-driven carbon control are other invaluable accessories.

THE KAMM.

The many users of one or the other models of the Kamm projector prove the worth of its performance in both large and small kinemas. Improved methods of manufacture brought about by the association of Kamm & Co., Ltd., and Cinema Traders, Ltd., have led to heavy price reductions in the latest Wembley model, which has acquired a reputation for rigidity and efficiency in projection. The No. 1 Model with vertical spool boxes is now £75, and the No. 2 machine, with automatic film rewind, sells at £70. Mention must be made of the popular Kamm maintenance service which has given satisfaction for years. The price for the supply of two Outfits for use in the same Hall with Universal Arc Lamps, is 18s. per week, or with Mirror Arc Lamps, 24s. per week.

The distinctive feature of the Kamm projector is the mounting of the whole of the apparatus on the lower spool box, which is clamped by the end stands, and easy tilting adjustment is effected by releasing the clamping jaws by the simple slackening and tightening of the rod connecting the standards. The many refinements on this machine all go to facilitate operation. Among them are the novelty of the ball bearings, which obviates any need for oil, the protection of the gate aperture given by a slot formed just behind the aperture plate containing optically worked fireproof glass and the cooling of the mirror by means of a small power-driven fan playing on the back of the silvering; a method that enables the mirror to be brought comparatively near to the arc crater without fear of deterioration. For threading up, casing and lens jackets are all swung clear away from the sprockets. The lens can be focused from the front of the machine by a special mounting. The Maltese cross mechanism works in an oil bath and all mechanism is encased. From start to finish the film is completely enclosed and this portion of the apparatus is therefore completely fireproof. An alternative illuminant is available in two high-power incandescent focus lamps. By this system two sources of light are received, one through the condenser and the other by reflection from the mirror.

KALEE No. 8 MODEL DE LUXE.

Although at the time of writing the 1928 Kallee No. 8 Model de Luxe is still a matter of speculation among the Trade, a special private demonstration of the new machine enables us to indicate the lines upon which improvements have been made. The new machine represents nine months of specialised research at the Kershaw factory at Leeds, particularly as regards the selection of metals used for gears and bearings. These important functioning parts are now practically as wear resisting as is humanly possible. This and a new distribution of the lubricating system permits the highest running speed being achieved practically in silence.

Distinctive alterations in design include the enclosure of all the movement, including main gear wheel, take-up gear and Maltese cross, which now operate entirely submerged in oil. Gears are easily accessible, a long thumbscrew sufficing to hold the plate in place, so that they are quickly available for repair or adjustment. Automatic lubrication has been arranged for from a series of conveniently situated oil points, all working parts are more substantial, and this applies to the stand, which is a heavy pedestal with an easily operated screw adjustment for height which obviates the use of a distance piece. Shutter bracket and bearings are heavier and the gears on the shutter-shaft being spiral cut and working in oil make for silent running. Spool boxes are now mounted in an exactly vertical position, thus shortening the film travel. A wide steel shield from the top to the bottom spool boxes prevents the film running into the heated lamp house, should a break occur. Spool boxes themselves are greatly improved, being more substantial in construction and fitted with windows each side, and adjustable tension drive is from a vertical shaft. Lateral movement at the gate is overcome by the use of tracking rollers, film travel is facilitated by the introduction of an end bracket-arm and bearing. The driving motor is serving under the centre of the pedestal stand, the long motor drive being carried on a compensating arm with pulleys for lengthening and lowering the rack.

In the new model the recently introduced M.L. mirror lamp has been retained, and wisely, as this has proved a remarkably efficient illuminant. There is an 8 in. mirror; the usual central hole in lamps of this type having been discarded. The interposition of this 8 in. convex condenser has proved an effective heat absorber. Altogether the machine is a fine product of British workmanship and it promises to achieve success even greater than its successor, the No. 7 model, of which over 800 machines have been sold within the past year.

MOY OMNIA.

Although claiming for itself no exclusive features, Moy Omnia ranks amongst the first-class professional machines on the market, and is manufactured in the oldest kinematograph works in the country. The machine, which is substantially built, has a fixed optical axis, and efficient heat guard, and a highly sensitive automatic light cut-off. The vital working parts are of hardened steel, with silver steel gate runners. All gears are accurately cut and are enclosed in a dust proof case, without in any way sacrificing accessibility for purposes of inspection. The escapement is enclosed in an oil-bath, which is provided with an inspection window so that the "oil-level" of same is constantly visible.

The spool boxes are strongly made, with effective fire-traps and direct drive take-up, whilst the lamp house is sufficiently large to accommodate all types of open arc lamps, or can be fitted with filament lamp where such is preferred.

POWER'S 6B IMPROVED.

The American Power's 6B projector, as introduced two years ago to this country for the first time by J. Frank Brockliss, Ltd., contains many interesting features which make this machine quite distinct from any other projector. The considerable success which the above company has had with it points to the exhibitors' valuation of this fine machine. The installation of this projector in the Paramount Theatre, Paris, and the Carlton Theatre, Haymarket, London, alone sets a seal on it. Amongst many other interesting points is the roller pin cross movement. This is exclusive to the

KALEE No. 8
INDOMITABLE ALWAYS —AND BRITISH

Power's 6B and consists of small movable sleeves which fit over the pins of the pin cross, and, acting as roller bearings, reduce frictional wear and noise to a minimum. The pin cross rollers are made of specially selected steel, hardened and finished with the utmost care. Other special features include the new and improved front plate and lens mount with its rack and pinion adjustment with double focusing knobs, which permit of the lens being easily focused from either side. The mount proper consists of a split collar clamped by means of a set screw which holds the lens firmly in position. Framing is facilitated by a small framing lamp mounted inside the mechanism in a most convenient position. A double eye-shield of ruby glass covers the aperture. By means of a vernier adjustment, the blades of the cover shutter may be adjusted during running; a clutch to the take-up sprocket permitting facile adjustment of a short lower loop. The generator type speed control is a refinement that all operators will appreciate. Absolute accuracy and dependability are claimed for it: by setting the double-ended control lever and then simply throwing in the motor switch, the projector speed will at once reach the exact speed for which the control is adjusted, and if used in conjunction with the Power's speed indicator, the problem of the correct timing of pictures is eliminated. Another advantage of the control is that a drop of line voltage should not affect the speed of the mechanism even if the motor slows down considerably. Minor points of difference with previous models are the round-cornered spool boxes, and the more substantial construction of the stand.

ROSS D.C. MODEL.

Among the most interesting of the new models is the improved Ross D.C. Model, in which the chief departure from the former models of this famous machine is the adoption of the fixed optical centre principle. One result of this application is that the loops above and below the intermittent sprocket remain of constant length and no allowance need be made in their length for racking. Moreover, the film is not being pulled through the gate during this operation as the film track moves with the film. Spur gearing and bevel gearing has been entirely eliminated, and is replaced in the new Ross by worm gearing, thus achieving absolute silence in running. Owing to the materials used, these gears are immune from wear, and indeed will improve during service. The Maltese Cross movement is now enclosed in an airtight oil bath and the cross itself has also been improved. The complete unit is easily interchangeable. By means of an interesting new feature it is possible so to reduce the area of the light spot at the gate aperture that the temperature of the film track is very sensibly reduced. The new construction of the film track prevents "flapping" of the film when running on to the intermittent sprocket. This extremely fine adjustment of the lens will appeal to operators. This is provided by the new focusing jacket, which can be moved through a fraction of an inch. The stand is now a pedestal arrangement with changeable extension pieces by which the height of the machine can be easily arranged to suit any particular tilt and height of port hole.

THE SIMPLEX.

The double bearing Simplex projector introduced by J. Frank Brockliss Ltd., which has been installed in so many of the London super kinemas, including the Plaza, the New Gallery and the Astoria in London, continues to be in great demand. The intermittent movement is immersed in oil, and any wear is quickly taken up by turning a single eccentric bushing. It is easily accessible, and the complete movement may be removed in less than a minute. Bearings are enlarged and lengthened. A simple movement of a lever frames the picture, either when the machine is running or standing still, and as the shutter moves in unison with this lever, "travel ghost" is eliminated. The fire shutter is operated by a centrifugal governor which is absolutely dependable. The film tracks have four wearing surfaces equivalent to three extra pairs of tracks. A reflector in the lamphouse enables the operator to view the arc from his usual position at the machine. The Simplex is usually fitted with Hahn-Goerz mirror arcs, but an alternative illuminant, the Hall-Connelly high intensity arc, has also been largely adopted this year. The Peerless arc lamp is another of the Brockliss features, which also include the Power's speedometer—a very important device nowadays that enables the musical director to have on his desk a dial that is in synchronisation with the speedometer in the projection room. The "Perfex" and Ashcraft high intensity lamps, which are referred to elsewhere, are other of the Brockliss specialities.

SCREENS.

There is little that is new in respect of screens except that a new daylight screen reported from Copenhagen is said to have given pictures as clear and as sharp as if displayed in the dark. The front of the screen is slate grey and therefore only slightly susceptible to light. Early in the year a new Bulman organisation—the Bulman Jupiter Screen Company—was formed, A. E. Bundy as managing director, — to deal in all the Bulman specialities and especially the Jupiter metallic screen, which has proved so popular on its introduction last year. The Bulman Co. is also interested in the new Patent Fireproof Rear-Projection Screen, which, while conforming to all fire regulations, gives a brilliantly white illuminated picture: C. D. Savage is now in charge. E. A. Langrish and Co., Ltd., have acquired the agency for Optha-stereo Screen, another efficient metallic type screen, which has since been installed in many important kinemas. One of the oldest established screen factors is Wilmot, Barnard and Co., who have supplied a considerable proportion of the kinema screens and screen fabrics in this country; and whose various products are of a high efficiency.

ORGANS.

If there is one field of equipment in which there has been unprecedented progress it is in the matter of organs specially built for kinema purposes, the advent of which has been more than cordially welcomed by the exhibitor, not merely on grounds of economy but because he is providing the public with a class of music which heretofore had been available only to concert-goers and others whom the Man in the Street dismissed as highbrows. Financially the exhibitor who puts in an organ is the gainer because, while being able to do away with a relief orchestra, he has yet at his command an instrument which has all the flexibility of an orchestra, and, indeed, in the hands of a competent musician, supplies much that is beyond the powers of the combination it has superseded. The exhibitor now has a wide choice of organs of the unit type specially designed for picture accompaniment. Much of the success of these instruments must undoubtedly be credited to the Wurlitzer people, who two years ago introduced their famous organ, and indeed created a market in a field which hitherto had been largely neglected except in so far as the church type was concerned. Of late years, however, British organ builders have come to appreciate the possibilities of expansion in this direction. The John Compton Co., who put in the fine organ at the Shepherd's Bush Pavilion, have installed many other fine instruments, named the "Kinestra," including that at the Astoria. Another long established firm who have made big strides is Wm. Hill and Sons and Norman Beard, Ltd., whose "Christie" Unit Organ has a convincing list of installations which is monthly increasing. The "Jardine" is also an admirable instrument, the finest specimen of which is still to be found at the Stoll, Kingsway.

Recent Wurlitzer installations number in all 12 organs, including at the Broadway, Stratford, and Madame Tussaud's, which is to open in the spring. A remarkable organ which appealed greatly to the music-loving Germans is at the Spiel Theatre, Nurnberg, which, by the way, Dr. Tootell, who will be organist at Madame Tussaud's, had the honour of opening. The smaller exhibitor is well suited in the Whomes "Orgapian," an ideal instrument which, at a touch, can be converted from a piano to an organ.

These installations indicate the enterprise of the manufacturers who are constantly striving for perfection and to meet the requirements of the exhibitor and his music-loving patrons. There is certainly a great demand for mechanised music, which can be made a distinct source of revenue. Apart however, from the instrument in itself, there are also various mechanical devices which fall more properly within the category of "mechanised music."

TALKING FILMS.

The arrival on this side of the Fox-Case "Movietone" and the "Vitaphone" has led to a revival of interest in "talking pictures," which, in spite of the moderate success achieved by "Phonofilms," had not been exploited to its full worth by the company. The "Movietone," which is on a similar principle to the "Phonofilm" in that the sound record is made in the form of a photographic print on the side of the film stock by a vibrating beam of light, has been proved to be of great commercial significance in the run of "Seventh Heaven" at the New Gallery, the whole of the orchestral accompaniment being supplied by this instrument. In America this process has been adopted with excellent results to the news reel. Similar developments may shortly be expected of "Phonofilms," a controlling interest in which has been lately acquired by A. W. Schlesinger, and who have obtained a studio at Wembley for the purpose of development. Plans for the "Movietone" are stated to involve the erection of works and studios in this country for the production of the instrument on a large scale. At the moment, however, the cost of the American-made instrument seems prohibitive for the average kinema management, in addition to which the question of the adaptability of the installation to the varied projectors in this country is an important problem. Both the "Movietone" and the "Vitaphone"—the latter perhaps the most popular instrument of its class in America—are controlled over here by Western Electric. A successful private demonstration of the "Vitaphone," which is based on the gramophone principle, has also been given in London, but difficulties of one sort or another have prevented its further introduction.

Another system which has been announced is the Gaumont British-Acoustic, which made its first public bow as an effects machine on the legitimate stage. It is said to be an adaptation of an invention by two Danes, Poulsen and Petersen, the sound record being produced photographically on a separate strip of film, the reproduction being synchronised with the screening of the picture from another projector.

In addition to these machines which provide scores of vocal sound set synchronously to the action there are a number of instruments made for the electrical reproduction of gramophone records. This is performed either by self-contained units, such as the "Panatrope," the "Reprovox," "Magnetone," or by assembled parts used in conjunction with the ordinary gramophone. These comprise an electric magnetic pick-up, such as is supplied by the Igranic Company, Graham Amplion or G. Brown, a valve amplifier and one or more loudspeakers.

The success of the "Panatrope" has been one of the phenomenons of the Trade. Introduced purely to provide gramophone interludes, the proprietors, British Brunswick, quickly enlarged its utility by indicating how complete film scores may be arranged for gramophone records. This service proved so popular that even in musical Yorkshire no fewer than 40 kinemas have superseded their orchestras by this form of "mechanised music." Effects records are now being produced which give the exhibitor a wide variety of easily attained effects.

One of the most successful demonstrations given in this connection was at the presentation of the animal film "Chang" at the Plaza, when gramophone records taken of animal noises at the London Zoo amplified on a Graham Amplion installation materially assisted the presentation.

MUSICAL DIRECTORS' ASSOCIATION.

In the world of kinema music, the most important happening is the formation, following a series of meetings in London and various provincial centres, of a Kinema Musical Directors' Association within the Faculty of Arts, with Louis Levy as president and Moreton Hutcheson as secretary. These meetings have focused attention to the need for the re-drafting of the form of musical cue sheets, of which there has been much criticism, among them being the complaint that new films were too closely fitted, the setting being unsuitable for small provincial orchestras. It was urged that alternative cue sheets should be provided, and that as soon as practical musical scores should be sent out with each film.

The appearance of Sir Landon Ronald as musical director of "Faust" at its Albert Hall screening was a musical event and led to the discussion in the lay Press of the merits of the kinema orchestra. In a speech to the "Bumpers," Sir Landon Ronald suggested there should be some liaison between the music and the art of production, and that more attention should be paid to the use of the old masters. The difficulties of these suggestions were convincingly pointed out by George Antoney, of the Stoll P.H. In November another eminent musician, Sir Edward Elgar, conducted at the Plaza Trade show of "Land of Hope and Glory." In March many kinemas celebrated with appropriate programmes the Beethoven Centennial, which was drawn attention to in the Kine. columns by Sir Hugh Allen.

Song tie-ups have become very popular and are largely used as prologues. "Charmaine," the song of "What Price Glory," published by Worton David, has won success even in circles wider than the kinema industry.

FURNISHING.

Much of the popularity the kinema has attained is due to the appreciation by early kinema proprietors of the importance of administering to the creature comforts of the patrons. And distinct from over-lavishness of decoration, it has been the aim of builders of modern picture theatres to impart, so far as is possible, a de-luxe atmosphere to their halls. The most direct way to achieve this is to pay attention to seating, which, after all, is the prime essential that makes for a satisfied patronage. Thanks to the enterprise of manufacturers of furnishings, the demand made upon them for comfortable seating at an economical price has been more than fulfilled even when resources have been so strained as in the past boom year. In the van of this movement was the well-known firm of George Pixton and Co., Ltd., who some three years ago turned their attention to massed production of high-class seating. For wide range of choice this firm, which has been responsible for the furnishing of many of the largest halls, has earned a big reputation. The widespread use of the productions of H. Lazarus and Son indicates the truth of their claims to have solved the problem of chair comfort for their clients. Among London halls, the New Gallery is an excellent example of this firm's craftsmanship. The sponge rubber chair seat, to which reference was made last year, has now been placed on the market by Hamptons under the name of the "St. George" chair. In addition to the resiliency of the seat, the standards are fitted with spring shock absorbers. It is handsome in appearance and gives unique comfort.

The lengthy list of contracts obtained by Beck and Windibank is a sure indication of the progressive outlook of the kinema proprietor in these matters. "Beckwin" products enjoy a high reputation for quality and thoroughness in manufacture. A remarkable record has been established by W. W. Turner and Co., the Birmingham furnishers, who report a boom year, during nine months of which over 24,000 had been ordered. Since 1891 L. B. Lockwood and Co. have been adding to their reputation as theatre furnishers. One recent contract for P.C.T. alone amounted to 5,000 chairs. Special attention is paid to curtains, stage draperies, etc.

The new chair mentioned in last year's "Year Book" as having been devised by Waring and Gillow has been still further improved, and it has been found possible to lower the cost, owing to the enormous demand for it. At the Rialto, Liverpool, they supplied all the carpets and completely decorated and furnished the café and ball-room. Theatre Equipment, Ltd., are another progressive firm, whose furnishing products are characterised by style and finish. Their latest chair, the "Rialto," combines luxury with reasonable price. Whitaker and Co., of Scarborough, report an exceedingly busy year. They specialise in every department of theatre furnishing, and the many important contracts which they have carried out during the year proves the appreciation the large number of exhibitors have for the high quality goods of this firm.

In addition to those named above several firms, such as Edward Light and Co., and J. Collins and Sons, Ltd., have paid particular attention to the needs of cafés and lounges. For over 30 years "Pollodium" ware has been noted for appearance and wear-resisting qualities, and in the "Jaycol" range chairs and tables are supplied in colours to accord with architects' colour schemes.

TICKET MACHINES.

Speed in issuing tickets is a prime essential of the modern large capacity theatre. It goes a long way to abolishing the queue problem. Automatic ticket has made wonderful strides during the year, thanks to Percy Phillipson's energy in popularising this admirable system of automatic ticket issuing and registering. The Accurate Check-Taker's new ticket issuing machine has proved its value wherever an alternative is required to the famous check-issuing instrument. A British invention, this has proved both speedy and accurate. The fact that over 24 million tickets were issued by the Rolltic at Wembley shows the expediency and control with which this machine handles tickets. Other of its advantages which appeal to exhibitors are the small space it occupies and that neither electricity nor motor is necessary. The Rolltic has achieved great popularity abroad, especially in Australia, rights of which have been acquired by J. C. Williamson, the prominent antipodean manager who recently placed orders for 108 complete machines. Another very satisfactory machine is the Express, which is designed for check issuing and registering. Made by W. T. Ellison & Co., of Manchester, it is trustworthy and dependable.

VENTILATION.

Important strides have been made in the heating and ventilation of kinemas. In accordance with the L.C.C. regulations, the plenum system has been adopted in the majority of new picture theatres. In this system the atmosphere of the hall is maintained slightly above barometric pressure of the air, the purified air being pumped in almost at audience level and extracted at the roof. During the past year, however, the down-draught system has been recognised by the authorities. By this method "conditioned" air is forced in at a high level and extracted at the floor, a system which has been largely adopted in the super theatres of America. It is sponsored in this country by the Carrier Engineering Company, whose system has been installed at the Carlton Theatre, Haymarket, London, and the new West Ham 'Broadway' now being built for Phil Hyams. In the Carrier "conditioning" system, the correct relative humidity is achieved. All fresh air is washed automatically. In the summer a centrifugal refrigerating machine is used. In view of the fire regulations an arrangement is installed which permits of the reverse of the air movement in the event of fire. At the Cameo, Leicester Square, the heating arrangement is by means of electric-heating panels fixed in the ceiling. These are controlled at will from the intake room adjoining the projection room.

Mention should be made of the very efficient fog dispersing plant installed at the Gaumont studio by Hall and Kay, ventilating engineers; the outside air cannot get into the interior of the building where a plenum is always maintained without passing through a special filter cleaner, owing to the inside pressure. It is equally applicable to the kinema.

In the older halls, where ventilation requires improvement, it is to be achieved by the use of the "Ultrazone" apparatus, which, installed in the trunking of the various forced draught systems, affords a complete germicide, a powerful deodorant and quickly renders a vitiated atmosphere sweet. Protection from influenza and all infectious germs is afforded by various vaporisers, such as the Pure-Air-Fan, and the Palmash Atomiser, the Omni Vaporiser is efficient and simple and needs only plugging-in to any electric light circuit. Current consumption is negligible and the vaporisers will last for years.

OBITUARY.

The death took place early in the year of two well-known figures in the technical and equipment sides. Israal Davis, chairman of Dallmeyer Ltd., the well-known lens manufacturers, died at the age of 79. And James S. Lyon, who was the principal of the studio and stage furnishers of the same name, died in January in his 74th year. The business, which was founded in Holborn over a century ago, is being carried on by his son.

Data for Kinematograph Technicians.

AN ALL-ROUND DEVELOPER FOR TOPICALS.

(NEGATIVES AND POSITIVES.)

Metol 3 oz., Hydroquinone 1 lb., Pot. Metabisulphite 2 oz., Citric Acid 2 oz., Pot. Bromide $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., Soda Sulphite (cryst.) 4 lb., Soda Carbonate (cryst.) 2 lb., Water 65 pints.

Developing temperature 65 to 75 F. (The warmer temperature only in the case of under-exposed negatives.) This bath is extremely quick working, development being complete in 2 to 3 minutes.—(From "The Handbook of Kinematography.")

TO KEEP LENS GLASSES FROM STEAMING.

Rub on them lightly a very little spermaceti wax, and polish it off well with a clean dry silk rag. A better way is to dissolve the wax in a small quantity of benzine, drop a single drop of the benzine-wax solution on a clean silk and with the silk proceed to polish over the lens glass. The polished glass must not show any visible trace of wax upon its surface, or the definition of the picture thrown by the lens will be injured.

A FINE SURFACE FOR SCRATCH-IN ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Mix together equal parts of artists' liquid Indian ink and strong liquid gum arabic. Clean $3\frac{1}{4}$ by $3\frac{1}{4}$ glass plates thoroughly, first in soda solution, then under the tap, dry them without touching the surface with the fingers, and coat one side of each with the Indian ink-gum mixture till it is just opaque. Allow to dry naturally. The prepared announcement slides may afterwards be stored indefinitely. Before writing on them with the needle or graver, breathe over the surface, and the finest lines may then be put in without a suspicion of flaking.

ORDINARY FILM CEMENT.

Amyl Acetate 4 oz., Acetone 6 oz.

This may either be used as it is, in which case the cement will be a thin fluid with not much more body in it than water, or it may be thickened to any desired extent by dissolving it in celluloid chips. Celluloid film base from which the gelatine coating has been cleaned off will serve.

A RECOMMENDED FORMULA FOR NON-FLAM FILM CEMENT.

(From "The Guide to Kinematography.")

Cellulose Acetate 1 oz., Acetone 14 oz., Amyl Acetate $1\frac{1}{2}$ oz., Xylol 3 oz.

Non-flam film varies so much according to the maker that it is impossible to say, without trial, which of the three above formulæ will be most suitable in any particular user's hands.

UNIVERSAL FILM CEMENT.

Acetone	3 oz.
Amyl acetate	2 oz.
Glacial Acetic acid	2 oz.

Shake well before using. This cement will stick either ordinary or non-flam film, and some workers find it possible to use it without scraping the lap, though this is not recommended as a general rule.

GROUND GLASS VARNISH FOR ELECTRIC LAMPS.

Dip the lamps (which should be small and of the vacuum type) in the following solution, which must be made up by adding the various constituents in the order stated:—

Commercial ether	1 pint.
Gum sandarac	2 oz.
Gum mastic	$\frac{1}{2}$ oz.
Benzole	$\frac{1}{2}$ pint.

Do not add the benzole until the gums are completely dissolved in the ether, and on no account use heat for the solution, or let the ether come near to a naked light. Cork up tightly when not being used. The lamps must not be warm when dipped, or the varnish coating will dry bright on the glass instead of with a matt finish.

MATT SOLUTION WITH WATER BASE.

Use a cold, saturated solution in water of Epsom salts, dip lamps and hang up to dry in a warm place. This matt surface stands heat fairly well, but is removed at once by washing.

WASHING THE GEARS.

Dust, pieces of metal, and other obstacles are attracted and stick to the gear, in time forming hard cakes which render the working jumpy and far from easy. It is advisable occasionally to clear these gears by soaking well in kerosene, paraffin, or benzine.

THE RATIO OF CURRENT TO RESISTANCE IN A CIRCUIT.

Divide the voltage of the supply by the amperes required, and the result will give the resistance in ohms. Conversely, if the supply voltage is divided by the resistance in ohms, the result will give the current in amperes flowing through the conductor. The above facts form a part of what is known in electrical parlance as "Ohm's Law." The equivalent electrical formulæ are:

Let V stand for voltage or potential difference.

" C " " current.

" R " " resistance

$$\text{Then } R = \frac{V}{C} \text{ and } C = \frac{V}{R}$$

When calculating out resistance for an arc lamp circuit (D.C.) on the above formula it must be remembered that the arc itself possesses a back voltage varying from 35 to 50 or more volts according to the current taken. For kinematograph projection purposes this back voltage may conveniently be reckoned as 45. Thus the rule for computing resistance in the case of a kine. arc will be: Deduct 45 from the line voltage (represented as "V" in the above formulæ), and proceed to apply "Ohm's Law":

$$R = \frac{V-45}{C}, \text{ etc.}$$

where "V" still represents total line voltage

FIREPROOFING SOLUTIONS FOR FABRIC.

Dissolve in 5 pints of hot water, alum 8 oz., ammonium carbonate $2\frac{1}{2}$ oz., borax 2 oz., boric acid $1\frac{1}{2}$ oz.

Alternatively, use the following solution :—

Boric acid	1 oz.
Ammonium phosphate	8 oz.
Water	5 pints.

Materials to be fireproofed should be dipped into the solution, or sprayed over with it applied hot with a sprayer or a fine rose-nozzled garden syringe. The treatment does not prevent the fabric charring when subjected to flame, but does prevent it taking fire and so increasing the conflagration.

A COATING FOR PROJECTION SCREENS.

Cut up a pound of ordinary scrubbing soap into thin small pieces, pour on to it a pint of hot water and keep the mixture hot and well stirred until the soap is all dissolved. Then mix with two pounds of best white oil paint to which a trace of blue may with advantage be added, just sufficient to neutralise the faint yellow tinge of the mixture. Strain through flannel or through fine mesh brass gauze. The dressing will be found suitable for re-surfacing screens which have to be rolled up when not in use. To remove any tendency of the coating to dry shiny, it should be stippled over when tacky with a dry badger-hair brush. Another and rather easier way to take the whole of the shine of the screen surface is to let it dry without stippling, and then apply a coat of white turpentine "flattening" similarly made flexible by mixing with strong soap solution.

GAS FUEL DATA.

A British Thermal Unit (B.Th.U.) is the quantity of heat required to raise one pound of pure water from 32° to 33° Fahrenheit.

CALORIFIC VALUE OF VARIOUS GASES.

Good coal gas	650 B.Th.U. to the cubic foot
Water gas	400 B.Th.U. to the cubic foot.
Producer gas	150 B.Th.U. to the cubic foot.
Blast furnace gas	100 B.Th.U. to the cubic foot.

Gas with a less calorific value than 100 British Thermal Units to the cubic foot is generally unsuitable as fuel for internal combustion engines.

To find the correct size of gas meter for a gas engine :—Multiply the rated horse-power of the gas engine by 3.4, and add 5 to the answer. The figure so found represents the number of "lights" which the correct sized meter would be intended to serve if used in a lighting installation.

Average gas consumption in town gas engines.—This depends upon quality of the gas. With good gas an engine should consume from 18 to 25 cubic feet for each brake horse-power hour, gas consumption becoming more economical with increase in the size of the engine.

A GOOD POSITIVE DEVELOPER.

Soda Sulphite (cryst.) 6 lb. 10 oz., Soda Carbonate (cryst.) 3 lb. 2 oz., Metol 180 grains, Hydroquinone 8 oz., Pot. Bromide 1 oz. 63 grains, Citric Acid 400 grains, Pot. Metabisulphite 2 oz., Water 67 pints.

Dissolve the ingredients in the same general order and manner as in the case of the negative developer above. Use the bath at a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit.—(Kodak Formula.)

BRIGHT DIP FOR COPPER AND BRASS.

Dilute strong nitric acid with two-thirds of its volume of water, and to each five pints of solution add one ounce of ordinary table salt. The dip is instantly ruinous to clothes, and may cause painful wounds on the flesh, so must be handled with great care. The right way to bright-dip an article is to attach it to a piece of copper wire and lower it into the dip momentarily, removing it at once and rinsing in plenty of running water. Repeat this if necessary. Slow, over-prolonged dipping gives the metal a matt instead of a bright surface. To prevent unduly rapid oxidation follow the water rinse with a second dip in a bath of weak tartaric acid, then dry and lacquer at once.

FOCAL LENGTH OF LENSES.

To find the focal length of two not over widely separated lenses, multiply their focal lengths together and divide the product by the sum of the focal lengths less the distance between the lenses. The formula is:—

$$\text{Focal length to be found} = \frac{f_1 \times f_2}{f_1 + f_2 - d} \text{ where } d = \text{lens separation.}$$

TO FIND SUPPLEMENTARY LENS FOCUS.

To find what focus of supplementary lens will be needed to alter to a given amount the focus of a lens at present in use, multiply the focal length to be altered by the focal length wanted, and divide by the original focal length less the final focal length. To reduce focal length, use a positive (convex) lens. To increase focal length use a minus (concave) lens, and carry the minus sign into the formula. Putting the rule into a formula, where f_1 equals original focal length, f_2 required focal length of supplementary lens, and F the final focal length desired, then:—

$$f_2 = \frac{f_1 \times F}{f_1 - F}$$

PICTURE MAKING.

STUDIO AND LABORATORY APPARATUS.

MAKERS of studio and laboratory apparatus, no less than producers, have benefited by the Government's decision to introduce the quota legislation, and the large increase in British production and the reorganisation of technical equipment has led to much activity among apparatus manufacturers. Among the year's innovations are several from W. Vinten, who has introduced a new tripod on the gyroscopic principle, in which movement of a single lever secures all or any direction of the camera, which is rendered absolutely vibration or jerk proof, and the shooting of all swift movement with long-focus lenses. Other of Vinten's new specialities are a ball socket stand, which holds a camera at any angle in a confined space, and a portable 400 ft. flat rewriter for negative reels. The double lens panel system is another adjunct for the cameraman, enabling him to frame and focus the lenses before and during his shot.

A great deal of interest was shown in an ingenious double lens camera invented by W. C. Jeapes. It consists of a small attachment by which it is possible to alter the focal length while shooting, without the loss of a single frame and without interruption of continuity. No mechanical details have been published.

During the shooting of Passion Island, Manning Haynes used a clever device to indicate the view point of the contestants in a struggle between two men. An "Eymo" automatic was fixed on an attachment which the actor to be photographed fixed on his body, the lens towards him, so that every facial expression appropriate to the action was thus recorded.

The well-known DeVry portable is now being handled in England by J. H. Dallmeyer & Son. While taking standard films it only weighs 9 lb. It is fitted with spring device for 100 ft. of film and with F3/5 lens. The price is £45. The new spring device kine cameras, invented by Arthur S. Newman, is in considerable demand in British studios, and also in America. It was described in these pages last year.

TRICK PHOTOGRAPHY.

One of the most interesting developments of Studio technique in England has been the adoption, in January, by British International, of the Schüfftan process of trick photography. In this process it is possible to mix photographs of any desired location with studio shots of persons. Briefly, the principle is that a mirror is placed between the camera and the main thing to be shot; by removing the silver from part of the mirror a clean space is formed. Arranged at an angle of 45 deg. to this main mirror are others that throw upon it pictures taken previously, so that they harmonise with the direct shot photographed through the desilvered glass. The process was used in connection with Madame Pompadour, but the first screened example of its use in this country was that of the Albert Hall boxing in "The Ring," a marvellously fine shot that deceived many critics.

In America an interesting innovation was tried out by Paramount in "Hotel Imperial," for which Maurice Stiller utilised four-walled sets, thus ensuring no break in continuity of movement or gesture among the actors, and eliminating drastic changes in perspective, due to the camera having to be specially set for each take. Used in conjunction with easy lateral and vertical movement of the camera, as a whole the effect proved exceedingly convincing.

A special department for trick photography and titling has recently been instituted by E. Groc of Old Compton Street.

LENSES.

As regards camera lenses, the year has brought little that was new save that described at the last Optical Convention, with the exception of the Dallmeyer 2 in. kine-objective lens, which working at the extraordinary aperture of F1.5 may be welcomed by the searcher after effects. The same firm was also responsible for a special 40 in. lens, the largest ever used in cinematography, which was utilised for the Kine photographs of the eclipse. Full details of the wonderful achievements of the Taylor Hobson lenses on the Mount Everest expedition have been made public by Capt. Noel. The final assault was filmed with the Taylor Hobson Telephoto lens and Newman-Sinclair camera at 22,000 ft. at a range of two miles.

Many of the recently formed British film producing companies have specified large aperture Taylor-Hobson lenses for production of most of the recent films, while the leading makers of projection machines are specifying Taylor-Hobson projection lenses. The Paramount organisation have stated that they had standardised the remarkable Series of F/2 Cooke lens on all of their cinematograph cameras.

A new product of Dallmeyer's is the F/3.5 Ultra Speed Dallon Telephoto lenses for standard Kine. cameras, which are manufactured in six focal lengths.

Among motion picture cameramen there has occurred a reaction in favour of lenses whose moderate apertures around F3 or F3.5 give the manufacturer a chance to produce an objective reasonably free from unhappy tendencies, such as coma, flare, etc., which lie in wait for the users of freak aperture lenses, the operation of which, under the difficult conditions of the studio, leave so much to be desired.

STUDIO LIGHTING.

If the many studio plans now in the air come to anything purveyors of lighting, laboratory and other studio equipment may anticipate a busy time during the next twelve months. In view of the wide attention being paid to production illumination the introduction by Peeling and Van Neck, of the large range of Jupiter studio lamps, places at the disposal of British producers, the same lighting methods that are in use at the UFA studios in Berlin. A complete studio installation of Jupiter lamps, sufficient to light two floors each 90 ft. by 120 ft. is available for something in the neighbourhood of £5,000. This sum represents the outlay on about 50 lamps of varying calibre, for specific purposes. The Jupiter Sun is claimed to provide the nearest available equivalent to natural sunlight. It gives a pure white light of extraordinary intensity, of the highest actinic quality. For concentrated light, rear lighting or Den effects these lamps are to be recommended.

KALEE PROJECTORS
OVER 800 INSTALLATIONS IN THE LAST 12 MONTHS

A searchlight arc of the greatest capacity and reliability is made by the London Electric firm, whose latest portable 24 in. studio projector is specially designed for concentrated, diffused and wide angle lighting. The photographic quality of the light is ideal and the quantity is easily varied as occasion demands. Concentration is obtained by a silvered glass mirror and for softening a diffuser is provided: A simple focus gear increases or curtails the illuminated area. Special provision is made for a large uniformly illumined field. A special spot-light designed for spot or diffused effects and for back lighting is another useful product of this firm.

Much attention has been directed during the year to the use of gas-filled lamps in studio lighting. This was first adopted in the States by Warner Bros., whose picture "The First Auto" was the initial medium of the new lighting system. Since then other American companies have used these lights in conjunction with higher sensitive panchromatic film. It is claimed that a far more perfect rendering of colour values is obtainable, and the use of make-up is rendered unnecessary as is all danger to artists for "Kleig" eyes. In addition there is said to be an enormous saving in current, and owing to simplicity of control, again in unobstructed floor space. Over here for close-ups and other intimate work, the incandescent lamp will doubtless make its influence felt. Banks of these lamps built up by S. G. Double, the chief engineer at Elstree, were used on "Madame Pompadour" for close-up work, but, generally speaking, the difficulties and cost of scrapping existing equipment would involve so many drastic changes that for the moment it seems not to be contemplated by British producers. At all events, the use of spot arcs for back lighting seems essential, but for the moment it appears that much more definite knowledge will have to be acquired on the subject before the white flame is finally displaced.

In the meantime researches are being made into the possibilities of incandescent lamps for studio work, by many firms. Gas-filled Mazda lamps similar to those used in America, are well known over here as the speciality of the British Thomson-Houston, Co., Ltd. The G.E.C. engineers are also experimenting in this direction at Elstree and on the result extensive developments are anticipated. Royal "Ediswan" projector type lamps are also the outcome of much laboratory experiment and research, all of which doubtless, in the future, will be of considerable assistance to studio technicians.

LABORATORY EXTENSIONS.

The laboratory side of the studio has made considerable strides during the past year, equipment have been brought up to date, as at Shepherd's Bush and Cricklewood, and at Elstree, new laboratories are in course of construction. The latest Vinten auto-developing unit for offset or straight-line type has an output of 1,750 feet per hour and gives work of a constant quality. Any section can be given a 5 per cent. more or 5 per cent. less development than the preceeding section. It reduces quite 50 per cent. of joins necessary with 200 ft. frames, and the saving on waste alone is enormous. Hand cleaning is totally eliminated, and one expert developer and three amateurs can run six units, giving an output of 400,000 ft. in 45 hours, with developing time of 3½ minutes.

A NEW PRINTER.

The House of Moy announce the marketing of a new Rotary Printing Machine in the near future. This model will be offered alternatively to their existing flat gate, step-by-step model, which, like the new "Moy" dissolving shutter camera, is still very popular. In addition they will also be placing on the market a new automatic light change which has been evolved for use with either of the above printing machines. It claims to be an advance on all existing types and the full specification of both the rotary printer and the light change are awaited with considerable interest by the Trade.

The London Film Company and The Williamson Film Laboratories, are situated at Barnet. The plant comprises the latest Debie printing machines, and up to date automatic film developing, fixing, washing and drying machines all in one unit, and each unit handles 3,000 feet at a time. There has been installed a new machine dealing with the cleaning of negatives before they go through the printing machines.

CRICKLEWOOD LABORATORIES.

Mention should be made of the very modernly equipped laboratories at the Stoll Cricklewood Studios, which are available for outside work in addition to the studio output. The Stoll laboratories, under charge of the skilled technician D. Levy, are available for all classes of developing and printing of the finest quality, at trade prices. The latest Debie automatic plant is capable of turning out 5,000 feet an hour. New machinery, most of it exclusive to the Stoll organisation, develops, rinses, boxes, washes, dries and winds the film without it being touched by hand.

Apart from the use of this important installation for outside work, its existence at the studio enormously enhances the facilities to the producer's hand. The advantage is obvious of testing on the spot, especially as regards the photographic quality of sets.

MOUNTING THE PRODUCTION.

The mounting of a film is a most important factor and the producer is fortunate who has to his hands a reliable firm who can meet an instant demand for period furnishings and draperies. There is no firm better equipped in this direction than James S. Lyon, Ltd., who were established 115 years ago. They have been responsible for the furnishing of practically every important stage and film production within recent years. Their High Holborn premises have an area of over 100,000 c.f. and seven floors stacked almost ceiling high with furniture, carpets, and hangings of every conceivable style and period, from early Egyptian to modern days. Any interior from a cottage to a castle can be furnished, often in actual antiques, and at a moment's notice. Daily additions to the stock are being made from America and the Continent. With these facilities it is no wonder that among film studios Mr. Lyon's clients are 100 per cent. strong.
